Eisenhower Becomes 34th U. S. President As Millions Watch TV, Hear Him on Radio

At Inaugural

Marine Pfc. Joseph J. Qualtere, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Qualtere, 11 Abeel street, is serving with the Presidential Guard Detachment of the world renowned Marine Corps precision drill team at Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C. Recently, he toured the east coast with this unit which terminated its travels by participating in the New Year's Orange Bowl football festivities at Miami, Fla.

Pfc. Qualtere enlisted in the marines in January 1952 and was assigned to the Presidential Guard Detachment on completion of basic training. He was graduated from Kingston High School in June 1951.

'We Who Are Free Must Proclaim Anew Our Faith'

(Text of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Inaugural Address)

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The text of the inaugural address of President Dwight D. Eisenhower:

My fellow citizens:

The world and we have passed the midway point of a century of continuing challenge. We sense with all our facilities that forces of good and evil are massed and armed and opposed as rarely before in history.

This fact defines the meaning of this day. We are summoned, by this honored and historic ceremony, to witness more than the act of one citizen swearing his oath of service, in the presence of his God. We are called as a people, to give testimony, in the sight of the world, to our faith that the future shall belong to the free.

A Time of Tempest

Since this century's beginning, a time of tempest has seemed to come upon the continents of the earth. Masses of Asia have wakened to strike off shackles of the past. Great nations of Europe have waged their bloodiest wars. Thrones have toppled and their vast empires have disappeared. New nations have been born.

For our own country, it has been a time of recurring trial. We have grown in power and in responsibility. We have passed through the anxieties of depression and of war to a summit unmatched in man's history. Seeking to secure peace in the world, we have had to fight through the forests of the Argonne to the shores of Iwo Jima, and to the mountain peaks of Korea.

Find Ourselves Groping

In the swift rush of great events, we find ourselves groping to know the full sense and meaning of the times in which we live. In our quest of understanding, we beseech God's guidance. We summon all our knowledge of the past and we scan all signs of the future. We bring all our wit and will to meet the question: How far have we come in man's long pilgrimage from darkness toward light? Are we nearing the light—a day of freedom and of peace for all mankind? Or are the shadows of another night closing in upon us?

Great as are the preoccupations absorbing us at home, concerned as we are with matters that deeply affect our livlihood today and our vision of the future, each of these domestic problems is dwarfed by, and often even created by, this question that involves all human kind.

Surpasses All Ages

This trial comes at a moment when man's power to achieve good or to inflict evil surpasses the brightest hopes and the sharpest fears of all ages. We can turn rivers in their courses, level mountains to the plains. Ocean and land and sky are avenues for our colossal commerce. Disease diminishes and life lengthens.

Yet the promise of this life is imperilled by the very genius that has made it possible. Nations amass wealth. Labor sweats to create—and turns out devices to level not only mountains but also cities. Science seems ready to confer upon us, as its final gift, the power to erase human life from the earth.

At such a time in history, we who are free must proclaim anew our faith.

This faith is the abiding creed of our fathers. It is our faith in the deathless dignity of man, governed by eternal moral and natural laws.

Faith Defines Views

This faith defines our full view of life. It establishes, beyond debate, those gifts of the creator that are man's inalienable rights, and that make all men equal in his sight!

In the light of this equality, we know that the virtues most cherished by free people—love of truth, pride of work, devotion to country—all are treasures equally precious in the lives of the most humble and of the most exalted. The men who mine coal and fire furnaces and balance ledgers and turn lathes and pick cotton and heal the sick and plant corn—all serve as proudly, and as profitably, for America as the statesmen who draft treaties or the legislators who enact laws.

Dwight David Eisenhower

"I (Dwight D. Eisenhower) do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

This faith rules our whole way of life. It decrees that we, the people, elect leaders not to rule but to serve. It asserts that we have the right to choice of our own work and to the reward of our own toil. It inspires the initiative that makes our productivity the wonder of the world. And it warns that any man who seeks to deny equality in all his brothers betrays the spirit of the free and invites the mockery of the tyrant.

Strengthening of Dedication

It is because we, all of us, hold to these principles that the political changes accomplished this day do not imply turbulence, upheaval or disorder. Rather this change expresses a purpose of strengthening our dedication and devotion to the precepts of our founding documents, a conscious renewal of faith in our country and in the watchfulness of a divine providence.

The enemies of this faith know no God but force, no devotion but its use. They tutor men in treason. They feed upon the hunger of others. Whatever defies them, they torture, especially the truth.

Here, then, is joined no pallid argument between slightly differing philosophies. This conflict strikes directly at the faith of our fathers and the lives of our sons. No principle or treasurer that we hold, from the spiritual knowledge of our free schools and churches to the creative magic of free labor and capital, nothing lies safely beyond the reach of the struggle.

Faith Against Slavery

Freedom is pitted against slavery; light against dark.

The faith we hold belongs not to us alone but to the free of all the world. This common bond binds the grower of rice in Burma and the planter of wheat in Iowa, the shepherd in southern Italy and the mountaineer in the Andes. It confers a common dignity upon the French soldier who dies in Indo-China, the British soldier killed in Malaya, the American life given in Korea.

We know, beyond this, that we are linked to all free peoples not merely by a noble idea but by a simple need. No free people can for long cling to any privilege or enjoy any safety in economic solitude. For all our own material might, even we need markets in the world for the surpluses of our farms and of our factories. Equally, we need for these same farms and factories vital materials and products of distant lands. This basic law of interdependence, so manifest in the commerce of peace, applies with thousandfold intensity in the event of war.

Strength Is in Unity

So are we persuaded by necessity and by belief that the strength of all free peoples lies in unity, their danger in discord.

To produce this unity, to meet the challenge of our time, destiny has laid upon our country the responsibility of the free world's leadership. So it is proper that we assure our friends once again that, in the discharge of this responsibility, we Americans know and observe the difference between world leadership and imperialism; between firmness and truculence; between a thoughtfully calculated goal and spasmodic reaction to the stimulus of emergencies.

We wish our friends the world over to know this above all: we face the threat—not with dread and confusion—but with confidence and conviction.

We feel this moral strength because we know that we are not helpless prisoners of history. We are free men. We shall remain free, never to be proven guilty of the one capital offense against freedom, a lack of staunch faith.

Guided by Principles

In pleading our just cause before the bar of history and in pressing our labor for world peace, we shall be guided by certain fixed principles.

Principles Are Cited

These principles are:

(1) Abhorring war as a chosen way to talk the purposes of those who threaten us, we hold it to be the first task of statesmanship to develop the strength that will deter the forces of aggression and promote the conditions of peace. For, as it must be the supreme purpose of all free men, so it must be the dedication of their leaders, to save humanity from preying upon itself.

In the light of this principle, we stand ready to engage with any and all others in joint effort

Capital Is Jammed for Ceremonies

Ike Takes Solemn Oath to Lead Country in Trying Office With World in Turmoil

Goal Is Peace

Family, Cabinet Attend Church Praying for Guidance

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Dwight David Eisenhower became the 34th President of the United States today.

Right hand upraised, the 62-year-old citizen soldier took on the power and responsibility of the world's most trying office with the simple, 37-word oath administered to all presidents—to "faithfully execute the office x x preserve, protect and defend the Constitution."

In his immediate audience at the capitol ceremony were the members of Congress, top officials of the old and new administrations, foreign diplomats and thousands of invited guests.

Millions of others in the United States saw and heard the ceremony by television. Radio picked up his voice and carried it across the seas.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson administered the oath.

Richard M. Nixon was sworn in as vice president just before Eisenhower assumed his office. Sen. William Knowland of California administered the oath to him.

Uses Two Bibles

Eisenhower rested his left hand on two Bibles—one his own from West Point days, the other a testament used in George Washington's first inauguration—as he repeated the oath.

Standing by was Harry S. Truman from whom the nation's highest office passed to Eisenhower. In the traditional way, Truman and Eisenhower had ridden together from the White House to the capitol.

But only one would go back. Tonight, private citizen Truman leaves for his old home in Missouri.

So ended, in a solemn moment of recess from Republican merrymaking in the teeming, flag-draped capital, 20 years of "new deal-fair deal" rule.

Goal Is Peace

And so began what the new President has promised will be a great crusade for peace, for freedom, for integrity and for prosperity.

Eisenhower approached his high moment with a prayer to God for wisdom and understanding.

While hundreds of thousands in jam-packed Washington scrambled in the morning hours for vantage points to see the noon (EST) ceremony and the following parade, the 62-year-old soldier-statesman and his family went to religious services.

In a front pew of the National Presbyterian Church, Eisenhower bowed his head as the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson appealed to the Lord to "give therefore thy servant an understanding heart."

The minister prayed too that the General be granted "health of body, serenity of soul, clarity of insight, soundness of judgment and a lofty moral courage."

Watchman Says His Buddies Afraid To Stop Thieving

Begley, 69, Says Men Might Get Hurt —Says Arrests Not Made

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A watchman on a New York pier told the State Crime Commission today that watchmen are aware of pilfering from the docks but are afraid to stop it.

John Begley, 69, told the commission's probe of crime and racketeering along the New York waterfront that watchmen "have no authority" to make arrests and "to some extent, are afraid to do so."

"They might get hurt," he added.

Begley, employed on an Isthmian Steamship Company pier for the past seven years, said there have been many known instances of pilfering from piers each year.

No Arrests Resulted

But no arrests result, even when cases are reported to superintendents, Begley said.

His testimony was one more stroke in a picture of terror and crime which the commission has been drawing in its study of conditions in the world's biggest port.

Yesterday the probers heard the story of a free-spending man unable to keep his AFL dock local out of the red although it collected $32,000 a year in dues.

Alex (The Ox) Di Brizzi, the union boss of all the busy piers on Staten Island, a sizable portion of the world's greatest harbor, gave the testimony.

Di Brizzi, vice president of the Atlantic District of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), was the highest ranking official of the ILA to testify publicly so far in the New York State Crime Commission probe of the waterfront.

Seven Men Killed, Four Are Missing

British Naval Captain Gives Account of Rescue of 10

Hong Kong, Jan. 20 (AP)—Seven men were killed and four are missing in the loss of two U. S. military planes, one to Chinese Red ground fire, in the Strait of Formosa, the captain of a British frigate said today.

Ten airmen were rescued by the Halsey Powell, a U. S. destroyer. Allied warships Monday abandoned search for the four missing men. Red shore guns fired at a U. S. destroyer taking part in the rescue operations, but it was not damaged.

Cmdr. John A. Hamer, captain of the Royal Navy frigate Morecambe Bay, said two men were killed when Red fire brought down a U. S. Navy Neptune patrol plane Sunday, six miles northeast of Swatow, a Red China port.

Tells Fate of Craft

Hamer said the other 11 Neptune crewmen were picked up by a U. S. coast guard mariner with a crew of eight. But the mariner hit a large wave while attempting to take off in rough seas, over-

Wilson's Chances Are Held Dim Unless He Gives Up GM Holdings

GOP Senator Says Quarter of Republicans and Nearly All Democrats Are Inclined to Vote Against His Confirmation

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Chances that the Senate will okay Charles E. Wilson as defense secretary in the new Eisenhower administration appeared today to be shrinking—unless he gives up his huge General Motors holdings.

A Republican senator who asked not to be named told this reporter an informal survey indicated that at least one-fourth of the 48 Senate Republicans and nearly all of the 47 Democrats are now inclined to vote against confirmation.

Eight other Eisenhower cabinet appointees and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, chosen for Federal Security Administrator, seemed likely to go into office today with the new President-elect.

The Senate planned to meet shortly after the inauguration to approve other cabinet choices. That was the only Capitol Hill business scheduled today.

Even if the names of Wilson and four prospective Defense Department aides are formally submitted by Eisenhower, they will be referred to the Armed Services Committee for a hearing tomorrow.

At that hearing Wilson will get a chance, if he wishes, to alter his previous testimony that he would not dispose of 2½ million dollars in stock, a yearly pension and a retirement bonus from General Motors. He also could change his previous declaration that he would not disqualify himself from dealing with the motor firm when questions involving it come before the secretary of defense. Wilson was GM president.

Lone Officer Ends Holdup Attempt; 6 Of Seven Captured

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—An alleged attempt by a seven-man gang to loot a fashionable Manhattan hotel was stymied early today by a lone patrolman who daringly challenged the gang.

A short time later, six of the seven were arrested as police quickly threw a cordon around the block and started a building-by-building search.

Patrolman Thomas Shore was credited with preventing what police said was a well-planned attempt to rob the Hotel Croydon at East 86th street and Madison avenue.

Police gave this account:

Shore happened into the hotel lobby just as the gang had forced two night employes into a side office. He opened fire on the intruders, who exchanged his shots.

Robber Is Injured

Despite the hail of bullets, the only injury was to one of the alleged robbers who suffered a broken ankle as he tried to escape by jumping from a second-floor window.

Six of the men had entered the hotel while one remained behind as a lookout. They carried three large bags filled with burglar tools.

One of the group brandished a gun and ordered the night manager, Donald Rae, 50, of the Bronx, and the elevator operator, Patrick Donofrio, 32, also of the Bronx, into the side office.

It was then that Shore happened on the scene. There was the exchange of shots, Shore emptying his pistol.

Makes His Escape

While his companions scattered, the lookout scampered for Central Park and made good his escape. Shore fired three shots after

Atwood Man Gets Award of $45,000

Alfred Rose Was Hurt In Accident at Marbletown

Alfred Rose of Atwood was awarded $45,000 for injuries which he suffered in an accident in the town of Marbletown on October 30, 1951, when a truck he was operating and an oil truck owned by Walter Davenport Sons and driven by Raymond Davis were in collision. Reginald L. Howland, a passenger, was also awarded $15,000 for injuries which he sustained. Both verdicts were against Davenport and Davis.

Caught in Cab

The accident happened about 9:45 a. m. in the town of Marbletown. Rose was caught in the cab of his truck and rescue efforts took an hour and a half before the cab could be pried and cut away to release him. He sustained a fractured pelvis and other injuries which confined him to a hospital for a long time. Following the accident he remained in an unconscious condition for several days. Howland received a fracture of the wrist and other injuries.

Army Asks 53,000 Be Drafted in March

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The army wants 53,000 men called through selective service in March—and the Defense Department has indicated monthly calls may continue at about that level through June.

The army draft call was issued late yesterday. The figure is the same as that announced for February and compares with 48,000 in January, 47,000 for each of the three preceding months and 30,000 in September.

Hurd Says State Salaries Are Higher

Budget Director Declares Pay Has Outstripped Outside Salaries

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's budget director, standing firm against a pay raise for state workers, said today that "state salaries have outstripped both the cost of living and 'outside' salaries since 1946."

Director T. Norman Hurd detailed the administration's stand after Richard H. Balch, the Democratic state chairman, had termed the administration's rejection of a wage boost "arrogant, arbitrary, highhanded and unjustified."

Balch said last night Democratic leaders would sponsor a new cost-of-living increase for the state's 70,000 workers. He estimated it would cost from 15 to 20 million dollars a year.

Contained in Letter

Hurd's arguments against a raise were contained in a letter to Jesse B. McFarland, president of the Civil Service Employes Association. McFarland said Sunday he was "deeply shocked" by Hurd's refusal to recommend a pay increase.

The battle over state workers'

Allied Drives Are Kept Up For Fifth Day

Seoul, Jan. 20 (AP)—Allied tanks, artillery and warplanes today unleashed another shattering barrage of high explosives on Communist positions across Korea. It marked the fifth straight day of stepped-up bombardment.

U. S. Patton tanks, firing from front line dugouts, blasted Red bunkers and trenches from Chorwon to Kumhwa in the Iron Triangle sector of the central front. The artillery joined in the thundering attack from farther back.

A heavy overcast blanketed most of North Korea but the U. S. Fifth Air Force said marine Skyraiders and South Korean Mustangs flew through the clouds in strafing and bombing strikes on the eastern front.

Brief Clashes Reported

American Sabre jets and Russian-made MIGs clashed briefly near the Suiho reservoir in northwest Korea. The air force said one Red warplane was raked by machine gun fire and fled smoking across the Yalu river.

Truman Will Leave Capital On Night Train for Missouri

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Retiring President Truman, content to rest the case for his administration with history, will leave Washington today after turning over the nation's leadership to a Republican.

The 68-year-old Democrat who fought from coast to coast in a futile attempt to stem the GOP tide in November, yielded with a smile on his face and a "God-speed" to his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower. That word was given in Truman's farewell State of the Union message to Congress.

Tonight, he heads back to Missouri to try his hand at loafing for awhile, perhaps pick out a new line of work and try to figure out a way for a party comeback.

He cleaned out his office desk at the White House at 4 p. m. yesterday—a desk at which he had served for nearly eight years of recurring crises—and walked over to the living quarters to spend his last night there as chief executive.

Nothing remained but to ride to

Americans, Russians Fence Daily Over Northern Japan

Tokyo, Jan. 20 (AP) — American and Russian jet pilots are fencing bloodlessly — and almost daily — over the frozen wastes of northern Japan, a U. S. general reported today in an interview.

Thus far they haven't tangled, but Maj. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey called the situation "tense and explosive."

Spivey fathered Japan's air defense—manned by U. S. pilots in U. S. planes—and commanded it 2½ years. He left today to take command of the 7.S. Central Air Defense Zone with headquarters at Kansas City.

He said the Russians have dozens of airfields on Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands—the closest only 13 second flying time from northeastern Kokkaido.

"We are watching them and they are watching us," Spivey said.

"When they fly we see them and when they head towards Japan that triggers off the air defense system."

U. S. jets streak into northern Hokkaido, Japan's snowbound, northernmost island, on frequent alerts.

Watchman Says His Buddies Afraid To Stop Thieving

Begley, 69, Says Men Might Get Hurt —Says Arrests Not Made

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A watchman on a New York pier told the State Crime Commission today that watchmen are aware of pilfering from the docks but are afraid to stop it.

John Begley, 69, told the commission's probe of crime and racketeering along the New York waterfront that watchmen "have no authority" to make arrests and "to some extent, are afraid to do so."

"They might get hurt," he added.

Begley, employed on an Isthmian Steamship Company pier for the past seven years, said there have been many known instances of pilfering from piers each year.

No Arrests Resulted

But no arrests result, even when cases are reported to superintendents, Begley said.

His testimony was one more stroke in a picture of terror and crime which the commission has been drawing in its study of conditions in the world's biggest port.

Yesterday the probers heard the story of a free-spending man unable to keep his AFL dock local out of the red although it collected $32,000 a year in dues.

Alex (The Ox) Di Brizzi, the union boss of all the busy piers on Staten Island, a sizable portion of the world's greatest harbor, gave the testimony.

Di Brizzi, vice president of the Atlantic District of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), was the highest ranking official of the ILA to testify publicly so far in the New York State Crime Commission probe of the waterfront.

Men Take Spotlight

Seven Men Killed, Four Are Missing

British Naval Captain Gives Account of Rescue of 10

Hong Kong, Jan. 20 (AP)—Seven men were killed and four are missing in the loss of two U. S. military planes, one to Chinese Red ground fire, in the Strait of Formosa, the captain of a British frigate said today.

Ten airmen were rescued by the Halsey Powell, a U. S. destroyer. Allied warships Monday abandoned search for the four missing men. Red shore guns fired at a U. S. destroyer taking part in the rescue operations, but it was not damaged.

Cmdr. John A. Hamer, captain of the Royal Navy frigate Morecambe Bay, said two men were killed when Red fire brought down a U. S. Navy Neptune patrol plane Sunday, six miles northeast of Swatow, a Red China port.

Tells Fate of Craft

Hamer said the other 11 Neptune crewmen were picked up by a U. S. coast guard mariner with a crew of eight. But the mariner hit a large wave while attempting to take off in rough seas, over-

Wilson's Chances Are Held Dim Unless He Gives Up GM Holdings

GOP Senator Says Quarter of Republicans and Nearly All Democrats Are Inclined to Vote Against His Confirmation

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Chances that the Senate will okay Charles E. Wilson as defense secretary in the new Eisenhower administration appeared today to be shrinking—unless he gives up his huge General Motors holdings.

A Republican senator who asked not to be named told this reporter an informal survey indicated that at least one-fourth of the 48 Senate Republicans and nearly all of the 47 Democrats are now inclined to vote against confirmation.

Eight other Eisenhower cabinet appointees and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, chosen for Federal Security Administrator, seemed likely to go into office today with the new President-elect.

The Senate planned to meet shortly after the inauguration to approve other cabinet choices. That was the only Capitol Hill business scheduled today.

Even if the names of Wilson and four prospective Defense Department aides are formally submitted by Eisenhower, they will be referred to the Armed Services Committee for a hearing tomorrow.

At that hearing Wilson will get a chance, if he wishes, to alter his previous testimony that he would not dispose of 2½ million dollars in stock, a yearly pension and a retirement bonus from General Motors. He also could change his previous declaration that he would not disqualify himself from dealing with the motor firm when questions involving it come before the secretary of defense. Wilson was GM president.

May Not Be Enough

Lone Officer Ends Holdup Attempt; 6 Of Seven Captured

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—An alleged attempt by a seven-man gang to loot a fashionable Manhattan hotel was stymied early today by a lone patrolman who daringly challenged the gang.

A short time later, six of the seven were arrested as police quickly threw a cordon around the block and started a building-by-building search.

Patrolman Thomas Shore was credited with preventing what police said was a well-planned attempt to rob the Hotel Croydon at East 86th street and Madison avenue.

Police gave this account:

Shore happened into the hotel lobby just as the gang had forced two night employes into a side office. He opened fire on the intruders, who exchanged his shots.

Robber Is Injured

Despite the hail of bullets, the only injury was to one of the alleged robbers who suffered a broken ankle as he tried to escape by jumping from a second-floor window.

Six of the men had entered the hotel while one remained behind as a lookout. They carried three large bags filled with burglar tools.

One of the group brandished a gun and ordered the night manager, Donald Rae, 50, of the Bronx, and the elevator operator, Patrick Donofrio, 32, also of the Bronx, into the side office.

It was then that Shore happened on the scene. There was the exchange of shots, Shore emptying his pistol.

Makes His Escape

While his companions scattered, the lookout scampered for Central Park and made good his escape. Shore fired three shots after

Atwood Man Gets Award of $45,000

Alfred Rose Was Hurt In Accident at Marbletown

Alfred Rose of Atwood was awarded $45,000 for injuries which he suffered in an accident in the town of Marbletown on October 30, 1951, when a truck he was operating and an oil truck owned by Walter Davenport Sons and driven by Raymond Davis were in collision. Reginald L. Howland, a passenger, was also awarded $15,000 for injuries which he sustained. Both verdicts were against Davenport and Davis.

Caught in Cab

The accident happened about 9:45 a. m. in the town of Marbletown. Rose was caught in the cab of his truck and rescue efforts took an hour and a half before the cab could be pried and cut away to release him. He sustained a fractured pelvis and other injuries which confined him to a hospital for a long time. Following the accident he remained in an unconscious condition for several days. Howland received a fracture of the wrist and other injuries.

Army Asks 53,000 Be Drafted in March

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The army wants 53,000 men called through selective service in March—and the Defense Department has indicated monthly calls may continue at about that level through June.

The army draft call was issued late yesterday. The figure is the same as that announced for February and compares with 48,000 in January, 47,000 for each of the three preceding months and 30,000 in September.

Hurd Says State Salaries Are Higher

Budget Director Declares Pay Has Outstripped Outside Salaries

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's budget director, standing firm against a pay raise for state workers, said today that "state salaries have outstripped both the cost of living and 'outside' salaries since 1946."

Director T. Norman Hurd detailed the administration's stand after Richard H. Balch, the Democratic state chairman, had termed the administration's rejection of a wage boost "arrogant, arbitrary, highhanded and unjustified."

Balch said last night Democratic leaders would sponsor a new cost-of-living increase for the state's 70,000 workers. He estimated it would cost from 15 to 20 million dollars a year.

Contained in Letter

Hurd's arguments against a raise were contained in a letter to Jesse B. McFarland, president of the Civil Service Employes Association. McFarland said Sunday he was "deeply shocked" by Hurd's refusal to recommend a pay increase.

The battle over state workers'

Allied Drives Are Kept Up For Fifth Day

Seoul, Jan. 20 (AP)—Allied tanks, artillery and warplanes today unleashed another shattering barrage of high explosives on Communist positions across Korea. It marked the fifth straight day of stepped-up bombardment.

U. S. Patton tanks, firing from front line dugouts, blasted Red bunkers and trenches from Chorwon to Kumhwa in the Iron Triangle sector of the central front. The artillery joined in the thundering attack from farther back.

A heavy overcast blanketed most of North Korea but the U. S. Fifth Air Force said marine Skyraiders and South Korean Mustangs flew through the clouds in strafing and bombing strikes on the eastern front.

Brief Clashes Reported

American Sabre jets and Russian-made MIGs clashed briefly near the Suiho reservoir in northwest Korea. The air force said one Red warplane was raked by machine gun fire and fled smoking across the Yalu river.

Truman Will Leave Capital On Night Train for Missouri

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Retiring President Truman, content to rest the case for his administration with history, will leave Washington today after turning over the nation's leadership to a Republican.

The 68-year-old Democrat who fought from coast to coast in a futile attempt to stem the GOP tide in November, yielded with a smile on his face and a "Godspeed" to his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower. That word was given in Truman's farewell State of the Union message to Congress.

Tonight, he heads back to Missouri to try his hand at loafing for awhile, perhaps pick out a new line of work and try to figure out a way for a party comeback.

He cleaned out his office desk at the White House at 4 p. m. yesterday—a desk at which he had served for nearly eight years of recurring crises—and walked over to the living quarters to spend his last night there as chief executive.

Nothing remained but to ride to

Americans, Russians Fence Daily Over Northern Japan

Tokyo, Jan. 20 (AP) — American and Russian jet pilots are fencing bloodlessly — and almost daily — over the frozen wastes of northern Japan, a U. S. general reported today in an interview.

Thus far they haven't tangled, but Maj. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey called the situation "tense and explosive."

Spivey fathered Japan's air defense—manned by U. S. pilots in U. S. planes—and commanded it 2½ years. He left today to take command of the 7.S. Central Air Defense Zone with headquarters at Kansas City.

He said the Russians have dozens of airfields on Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands—the closest only 13 second flying time from northeastern Kokkaido.

"We are watching them and they are watching us," Spivey said.

"When they fly we see them and when they head towards Japan that triggers off the air defense system."

U. S. jets streak into northern Hokkaido, Japan's snowbound, northernmost island, on frequent alerts.

Two Children Die In Hopewell Fire

Hopewell Junction, Jan. 20 (AP)—Two small children died today in a fire that demolished their two-story frame home. Their mother was severely burned trying to rescue them, and in carrying three other children to eafety.

The fire started when an oil stove overflowed, and exploded into flames in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Knapp, on Beekman road.

Three-year-old Marvin Eugene and William Robert, 2, died in the blaze, while the mother dashed in and out of the burning building trying to get her family to safety.

She saved two daughters, Sharon Elsie, 5, and Mary Laura, 4, and an infant son, Eugene Kenneth. She said she also managed to get the three-year-old boy out, but he dashed back into the building while she was trying to get the others. A sixth child was at school at the time.

Mrs. Knapp, seriously burned, was taken to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Cranberries are native to America.

Papers Deny That Nazism Threatens

Bonn, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—The west German press joined the country's politicians today in denouncing allied claims that resurgent Nazism threatens the future of Democratic government here. Some of the papers viewed the U. S. warning of rising nationalism as a Democratic party attemp to embarass the incoming Eisenhower administrations.

The Germans claimed that the sharply heightened tension between them and the allies severely damaged the already-clouded chances of bringing west Germany quickly into the western defense alliance.

Privately some American and British officials here agreed with this and deplored the new atmosphere of allied-German suspicion.

The uproar continued unabated over two incidents—the arrest by the British last week of seven former Nazi officials on suspicion of plotting to seize power, and the publication by the Americans over the weekend of a public opinion sampling among 1,200 Germans which purported to show menacing increases in Neo-Nazi and nationalist sentiments.

Adenauer Rejects Poll

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer rejected the American poll as "unrepresentative." He sharply questioned whether the British had real grounds for their action. Some of his supporters used much harsher language.

Some German newspapers appeared even angrier over the American poll than the British arrests. Their speculation about the American motives took some sensational turns.

"Are the Americans trying to overthrow Adenauer because he is too strong a man for the other treaty partners?" demanded Duesseldorf's Der Mittag.

"Is this the last effort of the American Democratic administration to make trouble for President Eisenhower?" asked the Bonner Rundschau and several other papers.

The Rundschau speculated that the Democrats were "trying to give a kick in the pants to former high commissioner (John J. McCloy), who is now an influential adviser to Eisenhower on German affairs."

Medical Report Is Staying Red Case

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A federal jury's sixth day of deliberation of the Communist conspiracy case was halted temporarily today pending a medical report on the illness of one of the 13 defendants.

The jury had resumed its deliberations at 10 a. m., but at 11:10 a. m. Judge Edward J. Dimock ordered an adjournment until 1 p. m.

He took the action when the defense refused to waive the presence in court of Jacob Mindell, 71, the oldest defendant, who suffered a heart attack yesterday and now is in a hospital.

On Commission

Mindell is a member of the party's National Education Commission.

Before the temporary breakoff, the jury had made its 17th request for passage from the record concerning a specific defendant.

Dimock has ruled that, if a conspiracy is found, the jury must consider each defendant separately as to knowing participation.

Mindel and 12 other second-string Communist leaders are charged under the Smith Act with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Raid Hoboken Piers

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—Sixty federal immigation officers, reinforced by 60 uniformed coast guardsmen, raided longshoremen's shapeups at two Hoboken piers today, taking 34 men into custody for questioning about suspected immigration violations. The 120 men in the raiding party hit piers five and nine at the 8 a. m., shapeup, the morning gathering at which longshoremen are hired for the day's work. Moving through the throng of some 500 longshoremen at the piers, the federal agents examined cards and papers, and took the 34 men in two buses to the city hall armory for a thorough screening.

Financial and Commercial

BY RADER WINGET

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market saluted the new administration on its inauguration day with a robust price rise today.

Steels, rails and motors were in the lead on the uptrend but there also were plus signs ranging a point or more scattered through most of the other groups.

After the opening flurry, trading quieted, then picked up moderately on the rise—but quieted again shortly before President Eisenhower began to deliver his inaugural address.

Wall Street viewed the advance as a vote of confidence in a new administration, generally believed to be setting forth on a policy more favorable to business than the outgoing regime.

The market decline of last Friday gave the market a little room for celebration buying—and that's what the bulls were doing today.

Torch Flareup Is Cause of Damage

A flareup in a gasoline torch used during the remodelling of a room at 26 Lucas avenue caused a damaging fire last night, according to the fire department.

Donald Luby, of Lake Katrine, who threw blankets over the blaze to check it until firemen arrived, suffered burns of the forehead and nose.

Earl Hopkins, who owns and occupies the house, was forced out on the roof of a porch. He left by a window leading from the burning room and entered the house through another window to assist in checking the fire. Luby had been working in the room with him.

A telephone call at 8:35 p. m., was followed immediately by an alarm from Box 1441 at No. 7 School and summoned men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Wicks Engine Company and Excelsior Hose, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Deputy Chief George D. Matthews.

The blaze damaged woodwork, a door and door frame in the room. Firemen used soda acid to quench it.

Fog Hits New York

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Fog covered a large area of metropolitan New York again today. It was so thick many planes couldn't land or take off. And it delayed docking of the liner Queen Mary. Fog has darkened New York nearly every morning—and sometimes all day—for the last six days, and caused several harbor accidents involving ferry boats and other shipping.

Action on Cabinet Blocked by Morse; Wilson Off List

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) today blocked Senate action on eight cabinet appointments by President Eisenhower. The new President, however, had omitted the name of Charles E. Wilson for secretary of defense in the list of selections he sent to the Senate.

Morse raised an objection to immediate confirmation of the eight cabinet appointments and to the nomination of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby to be federal security administrator. The Senate then postponed any action at least until tomorrow.

Leaves Ike Alone

This left Eisenhower, who had taken office only an hour earlier, facing his first day in office without a cabinet or without any official helpers other than those who do not require Senate confirmation.

Morse announced his objection shortly after Vice President Nixon told Morse that objection of any senator could prevent action desired by the new President and Republican leaders. All nine nominees, counting Mrs. Hobby, already had been given informal approval by Senate committee.

James Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said Wilson's name was not sent to the Senate because the cabinet designee has been summoned to testify before the Armed Services Committee tomorrow, along with Herbert Brownell Jr., named for attorney general.

The decision of the new President not to submit Wilson's name leaves the proposed defense secretary in the position of testifying on a nomination that thus far has not been made formally.

Shoots Cows, Self

Rhinebeck, Jan. 20 (AP)—Dairy farmer Harry B. Seckendorff did the milking last night—as he'd been doing nearly all his 70 years. After supper, Dutchess county authorities reported, he took his 12-gauge shotgun to the barn, shot his 16 milk cows to death in their stanchions, then put a fatal blast into his own head.

Smith Pleads Innocent

Charles Alton Smith, 22, of 20 Webster street was released on $50 bail for hearing on Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen of the town of Esopus on a charge of reckless driving. Smith pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned Monday afternoon. He was arrested by state police of Highland, who reported the arrest followed investigation on an accident Saturday night on the Rondout Creek bridge in which Smith's automobile was in collision with one driven by Robert H. Cole of Kingston. No personal injuries were reported.

Rail Worker Killed

Sioux Lookout, Ont., Jan. 20 (AP)—A 10-car Montreal-Winnipeg train derailed today, killing a railroad worker and injuring 64 persons. Officials of the Canadian National Railways said a rail snapped in the 14-below zero cold. The wreck was at Ghost river, about 140 miles north of the Minnesota border. Two day coaches and two mail-baggage cars overturned. Six other passenger cars derailed but did not turn over. Only the locomotive stayed on the tracks.

Truman's Last Act

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Harry Truman's last official act before leaving the White House today was to sign a letter condemning "recent reckless attack" on federal civil service workers. "I have great faith and confidence in our civil servants," Truman wrote to James A. Campbell, president of the American Federation of Government Employes. The letter was in commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the establishment of the federal civil service merit system.

Convicts Demand Better Food, Ask Parole Revision

Belelfonte, Pa., Jan. 20 (AP)—Nearly 800 convicts who rioted and seized six guards as hostages at the Rockview branch of Western State Penitentiary set up a cry today for "better food" and a "better parole system."

The demonstration, without violence, followed hours of tense, uneasy quiet which had settled over the prison during the night and early morning hours.

The rioting broke out shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday, minutes after settlement of a 24-hour outbreak in the main part of the prison at Pittsburgh, 160 miles to the west. The convicts took over and barricaded the three main cell blocks.

Soon after daybreak today, Gerald Evy, prison farm superintendent, said "it's been awful quiet—too quiet."

Then, as the morning wore on, the convicts grew restive. Some rattled cell block doors. Many others booed and shouted derisive phrases and called out: "Have you got the parole board here yet?" "We want better food" and "We want a better parole system." One prisoner played "Alexander's Ragtime Band" on a trumpet he is permitted to keep in his cell.

Taking paint which has been used on a cleanup job in the cell blocks, the convicts daubed crude lettering on bedsheets to make signs demanding "better food and a better parole system." They stretched these signs at the barred doors and windows.

Without President For 32 Minutes

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The United States was without a president for 32 minutes.

The Constitution says the presidential term shall end at noon on Jan. 20. Harry S. Truman's nearly eight years as President thus came to an official end at that hour.

Dwight D. Eisenhower did not take the oath until 12:32 p. m., Eastern Standard Time Until then he was only the President-elect.

Although Richard M. Nixon was sworn as vice-president at 12:23 p. m., this did not make him president, even theoretically, until Eisenhower took the oath.

This is because no man is president until he takes the oath for that office and Nixon was sworn in as vice-president, not president.

Gambling Raid Nets 22 At Subway Car Yards

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Twenty-two board of transportation employes were arrested yesterday in a lunch-hour gambling raid on the Independent Subway maintenance yards at 207th street and Broadway.

Two detectives began the round-up, then called in 35 police as reinforcements when, they said, fellow workers of those taken into custody tried to prevent the arrests.

A thousand transit system employes were in the yards at the time.

Twenty of those arrested were shooting dice in a laid-up subway car, police reported. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

The other two were accused of possession of policy slips.

Police said the raid followed complaints by wives of the crap shooters.

Adlai Not Envious

Two Children Die In Hopewell Fire

Hopewell Junction, Jan. 20 (AP)—Two small children died today in a fire that demolished their two-story frame home. Their mother was severely burned trying to rescue them, and in carrying three other children to eafety.

The fire started when an oil stove overflowed, and exploded into flames in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Knapp, on Beekman road.

Three-year-old Marvin Eugene and William Robert, 2, died in the blaze, while the mother dashed in and out of the burning building trying to get her family to safety.

She saved two daughters, Sharon Elsie, 5, and Mary Laura, 4, and an infant son, Eugene Kenneth. She said she also managed to get the three-year-old boy out, but he dashed back into the building while she was trying to get the others. A sixth child was at school at the time.

Papers Deny That Nazism Threatens

Bonn, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—The west German press joined the country's politicians today in denouncing allied claims that resurgent Nazism threatens the future of Democratic government here. Some of the papers viewed the U. S. warning of rising nationalism as a Democratic party attemp to embarass the incoming Eisenhower administrations.

The Germans claimed that the sharply heightened tension between them and the allies severely damaged the already-clouded chances of bringing west Germany quickly into the western defense alliance.

Privately some American and British officials here agreed with this and deplored the new atmosphere of allied-German suspicion.

The uproar continued unabated over two incidents—the arrest by the British last week of seven former Nazi officials on suspicion of plotting to seize power, and the publication by the Americans over the weekend of a public opinion sampling among 1,200 Germans which purported to show menacing increases in Neo-Nazi and nationalist sentiments.

Adenauer Rejects Poll

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer rejected the American poll as "unrepresentative." He sharply questioned whether the British had real grounds for their action. Some of his supporters used much harsher language.

Some German newspapers appeared even angrier over the American poll than the British arrests. Their speculation about the American motives took some sensational turns.

"Are the Americans trying to overthrow Adenauer because he is too strong a man for the other treaty partners?" demanded Duesseldorf's Der Mittag.

"Is this the last effort of the American Democratic administration to make trouble for President Eisenhower?" asked the Bonner Rundschau and several other papers.

The Rundschau speculated that the Democrats were "trying to give a kick in the pants to former high commissioner (John J. McCloy), who is now an influential adviser to Eisenhower on German affairs."

Medical Report Is Staying Red Case

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A federal jury's sixth day of deliberation of the Communist conspiracy case was halted temporarily today pending a medical report on the illness of one of the 13 defendants.

The jury had resumed its deliberations at 10 a. m., but at 11:10 a. m. Judge Edward J. Dimock ordered an adjournment until 1 p. m.

He took the action when the defense refused to wave the presence in court of Jacob Mindell, 71, the oldest defendant, who suffered a heart attack yesterday and now is in a hospital.

On Commission

Mindell is a member of the party's National Education Commission.

Before the temporary breakoff, the jury had made its 17th request for passage from the record concerning a specific defendant.

Dimock has ruled that, if a conspiracy is found, the jury must consider each defendant separately as to knowing participation.

Mindel and 12 other second-string Communist leaders are charged under the Smith Act with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Financial and Commercial

BY RADER WINGET

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market saluted the new administration on its inauguration day with a robust price rise today.

Steels, rails and motors were in the lead on the uptrend but there also were plus signs ranging a point or more scattered through most of the other groups.

After the opening flurry, trading quieted, then picked up moderately on the rise—but quieted again shortly before President Eisenhower began to deliver his inaugural address.

Wall Street viewed the advance as a vote of confidence in a new administration, generally believed to be setting forth on a policy more favorable to business than the outgoing regime.

The market decline of last Friday gave the market a little room for celebration buying—and that's what the bulls were doing today.

Raid Hoboken Piers

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—Sixty federal immigation officers, reinforced by 60 uniformed coast guardsmen, raided longshoremen's shapeups at two Hoboken piers today, taking 34 men into custody for questioning about suspected immigration violations. The 120 men in the raiding party hit piers five and nine at the 8 a. m., shapeup, the morning gathering at which longshoremen are hired for the day's work. Moving through the throng of some 500 longshoremen at the piers, the federal agents examined cards and papers, and took the 34 men in two buses to the city hall armory for a thorough screening.

Truman's Last Act

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Harry Truman's last official act before leaving the White House today was to sign a letter condemning "recent reckless attack" on federal civil service workers. "I have great faith and confidence in our civil servants," Truman wrote to James A. Campbell, president of the American Federation of Government Employes. The letter was in commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the establishment of the federal civil service merit system.

Convicts Demand Better Food, Ask Parole Revision

Belelfonte, Pa., Jan. 20 (AP)—Nearly 800 convicts who rioted and seized six guards as hostages at the Rockview branch of Western State Penitentiary set up a cry today for "better food" and a "better parole system."

The demonstration, without violence, followed hours of tense, uneasy quiet which had settled over the prison during the night and early morning hours.

The rioting broke out shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday, minutes after settlement of a 24-hour outbreak in the main part of the prison at Pittsburgh, 160 miles to the west. The convicts took over and barricaded the three main cell blocks.

Soon after daybreak today, Gerald Evy, prison farm superintendent, said "it's been awful quiet—too quiet."

Then, as the morning wore on, the convicts grew restive. Some rattled cell block doors. Many others booed and shouted derisive phrases and called out: "Have you got the parole board here yet?" "We want better food" and "We want a better parole system." One prisoner played "Alexander's Ragtime Band" on a trumpet he is permitted to keep in his cell.

Taking paint which has been used on a cleanup job in the cell blocks, the convicts daubed crude lettering on bedsheets to make signs demanding "better food and a better parole system." They stretched these signs at the barred doors and windows.

Without President For 32 Minutes

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The United States was without a president for 32 minutes.

The Constitution says the presidential term shall end at noon on Jan. 20. Harry S. Truman's nearly eight years as President thus came to an official end at that hour.

Dwight D. Eisenhower did not take the oath until 12:32 p. m., Eastern Standard Time Until then he was only the President-elect.

Although Richard M. Nixon was sworn as vice-president at 12:23 p. m., this did not make him president, even theoretically, until Eisenhower took the oath.

This is because no man is president until he takes the oath for that office and Nixon was sworn in as vice-president, not president.

Gambling Raid Nets 22 At Subway Car Yards

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Twenty-two board of transportation employes were arrested yesterday in a lunch-hour gambling raid on the Independent Subway maintenance yards at 207th street and Broadway.

Two detectives began the round-up, then called in 35 police as reinforcements when, they said, fellow workers of those taken into custody tried to prevent the arrests.

A thousand transit system employes were in the yards at the time.

Twenty of those arrested were shooting dice in a laid-up subway car, police reported. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

The other two were accused of possession of policy slips.

Police said the raid followed complaints by wives of the crap shooters.

Adlai Not Envious

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson was winging his way toward a sunny Caribbean vacation today at the moment his victorious opponent, Dwight D. Eisenhower, took office as President of the United States. He left New York International Airport shortly before noon. The defeated Democratic presidential candidate said of the inauguration ceremonies: "I have no regrets that it is Ike and not myself." "I think Ike probably envies me today," he added, smiling.

Kaufman in Florida

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman—a target of Communist vituperation since he sentenced atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to death—is in Florida for a rest ordered by his physician, it was reported here today. The 42-year-old judge recently spoke of a "mounting campaign of villification, abuse and pressure" against him in the Rosenberg case. Kaufman and his wife left for Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 12.

Torch Flareup Is Cause of Damage

A flareup in a gasoline torch used during the remodelling of a room at 26 Lucas avenue caused a damaging fire last night, according to the fire department.

Donald Luby, of Lake Katrine, who threw blankets over the blaze to check it until firemen arrived, suffered burns of the forehead and nose.

Earl Hopkins, who owns and occupies the house, was forced out on the roof of a porch. He left by a window leading from the burning room and entered the house through another window to assist in checking the fire. Luby had been working in the room with him.

A telephone call at 8:35 p. m., was followed immediately by an alarm from Box 1441 at No. 7 School and summoned men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Wicks Engine Company and Excelsior Hose, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Deputy Chief George D. Matthews.

The blaze damaged woodwork, a door and door frame in the room. Firemen used soda acid to quench it.

Fog Hits New York

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Fog covered a large area of metropolitan New York again today. It was so thick many planes couldn't land or take off. And it delayed docking of the liner Queen Mary. Fog has darkened New York nearly every morning—and sometimes all day—for the last six days, and caused several harbor accidents involving ferry boats and other shipping.

Action on Cabinet Blocked by Morse; Wilson Off List

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) today blocked Senate action on eight cabinet appointments by President Eisenhower. The new President, however, had omitted the name of Charles E. Wilson for secretary of defense in the list of selections he sent to the Senate.

Morse raised an objection to immediate confirmation of the eight cabinet appointments and to the nomination of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby to be federal security administrator. The Senate then postponed any action at least until tomorrow.

Leaves Ike Alone

This left Eisenhower, who had taken office only an hour earlier, facing his first day in office without a cabinet or without any official helpers other than those who do not require Senate confirmation.

Morse announced his objection shortly after Vice President Nixon told Morse that objection of any senator could prevent action desired by the new President and Republican leaders. All nine nominees, counting Mrs. Hobby, already had been given informal approval by Senate committee.

James Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said Wilson's name was not sent to the Senate because the cabinet designee has been summoned to testify before the Armed Services Committee tomorrow, along with Herbert Brownell Jr., named for attorney general.

The decision of the new President not to submit Wilson's name leaves the proposed defense secretary in the position of testifying on a nomination that thus far has not been made formally.

Shoots Cows, Self

Rhinebeck, Jan. 20 (AP)—Dairy farmer Harry B. Seckendorff did the milking last night—as he'd been doing nearly all his 70 years. After supper, Dutchess county authorities reported, he took his 12-gauge shotgun to the barn, shot his 16 milk cows to death in their stanchions, then put a fatal blast into his own head.

Smith Pleads Innocent

Charles Alton Smith, 22, of 20 Webster street was released on $50 bail for hearing on Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen of the town of Esopus on a charge of reckless driving. Smith pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned Monday afternoon. He was arrested by state police of Highland, who reported the arrest followed investigation on an accident Saturday night on the Rondout Creek bridge in which Smith's automobile was in collision with one driven by Robert H. Cole of Kingston. No personal injuries were reported.

Rail Worker Killed

Sioux Lookout, Ont., Jan. 20 (AP)—A 10-car Montreal-Winnipeg train derailed today, killing a railroad worker and injuring 64 persons. Officials of the Canadian National Railways said a rail snapped in the 14-below zero cold. The wreck was at Ghost river, about 140 miles north of the Minnesota border. Two day coaches and two mail-baggage cars overturned. Six other passenger cars derailed but did not turn over. Only the locomotive stayed on the tracks.

Killed in Auto Crash

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Otis Stevens, 43, a Negro, of Yonkers, was killed today in an automobile accident on Harlem River Drive. Police said an automobile, operated by Stevens, swerved out of control, crossed the road near Tenth avenue, and rammed into a tree.

Your Income Tax

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
AP Newsfeature Writer

Washington — Although tax collections are running now at a record high, some income taxpayer will get a better break under the laws than they did a couple of years ago.

The group which benefits includes persons who sell their homes at a profit and invest the proceeds in another house. Also, the parents of some income-producing children, unmarried taxpayers who qualify as head of household, and all elderly persons with heavy medical expenses.

It used to be that a taxpayer could not claim an exemption for a dependent if the dependent received $500 or more income during the year. Now he or she is eligible if the income is anything less than $600 — same as the exemption.

If you sell your home at a profit, none of the gain now is taxable provided that within a year before or after the sale you buy a new home costing as much as the former place sold for.

How This Works Out

As an example, suppose you bought a home several years ago for $6,000, sold it last year for $10,000, bought a new one for $12,000. The $4,000 gain (difference between original cost and sale price) would not be taxable. If your new house cost only $9,000, then $1,000 of the profit would be subject to tax.

There are so many special rules involving such capital gains that the Treasury puts out a Schedule D to supplement regular long-form income tax form 1040. Better confer with your district revenue director's office if you sell your home at a profit and buy another.

If you lose money selling your house, no tax adjustment is available.

Taxpayers over 65 years of age get special consideration on their medical and hospital expenses. In their case, all such expenses—subject to limitations explained below — are fully deductible if long form 1040 is used. Younger taxpayers are permitted to deduct only such medical expenses as exceed 5 per cent of their income.

A man over 65 also gets to deduct fully for all of his wife's medical expenses, even if she is not yet 65. He can deduct his own in full if she is over 65 and he is younger. But he can deduct only that part of a dependent's medical expense which exceeds 5 per cent of the taxpayer's income.

There is a strict overall limit, however, on the total amount that can be deducted for medical expenses. The limit is $1,250 a person. The very most that can be deducted on behalf of any one family is $5,000, regardless of age. The maximums are $2,500 and $3,750 for some taxpayers. For complete details, check with your district revenue director.

Some Consolation for Fire

There's a limited amount of cheer for taxpayers who suffer losses of property due to fire, storm, or other natural causes, or by theft.

If the loss exceeds 1952 income, the excess may be carried back as a net operating loss to offset taxable income in 1951, and any remaning excess may be carried over to apply to the years 1953-1957 inclusive. This applies to a salaried person as well as one in business, but can be allowed only if the taxpayer makes his return on long form 1040.

A non-married person who qualifies as the head of a household gets special treatment designed to give him (or her) about half the tax benefits accruing to married persons who file joint returns and take advantage of the income splitting privilege.

Religious Indians

Only American Indians to have developed a complete religion based upon the use of fetishes, or carved animal forms, are the Zunis of New Mexico.

THE PRESIDENT IS A "GOOD SCOUT"—When President Dwight D. Eisenhower took his oath of office, he also became Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America. Like all presidents beginning with William Howard Taft, he automatically became the Scout's titular head upon taking the oath. He is the second President to have had an active relationship with the Scouts before entering the White House, sharing the distinction with the late President Roosevelt. President Eisenhower has been a member of the Boy Scout's National Executive Board since 1948. In 1946 he received Scouting's highest award, the Silver Buffalo, "for distinguished service to boyhood." Above, the then General Eisenhower joined hands with fellow scouts during the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge in July of 1950, when Eisenhower was guest of honor and principal speaker at the celebration.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Jan. 19 —Word has reached here of the marriage November 29 in Richmond Hill, L. I., of Jean Carpenter to Joseph O'Reilly. The couple make their home in Maryland and O'Reilly is employed in Washington. Jean, daughter of James and Anna Carpenter who have a summer bungalow here, has been coming to Shokan each season since she was a small girl. Before her marriage she was employed in the Columbia University research laboratory. She attended the University of Connecticut.

Tax Collector Jessie DuBois of Ashokan was at the corner store Friday for her fifth consecutive tax sitting this month. Mrs. DuBois, who was assisted by Mrs. John Marshall of Olive Bridge, took in the sum of $1,138.20 during the day. First three property owners to "dig down" upon this occasion were those three longtime friends of the Tonche Mountain neighborhood—Ray Cudney, Edwin D. Secor and James Rutherford.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm motored down from Albany and spent Friday at their home adjoining the Baptist Church grounds.

Having a birthday Tuesday, Jan. 20, is Theodore Carlson of the metropolitan area. Thede was born in New York and attended school in Sweden. He married Catherine Gebelein June 1, 1935 and they have a son, Harold, a KHS senior who resides here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebelein. Having a birthday Wednesday is Mrs. Robert Winnie, the former Kay Winchell, who was born in Tampa, Fla. Kay attended high school in Kingston and for several years was employed in warplane plants on the West Coast.

Who remembers the old Plank Road which followed, in part, the route now known as the Onteora Trail, between Kingston and Delaware county? One would have to be at least 90 years old for that recollection. This was only one of several such roads in the state, built when lumber was plentiful and cheap. There was a Plank Road running between Coxsackie and Oak Hill a century ago, and this one is remembered by Frances Spalding of Greene county. Mrs. Spalding, 91, resides with her daughter, Harriet, a teacher at the Greenville School, in the house in which she was born.

Janet Bloom of Newburgh is reported to have returned home recently from a trip around the world. The young woman, formerly employed in the diplomatic service abroad, is the daughter of Robert Bloom, a native of Shokan.

U. S. Aids Standardization

New York (AP)—The United States ranks 18th among the national standards organizations of 34 nations in degree of participation in international standards work, says the American Standards Association. The United States holds secretariats of eight technical committees. The group coordinates national standards in electrical and mechanical fields, the rubber, plastics and building industries and others.

One would have to be at least 90 years old for that recollection. This was only one of several such roads in the state, built when lumber was plentiful and cheap. There was a Plank Road running between Coxsackie and Oak Hill a century ago, and this one is remembered by Frances Spalding of Greene county. Mrs. Spalding, 91, resides with her daughter, Harriet, a teacher at the Greenville School, in the house in which she was born.

Janet Bloom of Newburgh is reported to have returned home recently from a trip around the world. The young woman, formerly employed in the diplomatic service abroad, is the daughter of Robert Bloom, a native of Shokan.

U. S. Aids Standardization

New York (AP)—The United States ranks 18th among the national standards organizations of 34 nations in degree of participation in international standards work, says the American Standards Association. The United States holds secretariats of eight technical committees. The group coordinates national standards in electrical and mechanical fields, the rubber, plastics and building industries and others.

According to some investigators, the Atlantic is the youngest and the Pacific the oldest of the oceans. Nevertheless, others believe the Atlantic to be the oldest, with the exception of the West Indian region, and that the Pacific still is in the making.

RUINOUS COST OF H-BOMB WAR

One of the weird facts of 1952 was the slight public excitement which attended the late fall announcement that the United States had exploded an H-bomb at Eniwetok in the Pacific.

In his final State-of-the-Union message, President Truman took steps to rivet greater attention upon this horrifying new phemonenon. This was wholly fitting, since the government's unnecessarily vague presentation of the Eniwetok story had much to do with the lack of public concern.

In the interval since the original announcement, some reporters have come forth with the declaration that the Eniwetok explosion was a resounding success. They contend that a bomb of colossal destructive force was touched off.

Mr. Truman appeared to confirm, rather than to challenge, this information when he offered dire warnings to Premier Stalin of the ruinous nature of any future general war. Knowing what we know of what happened at Eniwetok, we understand these words of the President to be more than idle phrases:

"The war of the future would be one in which man could extinguish millions of lives at one blow, demolish the great cities of the world, wipe out the cultural achievement of the past—and destroy the very structure of a civilization that has been slowly and painfully built up through hundreds of generations.

"Such a war is not possible for rational men."

Mr. Truman said he did not know how long it would take Stalin and his associates in the Kremlin to understand what the H-bomb and the lesser A-bomb would do to his regime and to Russia's great cities. It is entirely possible the Kremlin may already grasp the full import.

For, whatever disposition the Russian Communists may have shown to commit aggression, to impose their rule on millions of free men, they have shown very little liking for national suicide.

And, with their own highly developed seismographic and other technical equipment, they do not need to take President Truman's word that we are now in the hydrogen age. They have their independent check on what occurred at Eniwetok.

Beyond any doubt the Russians are racing to fashion an H-bomb to match ours. Eventually they will surely succeed. Scientists say there is no technical mystery about the bomb once you have built an A-bomb, as the Russians have.

Nevertheless, developing an H-bomb will not relieve the Reds of the threat posed by the American version. It will merely give Moscow the means to retaliate in kind.

Inevitably, in these first months of life with this dread device tucked away in our arsenals, we cannot see clearly the whole meaning.

The H-bomb, promising holocausts of fire and blast and tumbling stone, could be the weapon that will end the great wars. Men undertake war only when they believe they can prosecute it at less than ruinous cost to themselves. President Truman suggests to the world that such a war may never again be possible.

If that is true, the only question, then, is whether all men across the globe may be brought to realize it in time.

Father is not always a help around the house. He may not do the dishes right, his idea of dusting is to sweep under the nearest rug and he can quickly fling newspapers all over the floor around his easy chair. But he is handy to pay the bills.

Figures show that the United States population is growing more than two million a year. Guess we're going to be around for a while.

We are certain that the fellow who swallows false pride never gets a pain in the stomach.

HISTORICAL EVALUATION

History is the story of mankind that is constantly being re-evaluated. Julius Caesar wrote about Gaul but his account is more journalistic than historical in the sense that it was really a political campaign book. The ideal of history is objectivity, but even the great Gibbon nodded whenever he faced his private dislikes.

Professor Allan Nevins of Columbia University has appraised the Presidents of the United States for the New York Journal-American, classifying them as excellent, exceptional, good, mediocre, poor. The classification is difficult to follow because the historical avoids such uncompromising categories. Excellent is so superior that Professor Nevins does not include even Washington and Lincoln in this group, but he does the latter Roosevelt.

The word, mediocre, is the most difficult to understand. It really means middling, ordinary, the man-on-the-street sort of person. But to achieve the Presidency of the United States elevates a man above mediocrity.

Professor Nevins, for instance, has written much on the virtues of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the foibles of Herbert Hoover. In Nevins's and Commager's "A Short History of the United States," they say this of Herbert Hoover:

". . . Herbert Hoover, who came to the Presidency in 1929, was a man of far greater ability, with a reputation as an efficient executive, an international-minded statesman, and a great humanitarian; in four years he managed to lose all three reputations and to make more and more serious errors of judgment than any President since Grant."

As harsh as this judgment is on any man by a contemporary, it is no harsher than Horace Greeley's contemporary opinions of Abraham Lincoln. Actually, in the Republican Convention of 1864, an attempt was made to withhold renomination of Lincoln and to name Salmon P. Chase in his stead. This having failed, Greeley and Whitelaw Reid tried to organize a third party. Henry W. Davis wrote of this:

"There are hundreds of thousands who think that Mr. Lincoln cannot suppress the rebellion, and they are anxiously casting around their eyes, in this hour of deep agony, for a man of mind and will who is able to direct the national power to the suppression of the rebellion. . . ."

Certainly to such contemporaries of Abraham Lincoln, he was mediocre, or even poor. We do not believe that today.

I am not making a comparison between Lincoln and Hoover, but I do make the point that history, written contemporaneously, often misses the true qualities not only of the man but of his relationship to events. To Professor Nevins, Hoover was an unsatisfactory President while Roosevelt made an effective President.

Yet, Roosevelt solved Hoover's major problem, unemployment, only by war. Payment for idleness, subsidies for maintaining 10,000,000 unemployed, doles to the indolent, the reduction of productivity, sharing work and redistributing the wealth are devices as old as Joseph in Egypt, but they did not solve the American problem of unemployment either in the Hoover or the Roosevelt Administration.

When the European war came in 1939, this country did move into full employment. We have been at war, hot or cold, since then and we have known full employment. Will the historian of the future, judging us as objectively perhaps as Arnold J. Toynbee has viewed the Sumerian civilization, decide that at Teheran and Yalta, Roosevelt was the author of errors which proved to be devastating not only to the United States but to Western Christian civilization?

I am not an historian; yet even as a journalist, with a lesser responsibility for objectivity and no hope for permanence, I should hesitate to make so sharp a comparison among men as to call James Madison and James Monroe, mediocre, and Andrew Jackson, excellent. Perhaps the key to Professor Nevins's thinking is this sentence in his "Journal-American" appraisal of Jackson:

"The old official classes went down, and with the help of the spoils system, the plain people took office. Labor movements grew strong for the first time, and reform organizations took root."

The question arises, what happens when an historian becomes a journalist? The answer, of course, is that he is a journalist at that moment and not an historian. He reads without objectivity, which is the right of any citizen. He portrays his private prejudices, even as you and I.

I have enjoyed the friendship of Herbert Hoover for 20 years and to me, he stands monumental in our times.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THOUGHTS ON HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

If you were asked what single instrument is used most by your doctor, you would likely say the clinical thermometor or the stethoscope. This would have been the correct answer a few years ago, but the instrument most often used by the doctor today is the instrument for measuring the blood pressure which is now used perhaps as much or even more than the thermometer.

Why this great interest in the blood pressure?

It is because the leading cause of death in adults is the heart stroke (coronary thrombosis) due in the majority of cases to high blood pressure. It is, nevertheless, true that a heart-stroke can occur where the blood pressure is normal and thousands of men and women with high blood pressure do not have a heart-stroke.

What many of us forget is that a single reading of blood pressure may not tell the true story.

In the Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Philip Corr, associate professor of medicine, College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles, states that the ordinary or casual reading of blood pressure may not take into consideration various factors including recent exercise, state of tension or nervousness, recent eating, time of day, and variations in the two arms. "For example, I have seen the systolic blood pressure fall 100 points (mm. of mercury) after the patient's fears were relieved during a single examination."

After outlining the various conditions present in the body which could readily raise the blood pressure such as kidney disease or the presence of just one kidney, Dr. Corr states that the bulk of hyper-tensive (high blood pressure) cases, 90 per cent or more, seen by the general practitioner, consists of the earlier stages of chronic, moderately severe "essential" or necessary high bloood pressure and are not related to any specific or special disease.

The first thought is psychotherapy, that is, treating the mind of the patient. The cause of essential hypertension where the high blood pressure is necessary despite no disease present, is unknown; people seem to be born with a certain degree of high blood pressure or low blood pressure.

By explaining to the patient that his tenseness of mind and body tightens and so decreases the size or caliber of the blood vessels that more pressure is needed to push blood through these "smaller" vessels, you may enable him to relax. This additional pressure means more work for the heart to do. Some time in the future the heart may become tired of this extra work and gradually begin to fail. Dr. Corr states that if the patient anticipates no immediate stroke, he loses his fear. Losing the fear reduces tension and also blood pressure.

So Proudly We Hail

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Many memories will crowd the mind of Dwight Eisenhower as he rides down Pennsylvania avenue today. . . . His days as a farm boy in Kansas, his first speech, as a Democrat, at a Jackson Day dinner in Abilene, his appointment to West Point, his promotions upward to the highest military command, the triumphs, the turning points of war, its tragedies, the battle of the Bulge . . . The vista of the years, crowded years, leading up to this greatest honor of all will flit through Dwight Eisenhower's memory today—along with them may be some thoughts on what this inauguration means to the world — a symbol of orderly change, of cooperation. To many countries such a change would not be possible. Change, to them, comes by revolution . . . But in these United States, the votes are cast, one party bows, the outgoing President rides beside the incoming President and wishes him well — an example of democracy for all the world to see.

Also passing through Dwight Eisenhower's mind as he rides down Pennsylvania avenue today may be the changes this country has seen since the last Republican President. . . . Eisenhower has ridden down the avenue before, once as a home-coming hero, once in a very minor capacity, when in obeying superior orders he helped evacuate the bonus army. . . . That was exactly twenty years ago, in the last year of the last Republican President. . . . Things were a lot different then, as the buildings along the line of march today so graphically illustrate.

Down the Avenue

Gone are the cheap little restaurants, the Japanese souvenir shops, the tawdry bars, the semi-red light district in the shadow of the Capitol. Gone are the ramshackle empty buildings in which the bonus army camped. . . . Replacing them are parks, the biggest gas filling station in the world, and the Mellon Art Gallery—established after a former secretary of the treasury got into tax trouble . . . Replacing them also are the Archives building, guarding the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution which the new President today swears to uphold; also the Federal Trade Commission, guarding the principle of free and fair business competition, which some of Ike's supporters today view with lukewarm approval but other great Republican, Teddy Roosevelt. . . . Ike will also pass the Justice Department, supposed to be the symbol of clean government, its facade or aluminum shimmering, but tarnished and besmirched inside. . . . Across the way is the Bureau of Internal Revenue, supposed symbol of tax integrity, now beslimed with favoritism and fenagling. . . . Cleaning these up will be one of the first jobs of the new President.

Nearby is the National Museum. A big market place, featuring farm wagons, crates of chickens, piles of cheese used to adorn this heart of the capital when Ike was here as a young major . . . Today the museum houses the airplane in which a young aviator named Lindbergh made a historic trip across the Atlantic . . . Such trips were rare and difficult when the last Republican President rode down Pennsylvania avenue. But the air force has just announced a new rocket able to cross the Atlantic, while Ike himself flew back from Paris in a matter of hours.

Changing Times

So times change. So a new world, a new government awaits the hand of a new President. . . . The once ramshackle Labor Department near the line of march has changed too, has a new, sleek building all its own, indicative of the present power and importance of labor. . . . Along the line of march is the Commerce Department—once called Hoover's Folly because he planned it as the biggest office building in the world. But the Democrats were glad to inherit it, and to build even greater office space. . . . Thus has grown the concentrated, centralized power of Washington—one of the problems facing the new President. . . . The White House at the end of his line of march housed only a handful of officials when the last Republican President departed—a top secretary, a press secretary, and a handful of stenographers. . . . Today the White House has a staff of about 1,000, though 462 are in the Budget Bureau. And the executive offices, instead of occupying a wing of the White House have spilled across the street to fill completely the gnarled and ugly old state, war, and navy building. . . . Can the new President cut this down? It's a difficult challenge.

There were only 14,111 officers in the army when Ike was a young major in Washington 20 years ago. The total armed strength of the nation, army and navy, was a mere 244,000 — both officers and men. . . . Today it's well over 3,600,000. . . . The budget 20 years ago was only $4,659,000,000. Today it's over $70,000,000,000 — most of it for the military.

Cavalry was used on Pennsylvania avenue 20 years ago to evacuate the bonus army. Today cavalry is so outmoded that a dozen horses are kept at Fort Myer only for use in military funerals. . . The army today rides on wheels, armored cruisers fly in the air, and atomic weapons may make battleships as helpless as horses. . . . All this in 20 brief and fleeting years! How much more change in the next four!

Bronze statues of military heroes line the route of Ike's parade. Important heroes, great heroes, men who won this nation's wars. . . . Less conspicuous along Pennsylvania avenue is a statue of Ben Franklin, a hero, but a civilian. . . . Off the line of march are war buildings, relics of the hasty housing expansion which features war; Built for expanding war services, and built to be torn down. . . . But they remain; ugly, haphazard reminders—in contrast to the beautiful architecture of permanent buildings—of past wars and possible wars to come. . . . The new President knows these buildings all too well, just as he knows the ugliness, the sordidness of war. He has a genuine hatred for war, has sworn he will do his best to prevent war. . . . Even his critics feel he is sincere in that pledge. But can he carry out that pledge? Can he fulfill the hopes, allay the fears of all mankind? . . . That will be the greatest test of Dwight Eisenhower—that is what he will be thinking most about today. . . . That will be the task for which he needs the help, the prayers of every citizen.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 20, 1933—A group of the city's unemployed men formed a temporary organization to help solve their own problems.

The annual Shriners Ball was held at the new state armory off Manor avenue.

Ralph H. Johnson was elected superintendent of schools in the second supervisory district.

Mrs. James H. Cramer died at her West O'Reilly street home.

Mrs. Josephine Resler, 71, of Second avenue, was fatally stricken with a heart attack while walking on Delaware avenue.

Jan. 20, 1943—New York's Police Commissioner Valentine said the gasoline shortage might cause temporary closing of the Platte Clove summer police camp.

High winds damaged telephone lines in Sullivan and Greene counties.

Mrs. Russell Krom, town of Marbletown, who was taken ill while on jury duty, died at Kingston Hospital.

Louis H. Schafer was engaged as physical director at the local YMCA.

Name Is the Same

Indianapolis (AP)—A 29-year-old man named J. Edgar Hoover was fined $27 in municipal court for reckless driving. "I never thought I'd have you in my court," Judge Phillip L. Bayt jokingly told the driver. This J. Edgar Hoover is a truck driver, not the famed head of the FBI.

No Point Is Seen in Amending Law Barring Transactions by Executive Officials

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 20—The inaugural ceremony reflects the abstract—not the concrete. The message is inspirational—it rarely contains a formula of legislation or program of policies.

Yet in the consciousness of everybody is the fact of change—change from policies that disappointed and disturbed to policies which it is hoped will produce national unity and international peace.

There is another phase of the change, however, which became specific almost overnight—even before the inaugural ceremony. It's the phase that demands clean government, ethical government, honest government.

The issue emerged suddenly to challenge the new administration. Should Charles E. Wilson be confirmed as secretary of defense and yet retain his $2,500,000 worth of holdings of stock in General Motors, accumulated out of his business career, when the law says that no official can "transact" business with any company in which he may be in a position to profit personally?

This does not concern Mr. Wilson alone. Dozens of new officials will be appointed by the new President—some of them from the field of law, some from finance, and some from industry. Shall each divest himself of all relationships with previous companies, corporations or firms?

Obviously, merely to sell one's holdings doesn't solve the problem. For if a man is part of a large company one day and sells his holdings the next, does he thereby divest himself as well of lifelong friendships and intimacies? Does the government require him to do the impossible?

It is not a new question. It happens all the time on the judicial bench. Some Justices of the Supreme Court always hold stocks, but when a pending case could even remotely affect such stock ownership, the justice "disqualifies" himself. The same might well apply to executive officials as well as to members of Congress.

There is no point in amending the existing law which bars transactions by executive officials with companies in which they hold stock or from which they can derive pecuniary gain. Nor is there any point in any legal interpretation artificially devised to exempt high officials from the present law. It is no answer, as suggested, merely to put the stocks in trust and let the tax be collected later only if the securities are subsequently sold after the Cabinet officer terminates his government service.

The logical solution is to require by executive order of the President that when any official has before him either a contract or a government proceeding that involves a former client or former employee-relationship, the matter shall be presented to the White House for reference to some board or agency that can make the necessary decision without in any way consulting the executive in question. This is the same thing as reassigning a case where a judge disqualifies himself.

In most instances the reference to another official will solve the problem. But it must be mandatory rather than discretionary.

As for the Defense Department, it was not surprising that Mr. Wilson naively thought his statement that he could deal at arm's length with General Motors on contract matters should be accepted by everybody. Honest men think others will give them credit for their honesty. The political world, unfortunately, feels otherwise—a man presumably is dishonest until proved honest, or, to put it another way, he cannot place himself in a situation that could even implicitly give rise to a question of conflicting loyalty, whether to the government, on the one hand, or to his former employers or clients, on the other.

Business men who come into government are always surprised by the rigorous requirements of politics—and yet, despite all the laws and self-imposed rules of restraint, the fact remains that honest men will lean over backward not to favor former business associates, and dishonest men will do what they please even if they have divested themselves of every stock holding.

The Eisenhower administration should be glad the issue of ethics has arisen so early because it can by a sweeping order, affecting not just Mr. Wilson but all officials, show the country that a different climate has been ushered in here in the handling of public funds by the new custodians.

Other officials in previous administrations didn't always divest themselves of stock holdings, and there is no innuendo that they acted improperly. The issue has taken on new aspects, however, in view of the exposures of petty graft during the last administration.

The Eisenhower administration is fortunate to have an opportunity to publicize its determination to place the public interest above private interest—to respect the letter and the spirit of common honesty and simple ehtics.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In the last 20 years we have seen the two Democratic presidents override the power of Congress by operating secret services under the military and State Departments and refusing to give any account to Congress or the people.

The master report on the Katyn massacre of at least 4,000 and probably many more thousand Polish officers by the Russians was suppressed by the Roosevelt-administration and probably was burned. Julius Epstein, a New York lawyer, and Arthur Bliss Lane, who was sent to Poland as our ambassador and quit to protest against the betrayal which Roosevelt acquiesced in, deserve credit for the congressional expose which has now been published as a committee report.

True, a congressional committee did make the inquest in the long run. But Epstein and Lane, by their campaign, and with very little help from the great American free press, brought Congress to the point of inquiry. At least one army officer of high rank apparently took part in the suppression and probable destruction of the report. If so, he should be charged with a serious crime and given a trial. If guilty he should be stripped, imprisoned and denied all benefits.

This and other dangerous conduct were new in the relationship between our presidency, our Congress and our people. We cannot learn how much money the Central Intelligence Agency spends except that it runs into hundreds of millions.

Not even Congress can learn what CIA spends that money for. Congress is told that it is top secret. We are spending some of that money to bribe questionable individuals in foreign countries under the noses of their respective governments. But we don't even know who does it or for what purpose.

I have disclosed the fact that one Irving Brown, a Lovestone Communist, is the chief of this business in the European "labor" field. Brown is just an employe of a left-wing, Socialist American union of needle-workers without the slightest official status in our government. It is bad enough that this fourflusher, with a proclaimed intention to set up Soviets in our own country, should be allowed to make such mischief in Europe. But it is worse that one Carmel Offie, a strange, mysterious character who has been batting around Europe for many years as a State Department employe, should have bounced from State to the CIA and from the CIA to the American Federation of Labor as an advisor to Brown and other Lovestone Communists.

And it is shocking that these nefarious works are subsidized by our money through the CIA and that not even Congress can find out how much or what it is spent for.

The CIA might just as reasonably hand Westbrook Pegler $10,000,000 in currency today to do with as he pleased, subject to no accounting. Pegler could stick it all in his pocket. Irving Brown can.

After the war I began to hear that Roosevelt had a special fund of some $25,000 to be spent for "emergencies" subject to no accounting except his "certificate." All Roosevelt had to say by way of accounting was "I spent it." He was such a liar and so greedy that it is not at all unreasonable to suggest that he kept all or most of it. He very easily could have divided all or most of it among his admirable family without running foul of any law.

Congressman John Taber, of New York, made a prolonged, diligent effort to learn what happened to this money. He couldn't even get an understandable statement of the amount. It seemed to be about $25 million.

I spent weeks of desultory inquiry by letter and phone and days at hard leg work in Washington trying to learn how much we were paying Eleanor Roosevelt for her mischief in the United Nations. I arrived at an approximation, but I never learned exactly how much she got or what for. I couldn't learn for sure

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 20, 1953

RUINOUS COST OF H-BOMB WAR

One of the weird facts of 1952 was the slight public excitement which attended the late fall announcement that the United States had exploded an H-bomb at Eniwetok in the Pacific.

In his final State-of-the-Union message, President Truman took steps to rivet greater attention upon this horrifying new phemonenon. This was wholly fitting, since the government's unnecessarily vague presentation of the Eniwetok story had much to do with the lack of public concern.

In the interval since the original announcement, some reporters have come forth with the declaration that the Eniwetok explosion was a resounding success. They contend that a bomb of colossal destructive force was touched off.

Mr. Truman appeared to confirm, rather than to challenge, this information when he offered dire warnings to Premier Stalin of the ruinous nature of any future general war. Knowing what we know of what happened at Eniwetok, we understand these words of the President to be more than idle phrases:

"The war of the future would be one in which man could extinguish millions of lives at one blow, demolish the great cities of the world, wipe out the cultural achievement of the past—and destroy the very structure of a civilization that has been slowly and painfully built up through hundreds of generations.

"Such a war is not possible for rational men."

Mr. Truman said he did not know how long it would take Stalin and his associates in the Kremlin to understand what the H-bomb and the lesser A-bomb would do to his regime and to Russia's great cities. It is entirely possible the Kremlin may already grasp the full import.

For, whatever disposition the Russian Communists may have shown to commit aggression, to impose their rule on millions of free men, they have shown very little liking for national suicide.

And, with their own highly developed seismographic and other technical equipment, they do not need to take President Truman's word that we are now in the hydrogen age. They have their independent check on what occurred at Eniwetok.

Beyond any doubt the Russians are racing to fashion an H-bomb to match ours. Eventually they will surely succeed. Scientists say there is no technical mystery about the bomb once you have built an A-bomb, as the Russians have.

Nevertheless, developing an H-bomb will not relieve the Reds of the threat posed by the American version. It will merely give Moscow the means to retaliate in kind.

Inevitably, in these first months of life with this dread device tucked away in our arsenals, we cannot see clearly the whole meaning.

The H-bomb, promising holocausts of fire and blast and tumbling stone, could be the weapon that will end the great wars. Men undertake war only when they believe they can prosecute it at less than ruinous cost to themselves. President Truman suggests to the world that such a war may never again be possible.

If that is true, the only question, then, is whether all men across the globe may be brought to realize it in time.

Father is not always a help around the house. He may not do the dishes right, his idea of dusting is to sweep under the nearest rug and he can quickly fling newspapers all over the floor around his easy chair. But he is handy to pay the bills.

Figures show that the United States population is growing more than two million a year. Guess we're going to be around for a while.

We are certain that the fellow who swallows false pride never gets a pain in the stomach.

HISTORICAL EVALUATION

History is the story of mankind that is constantly being re-evaluated. Julius Caesar wrote about Gaul but his account is more journalistic than historical in the sense that it was really a political campaign book. The ideal of history is objectivity, but even the great Gibbon nodded whenever he faced his private dislikes.

Professor Allan Nevins of Columbia University has appraised the Presidents of the United States for the New York Journal-American, classifying them as excellent, exceptional, good, mediocre, poor. The classification is difficult to follow because the historical avoids such uncompromising categories. Excellent is so superior that Professor Nevins does not include even Washington and Lincoln in this group, but he does the latter Roosevelt.

The word, mediocre, is the most difficult to understand. It really means middling, ordinary, the man-on-the-street sort of person. But to achieve the Presidency of the United States elevates a man above mediocrity.

Professor Nevins, for instance, has written much on the virtues of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the foibles of Herbert Hoover. In Nevins's and Commager's "A Short History of the United States," they say this of Herbert Hoover:

". . . Herbert Hoover, who came to the Presidency in 1929, was a man of far greater ability, with a reputation as an efficient executive, an international-minded statesman, and a great humanitarian; in four years he managed to lose all three reputations and to make more and more serious errors of judgment than any President since Grant."

As harsh as this judgment is on any man by a contemporary, it is no harsher than Horace Greeley's contemporary opinions of Abraham Lincoln. Actually, in the Republican Convention of 1864, an attempt was made to withhold renomination of Lincoln and to name Salmon P. Chase in his stead. This having failed, Greeley and Whitelaw Reid tried to organize a third party. Henry W. Davis wrote of this:

"There are hundreds of thousands who think that Mr. Lincoln cannot suppress the rebellion, and they are anxiously casting around their eyes, in this hour of deep agony, for a man of mind and will who is able to direct the national power to the suppression of the rebellion. . . ."

Certainly to such contemporaries of Abraham Lincoln, he was mediocre, or even poor. We do not believe that today.

I am not making a comparison between Lincoln and Hoover, but I do make the point that history, written contemporaneously, often misses the true qualities not only of the man but of his relationship to events. To Professor Nevins, Hoover was an unsatisfactory President while Roosevelt made an effective President.

Yet, Roosevelt solved Hoover's major problem, unemployment, only by war. Payment for idleness, subsidies for maintaining 10,000,000 unemployed, doles to the indolent, the reduction of productivity, sharing work and redistributing the wealth are devices as old as Joseph in Egypt, but they did not solve the American problem of unemployment either in the Hoover or the Roosevelt Administration.

When the European war came in 1939, this country did move into full employment. We have been at war, hot or cold, since then and we have known full employment. Will the historian of the future, judging us as objectively perhaps as Arnold J. Toynbee has viewed the Sumerian civilization, decide that at Teheran and Yalta, Roosevelt was the author of errors which proved to be devastating not only to the United States but to Western Christian civilization?

I am not an historian; yet even as a journalist, with a lesser responsibility for objectivity and no hope for permanence, I should hesitate to make so sharp a comparison among men as to call James Madison and James Monroe, mediocre, and Andrew Jackson, excellent. Perhaps the key to Professor Nevins's thinking is this sentence in his "Journal-American" appraisal of Jackson:

"The old official classes went down, and with the help of the spoils system, the plain people took office. Labor movements grew strong for the first time, and reform organizations took root."

The question arises, what happens when an historian becomes a journalist? The answer, of course, is that he is a journalist at that moment and not an historian. He reads without objectivity, which is the right of any citizen. He portrays his private prejudices, even as you and I.

I have enjoyed the friendship of Herbert Hoover for 20 years and to me, he stands monumental in our times.

THOUGHTS ON HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

If you were asked what single instrument is used most by your doctor, you would likely say the clinical thermometor or the stethoscope. This would have been the correct answer a few years ago, but the instrument most often used by the doctor today is the instrument for measuring the blood pressure which is now used perhaps as much or even more than the thermometer.

Why this great interest in the blood pressure? It is because the leading cause of death in adults is the heart stroke (coronary thrombosis) due in the majority of cases to high blood pressure. It is, nevertheless, true that a heart-stroke can occur where the blood pressure is normal and thousands of men and women with high blood pressure do not have a heart-stroke.

What many of us forget is that a single reading of blood pressure may not tell the true story.

In the Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Philip Corr, associate professor of medicine, College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles, states that the ordinary or casual reading of blood pressure may not take into consideration various factors including recent exercise, state of tension or nervousness, recent eating, time of day, and variations in the two arms. "For example, I have seen the systolic blood pressure fall 100 points (mm. of mercury) after the patient's fears were relieved during a single examination."

After outlining the various conditions present in the body which could readily raise the blood pressure such as kidney disease or the presence of just one kidney, Dr. Corr states that the bulk of hyper-tensive (high blood pressure) cases, 90 per cent or more, seen by the general practitioner, consists of the earlier stages of chronic, moderately severe "essential" or necessary high bloood pressure and are not related to any specific or special disease.

The first thought is psychotherapy, that is, treating the mind of the patient. The cause of essential hypertension where the high blood pressure is necessary despite no disease present, is unknown; people seem to be born with a certain degree of high blood pressure or low blood pressure.

By explaining to the patient that his tenseness of mind and body tightens and so decreases the size or caliber of the blood vessels that more pressure is needed to push blood through these "smaller" vessels, you may enable him to relax. This additional pressure means more work for the heart to do. Some time in the future the heart may become tired of this extra work and gradually begin to fail. Dr. Corr states that if the patient anticipates no immediate stroke, he loses his fear. Losing the fear reduces tension and also blood pressure.

So Proudly We Hail

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Many memories will crowd the mind of Dwight Eisenhower as he rides down Pennsylvania avenue today. . . . His days as a farm boy in Kansas, his first speech, as a Democrat, at a Jackson Day dinner in Abilene, his appointment to West Point, his promotions upward to the highest military command, the triumphs, the turning points of war, its tragedies, the battle of the Bulge . . . The vista of the years, crowded years, leading up to this greatest honor of all will flit through Dwight Eisenhower's memory today—along with them may be some thoughts on what this inauguration means to the world — a symbol of orderly change, of cooperation. To many countries such a change would not be possible. Change, to them, comes by revolution . . . But in these United States, the votes are cast, one party bows, the outgoing President rides beside the incoming President and wishes him well — an example of democracy for all the world to see.

Also passing through Dwight Eisenhower's mind as he rides down Pennsylvania avenue today may be the changes this country has seen since the last Republican President. . . . Eisenhower has ridden down the avenue before, once as a home-coming hero, once in a very minor capacity, when in obeying superior orders he helped evacuate the bonus army. . . . That was exactly twenty years ago, in the last year of the last Republican President. . . . Things were a lot different then, as the buildings along the line of march today so graphically illustrate.

Down the Avenue

Gone are the cheap little restaurants, the Japanese souvenir shops, the tawdry bars, the semi-red light district in the shadow of the Capitol. Gone are the ramshackle empty buildings in which the bonus army camped. . . . Replacing them are parks, the biggest gas filling station in the world, and the Mellon Art Gallery—established after a former secretary of the treasury got into tax trouble . . . Replacing them also are the Archives building, guarding the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution which the new President today swears to uphold; also the Federal Trade Commission, guarding the principle of free and fair business competition, which some of Ike's supporters today view with lukewarm approval but other great Republican, Teddy Roosevelt. . . . Ike will also pass the Justice Department, supposed to be the symbol of clean government, its facade or aluminum shimmering, but tarnished and besmirched inside. . . . Across the way is the Bureau of Internal Revenue, supposed symbol of tax integrity, now beslimed with favoritism and fenagling. . . . Cleaning these up will be one of the first jobs of the new President.

Nearby is the National Museum. A big market place, featuring farm wagons, crates of chickens, piles of cheese used to adorn this heart of the capital when Ike was here as a young major . . . Today the museum houses the airplane in which a young aviator named Lindbergh made a historic trip across the Atlantic . . . Such trips were rare and difficult when the last Republican President rode down Pennsylvania avenue. But the air force has just announced a new rocket able to cross the Atlantic, while Ike himself flew back from Paris in a matter of hours.

Changing Times

So times change. So a new world, a new government awaits the hand of a new President. . . . The once ramshackle Labor Department near the line of march has changed too, has a new, sleek building all its own, indicative of the present power and importance of labor. . . . Along the line of march is the Commerce Department—once called Hoover's Folly because he planned it as the biggest office building in the world. But the Democrats were glad to inherit it, and to build even greater office space. . . . Thus has grown the concentrated, centralized power of Washington—one of the problems facing the new President. . . . The White House at the end of his line of march housed only a handful of officials when the last Republican President departed—a top secretary, a press secretary, and a handful of stenographers. . . . Today the White House has a staff of about 1,000, though 462 are in the Budget Bureau. And the executive offices, instead of occupying a wing of the White House have spilled across the street to fill completely the gnarled and ugly old state, war, and navy building. . . . Can the new President cut this down? It's a difficult challenge.

There were only 14,111 officers in the army when Ike was a young major in Washington 20 years ago. The total armed strength of the nation, army and navy, was a mere 244,000 — both officers and men. . . . Today it's well over 3,600,000. . . . The budget 20 years ago was only $4,659,000,000. Today it's over $70,000,000,000 — most of it for the military.

Cavalry was used on Pennsylvania avenue 20 years ago to evacuate the bonus army. Today cavalry is so outmoded that a dozen horses are kept at Fort Myer only for use in military funerals. . . The army today rides on wheels, armored cruisers fly in the air, and atomic weapons may make battleships as helpless as horses. . . . All this in 20 brief and fleeting years! How much more change in the next four!

Bronze statues of military heroes line the route of Ike's parade. Important heroes, great heroes, men who won this nation's wars. . . . Less conspicuous along Pennsylvania avenue is a statue of Ben Franklin, a hero, but a civilian. . . . Off the line of march are war buildings, relics of the hasty housing expansion which features war; Built for expanding war services, and built to be torn down. . . . But they remain; ugly, haphazard reminders—in contrast to the beautiful architecture of permanent buildings—of past wars and possible wars to come. . . . The new President knows these buildings all too well, just as he knows the ugliness, the sordidness of war. He has a genuine hatred for war, has sworn he will do his best to prevent war. . . . Even his critics feel he is sincere in that pledge. But can he carry out that pledge? Can he fulfill the hopes, allay the fears of all mankind? . . . That will be the greatest test of Dwight Eisenhower—that is what he will be thinking most about today. . . . That will be the task for which he needs the help, the prayers of every citizen.

The literal meaning of Eisenhower is "Iron Hewer" — a German trade name describing a blacksmith.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 20, 1933—A group of the city's unemployed men formed a temporary organization to help solve their own problems.

The annual Shriners Ball was held at the new state armory off Manor avenue.

Ralph H. Johnson was elected superintendent of schools in the second supervisory district.

Mrs. James H. Cramer died at her West O'Reilly street home.

Mrs. Josephine Resler, 71, of Second avenue, was fatally stricken with a heart attack while walking on Delaware avenue.

Jan. 20, 1943—New York's Police Commissioner Valentine said the gasoline shortage might cause temporary closing of the Platte Clove summer police camp.

High winds damaged telephone lines in Sullivan and Greene counties.

Mrs. Russell Krom, town of Marbletown, who was taken ill while on jury duty, died at Kingston Hospital.

Louis H. Schafer was engaged as physical director at the local YMCA.

Indianapolis (AP)—A 29-year-old man named J. Edgar Hoover was fined $27 in municipal court for reckless driving. "I never thought I'd have you in my court," Judge Phillip L. Bayt jokingly told the driver. This J. Edgar Hoover is a truck driver, not the famed head of the FBI.

No Point Is Seen in Amending Law Barring Transactions by Executive Officials

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 20—The Inaugural ceremony reflects the abstract—not the concrete. The message is inspirational—it rarely contains a formula of legislation or program of policies.

Yet in the consciousness of everybody is the fact of change—change from policies that disappointed and disturbed to policies which it is hoped will produce national unity and international peace.

There is another phase of the change, however, which became specific almost overnight—even before the inaugural ceremony. It's the phase that demands clean government, ethical government, honest government.

The issue emerged suddenly to challenge the new administration. Should Charles E. Wilson be confirmed as secretary of defense and yet retain his $2,500,000 worth of holdings of stock in General Motors, accumulated out of his business career, when the law says that no official can "transact" business with any company in which he may be in a position to profit personally?

This does not concern Mr. Wilson alone. Dozens of new officials will be appointed by the new President—some of them from the field of law, some from finance, and some from industry. Shall each divest himself of all relationships with previous companies, corporations or firms?

Obviously, merely to sell one's holdings doesn't solve the problem. For if a man is part of a large company one day and sells his holdings the next, does he thereby divest himself as well of lifelong friendships and intimacies? Does the government require him to do the impossible?

It is not a new question. It happens all the time on the judicial bench. Some Justices of the Supreme Court always hold stocks, but when a pending case could even remotely affect such stock ownership, the justice "disqualifies" himself. The same might well apply to executive officials as well as to members of Congress.

There is no point in amending the existing law which bars transactions by executive officials with companies in which they hold stock or from which they can derive pecuniary gain. Nor is there any point in any legal interpretation artificially devised to exempt high officials from the present law. It is no answer, as suggested, merely to put the stocks in trust and let the tax be collected later only if the securities are subsequently sold after the Cabinet officer terminates his government service.

The logical solution is to require by executive order of the President that when any official has before him either a contract or a government proceeding that involves a former client or former employee-relationship, the matter shall be presented to the White House for reference to some board or agency that can make the necessary decision without in any way consulting the executive in question. This is the same thing as reassigning a case where a judge disqualifies himself.

In most instances the reference to another official will solve the problem. But it must be mandatory rather than discretionary.

As for the Defense Department, it was not surprising that Mr. Wilson naively thought his statement that he could deal at arm's length with General Motors on contract matters should be accepted by everybody. Honest men think others will give them credit for their honesty. The political world, unfortunately, feels otherwise—a man presumably is dishonest until proved honest, or, to put it another way, he cannot place himself in a situation that could even implicitly give rise to a question of conflicting loyalty, whether to the government, on the one hand, or to his former employers or clients, on the other.

Business men who come into government are always surprised by the rigorous requirements of politics—and yet, despite all the laws and self-imposed rules of restraint, the fact remains that honest men will lean over backward not to favor former business associates, and dishonest men will do what they please even if they have divested themselves of every stock holding.

The Eisenhower administration should be glad the issue of ethics has arisen so early because it can by a sweeping order, affecting not just Mr. Wilson but all officials, show the country that a different climate has been ushered in here in the handling of public funds by the new custodians.

Other officials in previous administrations didn't always divest themselves of stock holdings, and there is no innuendo that they acted improperly. The issue has taken on new aspects, however, in view of the exposures of petty graft during the last administration.

The Eisenhower administration is fortunate to have an opportunity to publicize its determination to place the public interest above private interest—to respect the letter and the spirit of common honesty and simple ehtics.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In the last 20 years we have seen the two Democratic presidents override the power of Congress by operating secret services under the military and State Departments and refusing to give any account to Congress or the people.

The master report on the Katyn massacre of at least 4,000 and probably many more thousand Polish officers by the Russians was suppressed by the Roosevelt-administration and probably was burned. Julius Epstein, a New York lawyer, and Arthur Bliss Lane, who was sent to Poland as our ambassador and quit to protest against the betrayal which Roosevelt acquiesced in, deserve credit for the congressional expose which has now been published as a committee report.

True, a congressional committee did make the inquest in the long run. But Epstein and Lane, by their campaign, and with very little help from the great American free press, brought Congress to the point of inquiry. At least one army officer of high rank apparently took part in the suppression and probable destruction of the report. If so, he should be charged with a serious crime and given a trial. If guilty he should be stripped, imprisoned and denied all benefits.

This and other dangerous conduct were new in the relationship between our presidency, our Congress and our people. We cannot learn how much money the Central Intelligence Agency spends except that it runs into hundreds of millions.

Not even Congress can learn what CIA spends that money for. Congress is told that it is top secret. We are spending some of that money to bribe questionable individuals in foreign countries under the noses of their respective governments. But we don't even know who does it or for what purpose.

I have disclosed the fact that one Irving Brown, a Lovestone Communist, is the chief of this business in the European "labor" field. Brown is just an employe of a left-wing, Socialist American union of needle-workers without the slightest official status in our government. It is bad enough that this fourflusher, with a proclaimed intention to set up Soviets in our own country, should be allowed to make such mischief in Europe. But it is worse that one Carmel Offie, a strange, mysterious character who has been batting around Europe for many years as a State Department employe, should have bounced from State to the CIA and from the CIA to the American Federation of Labor as an advisor to Brown and other Lovestone Communists.

And it is shocking that these nefarious works are subsidized by our money through the CIA and that not even Congress can find out how much or what it is spent for.

The CIA might just as reasonably hand Westbrook Pegler $10,000,000 in currency today to do with as he pleased, subject to no accounting. Pegler could stick it all in his pocket. Irving Brown can.

After the war I began to hear that Roosevelt had a special fund of some $25,000 to be spent for "emergencies" subject to no accounting except his "certificate." All Roosevelt had to say by way of accounting was "I spent it." He was such a liar and so greedy that it is not at all unreasonable to suggest that he kept all or most of it. He very easily could have divided all or most of it among his admirable family without running foul of any law.

Congressman John Taber, of New York, made a prolonged, diligent effort to learn what happened to this money. He couldn't even get an understandable statement of the amount. It seemed to be about $25 million.

I spent weeks of desultory inquiry by letter and phone and days at hard leg work in Washington trying to learn how much we were paying Eleanor Roosevelt for her mischief in the United Nations. I arrived at an approximation, but I never learned exactly how much she got or what for. I couldn't learn for sure

Held on Check Charge

Walter Keyser, 49, of 25 Broadway was arrested in Kingston Monday afternoon by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown on a charge of issuing a fraudulent check. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ernest Schirmer of Saugerties, Keyser pleaded guilty. Imposition of sentence was put over until this afternoon and Keyser was released on his own cognizance to have an opportunity to make the check good. The sheriffs office said the check, amounting to about $20, had been issued to Mrs. Edward M. North at the North gasoline station at Glasco.

Allied Drives

J. Condrick of Redlands, Calif.

Sharp patrol fights flared on the eastern front and the U. S. Eighth Army said an estimated 105 North Korean Reds were killed or wounded.

Temperatures along the battle line hovered just above zero. A light snow drifted down on the central and western fronts.

Eleven U. S. B-29 Superforts unloaded 110 tons of bombs last night on two Communist supply targets in northwest Korea.

The South Korean pilots in today's attacks said they destroyed or damaged seven troop buildings, four gun positions, two bunkers and a supply dump.

Swoop Down on Tanks

The marine planes swooped down on two Red tanks. Results were not reported.

The army said yesterday's hammering blows by tanks and warplanes accounted for 74 Chinese bunkers. The tankers popped direct fire into 12 Chinese caves.

Marine warplanes surprised an estimated two regiments of Communist troops on Papa-San mountain yesterday and killed an estimated 120 of the 6,000 troops.

Marine pilots also flushed several Red tanks in the same area and destroyed one and damaged three.

In naval action yesterday, the heavy cruiser Los Angeles and the destroyer Yarnell blasted bunkers, rail lines and communications facilities in eastern Korea.

Jovial Greeting

Sen. William Langer (R.-N.D.), left, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Herbert Brownell, who is to be Attorney General in the Eisenhower administration, are in jovial spirits as they greet each other at a committee meeing in Washington, Jan. 19.

Wilson's Chances

cial interest some Senators said amendment of the law may not be enough to win approval for Wilson.

These Senators said the alternative either is for Wilson to dispose of his stock or to ask that his name not be submitted.

If Wilson has any thought of withdrawing, it was not publicly apparent. He said in a New York city speech yesterday he intends to re-examine basic national security plans as secretary of defense and might ask Congress for legislation to streamline the Defense Department.

Arriving here last night to take part in the inaugural ceremonies, Wilson declined to comment on speculation about whether he might ask that his name be withdrawn.

"I'm on the spot, boys," he told newsmen.

Asked to Testify

Chairman Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) said Herbert Brownell Jr., Eisenhower's choice for attorney general, had been asked to testify before the Armed Services Committee tomorrow along with Wilson.

Republicans checked up to Brownell the task of trying to find some way to clear up Wilson's status. When his own prospective nomination was before the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday, Brownell said he doesn't believe in enacting special laws—that all statutes must deal with all persons equally.

Significantly, perhaps, Brownell said he had sold out his law firm holdings for his own "convenience and peace of mind."

Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), who first raised the question of Wilson's financial holdings in a firm which is the Defense Department's largest contractor, has reminded other senators that the law in question applies to all federal officials down the line.

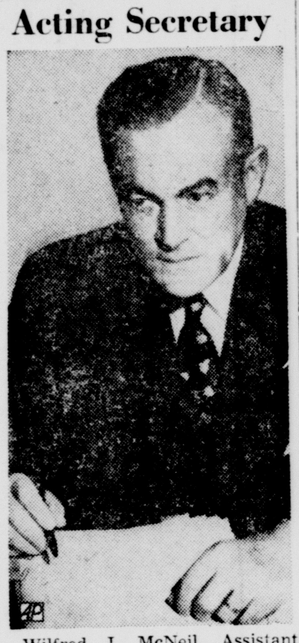

Roger M. Kyes, picked by Wilson as his chief deputy, likewise is a General Motors stockholder. Robert T. B. Stevens, chosen for army secretary, and Harold E. Talbott, air secretary, also have industrial holdings.

Of the group, only Robert B. Anderson, named for secretary of the navy, said he had kept no industrial interests.

Their nominations will be held up until there is a decision in the Wilson case.

Held on Check Charge

Walter Keyser, 49, of 25 Broadway was arrested in Kingston Monday afternoon by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown on a charge of issuing a fraudulent check. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ernest Schirmer of Saugerties, Keyser pleaded guilty. Imposition of sentence was put over until this afternoon and Keyser was released on his own cognizance to have an opportunity to make the check good. The sheriffs office said the check, amounting to about $20, had been issued to Mrs. Edward M. North at the North gasoline station at Glasco.

J. Condrick of Redlands, Calif.

Sharp patrol fights flared on the eastern front and the U. S. Eighth Army said an estimated 105 North Korean Reds were killed or wounded.

Temperatures along the battle line hovered just above zero. A light snow drifted down on the central and western fronts.

Eleven U. S. B-29 Superforts unloaded 110 tons of bombs last night on two Communist supply targets in northwest Korea.

The South Korean pilots in today's attacks said they destroyed or damaged seven troop buildings, four gun positions, two bunkers and a supply dump.

Swoop Down on Tanks

The marine planes swooped down on two Red tanks. Results were not reported.

The army said yesterday's hammering blows by tanks and warplanes accounted for 74 Chinese bunkers. The tankers popped direct fire into 12 Chinese caves.

Marine warplanes surprised an estimated two regiments of Communist troops on Papa-San mountain yesterday and killed an estimated 120 of the 6,000 troops.

Marine pilots also flushed several Red tanks in the same area and destroyed one and damaged three.

In naval action yesterday, the heavy cruiser Los Angeles and the destroyer Yarnell blasted bunkers, rail lines and communications facilities in eastern Korea.

Jovial Greeting

Sen. William Langer (R.-N.D.), left, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Herbert Brownell, who is to be Attorney General in the Eisenhower administration, are in jovial spirits as they greet each other at a committee meeing in Washington, Jan. 19.

Wilson's Chances

cial interest some Senators said amendment of the law may not be enough to win approval for Wilson.

These Senators said the alternative either is for Wilson to dispose of his stock or to ask that his name not be submitted.

If Wilson has any thought of withdrawing, it was not publicly apparent. He said in a New York city speech yesterday he intends to re-examine basic national security plans as secretary of defense and might ask Congress for legislation to streamline the Defense Department.

Arriving here last night to take part in the inaugural ceremonies, Wilson declined to comment on speculation about whether he might ask that his name be withdrawn.

"I'm on the spot, boys," he told newsmen.

Asked to Testify

Chairman Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) said Herbert Brownell Jr., Eisenhower's choice for attorney general, had been asked to testify before the Armed Services Committee tomorrow along with Wilson.

Republicans checked up to Brownell the task of trying to find some way to clear up Wilson's status. When his own prospective nomination was before the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday, Brownell said he doesn't believe in enacting special laws—that all statutes must deal with all persons equally.

Significantly, perhaps, Brownell said he had sold out his law firm holdings for his own "convenience and peace of mind."

Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), who first raised the question of Wilson's financial holdings in a firm which is the Defense Department's largest contractor, has reminded other senators that the law in question applies to all federal officials down the line.

Roger M. Kyes, picked by Wilson as his chief deputy, likewise is a General Motors stockholder. Robert T. B. Stevens, chosen for army secretary, and Harold E. Talbott, air secretary, also have industrial holdings.

Of the group, only Robert B. Anderson, named for secretary of the navy, said he had kept no industrial interests.

Their nominations will be held up until there is a decision in the Wilson case.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As an avowed admirer of American "big business"—even a propagandist, some might term it, considering the books I've written extolling business and the American spirit of capitalistic ventures—considering this bias, it may appear strange that the Ruminator is somewhat disturbed over the big-business appointees to the Eisenhower cabinet.

But that's what comes from having got into the habit of contrary thinking, I suppose.

From the standpoint of efficiency, of managerial skill, of organizing ability, of the genius for money-making (both for themselves and their stockholders), it would be virtually impossible to locate men superior to those who have been selected to fill important posts in the Treasury, Defense, and Commerce Departments.

But the qualities needed to manage vast industrial enterprises are not the same as those which are essential for the conduct of government.

Perhaps I have expressed this inaccurately: It would be better to say that the qualifications for corporate management do not necessarily include those which are required in governmental directorships.

The fundamental distinction is obvious: A top-flight executive is boss. What he says, goes—subject, it is true, to the directors and stockholders; but usually the directors see eye-to-eye with the man they have chosen to boss their enterprise; while stockholders have little to say at all.

Few big businessmen have patience with details, or with "explanations." They expect those under them to carry out policies and not argue too much. Today you hear a lot about executives who demand that all memoranda and letters shall be condensed to a single page; they have no time for lengthy, detailed comments. You have heard this about Eisenhower, recently about Treasury Secretary-designate Humphrey—and also about Winston Churchill curiously enough, when you consider how wordy he is himself.

Few big businessmen are diplomats, although the present generation is far ahead of their fathers and grandfathers in this respect. Yet, down underneath, I think the big shot of today often wishes he might vocally enunciate the oft-repeated remark of the robber barons: "To hell with the public; it's none of their business; Obviously, no corporation head would think of saying such a thing today, having smarted for years under the lash of the New and Fair Dealers, until they've learned to keep their thoughts to themselves.

But when big business executives move into Washington they will find the climate very different from the atmosphere in their home office.

Congressmen and Senators—many of whom are envious of the positions held by the big boys—are not slow to bait and egg on department heads and sub-heads when occasion arises. At the same time, the businessman frets over being held up and detained in putting through his "directives." Look back at the businessmen who have served in Washington during the past several years. All have left, with a discouraging feeling of frustration; some have died from the adverse pressure.

True, the Washington climate is going to be more pro-business-minded under Eisenhower than under Truman and Roosevelt. The General looks up to and admires business bosses and successful money-makers. But this doesn't mean that everything the business voices wish to carry out will be either (1) understood and comprehended, or (2) will be permitted to go through without numerous changes and tightly bound conditions.

Take the situation prevailing as this is written (but may be resolved shortly).

The Republican High Command must have known all about the law that cabinet officers must be completely divorced from business interests which could in any manner conflict with their government obligations. Yet here we have several appointees who are stockholders in numerous coporations with which the government does business. Mr. Wilson's stockholdings in General Motors is the most spectacular, but other men have large and ramified corporate interests. You can see how "touchy" this law is when it is reported that General Motors holds "some 60 per cent of the defense contracts" and moreover that GM supposedly has asked the Defense Department (which its ex-President may head) for an increase in its profits on government business.

The Ruminator writes all this simply for the reason that it is too easy to get carried away in our enthusiasms and we should be prepared for occasional pin-pricks in our balloons of high hopes for the much-desired "change" in Washington.

Legion Committee Will Meet Jan. 28

The Ulster County Committee of the American Legion will meet at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, Lake Katrine, at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 28, it was announced today by C. W. Barth, county commander.

Barth said that the membership chairman of the third district had requested an up-to-date report on membership by January 23. He pointed out that current reports show the county membership to be almost 1,400 but that the state organization had it listed for only 850. Chairman Clarance Brown has requested all posts to be more prompt in submitting membership cards, he said.

"We have approximately 50 per cent of our goal and with your cooperation the balance can be reached in the near future."

Chairman Joe Beichert of the boys' state committee has requested each post to appoint a boys' state chairman for the program which will commence this month. Chairman John Miller of the oratorical contest has asked that a good representation of Legionnaires and friends attend the county oratorical contest at Saugerties High School at 8 p. m. Friday, Jan. 23.

On Sunday, Jan. 25, there will be a 40 and 8 prom at Port Ewen, on Tuesday, Jan. 27 a legislative dinner at Albany and a meeting of the third district.

Mines Are Neighbors

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — The world's two biggest coal mines lie within a 5-mile radius in Southwestern Pennsylvania. Both are captive; that is, steel-company-owned. Each produces more than four million tons of bituminous coal per year. All of it is turned into coke to feed the mighty furnaces that produce iron. One of the giant pits is U. S. Steel's Robena mine at Greensboro. Ten miles north at Fredericktown lies Jones & Laughlin Steel's Vesta 4 and 5 mine.

Why We Say--

. . . Produce the body

Any reader of detective stories will know that the law of "habeas corpus" means that the police must produce the body before holding a suspect for murder. The law originated in England in 1679 at a time when a great many prisoners were being arrested and held for crimes which it was not certain had actually been committed. The U. S. adopted the law early in its history. Oddly enough, Britain abolished habeas corpus during the Second World War for military expediency.

TILLSON

Tillson, Jan. 19—Regulations regarding the use of the Tillson Firehall were discussed at the monthly meeting of the board of fire commissioners last week. Due to the fact that the main floor is now being used by the school as a classroom for grades 6, 7 and 8, this section will remain locked when not in use.

Organizations desiring to use the hall must contact a member of the board of fire commissioners for permission. The hall may be used as in the past but in order to control schedules, permission must first be granted by the board.

Most meetings and recreation activities are confined to the lower floor, but in the event the use of the main floor is desired, a spokesman for the board of fire commissioners pointed out that in all probability permission for its use would be granted.

The fire company has started work in the kitchen which will be fireproofed and within a short time the building will be nearly complete.

Airman 3/c Lawrence Avery is now in the USAF Hospital, Lowry Air Force Base, Colorado, where he is confined to bed with rheumatic fever. In a recent letter to his parents, young Avery expressed a desire to receive mail from his friends.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As an avowed admirer of American "big business"—even a propagandist, some might term it, considering the books I've written extolling business and the American spirit of capitalistic ventures—considering this bias, it may appear strange that the Ruminator is somewhat disturbed over the big-business appointees to the Eisenhower cabinet.

But that's what comes from having got into the habit of contrary thinking, I suppose.

From the standpoint of efficiency, of managerial skill, of organizing ability, of the genius for money-making (both for themselves and their stockholders), it would be virtually impossible to locate men superior to those who have been selected to fill important posts in the Treasury, Defense, and Commerce Departments.

But the qualities needed to manage vast industrial enterprises are not the same as those which are essential for the conduct of government.

Perhaps I have expressed this inaccurately: It would be better to say that the qualifications for corporate management do not necessarily include those which are required in governmental directorships.

The fundamental distinction is obvious: A top-flight executive is boss. What he says, goes—subject, it is true, to the directors and stockholders; but usually the directors see eye-to-eye with the man they have chosen to boss their enterprise; while stockholders have little to say at all.

Few big businessmen have patience with details, or with "explanations." They expect those under them to carry out policies and not argue too much. Today you hear a lot about executives who demand that all memoranda and letters shall be condensed to a single page; they have no time for lengthy, detailed comments. You have heard this about Eisenhower, recently about Treasury Secretary-designate Humphrey—and also about Winston Churchill curiously enough, when you consider how wordy he is himself.

Few big businessmen are diplomats, although the present generation is far ahead of their fathers and grandfathers in this respect. Yet, down underneath, I think the big shot of today often wishes he might vocally enunciate the oft-repeated remark of the robber barons: "To hell with the public; it's none of their business; Obviously, no corporation head would think of saying such a thing today, having smarted for years under the lash of the New and Fair Dealers, until they've learned to keep their thoughts to themselves.

But when big business executives move into Washington they will find the climate very different from the atmosphere in their home office.

Congressmen and Senators—many of whom are envious of the positions held by the big boys—are not slow to bait and egg on department heads and sub-heads when occasion arises. At the same time, the businessman frets over being held up and detained in putting through his "directives." Look back at the businessmen who have served in Washington during the past several years. All have left, with a discouraging feeling of frustration; some have died from the adverse pressure.

True, the Washington climate is going to be more pro-business-minded under Eisenhower than under Truman and Roosevelt. The General looks up to and admires business bosses and successful money-makers. But this doesn't mean that everything the business voices wish to carry out will be either (1) understood and comprehended, or (2) will be permitted to go through without numerous changes and tightly bound conditions.

Take the situation prevailing as this is written (but may be resolved shortly).

The Republican High Command must have known all about the law that cabinet officers must be completely divorced from business interests which could in any manner conflict with their government obligations. Yet here we have several appointees who are stockholders in numerous coporations with which the government does business. Mr. Wilson's stockholdings in General Motors is the most spectacular, but other men have large and ramified corporate interests. You can see how "touchy" this law is when it is reported that General Motors holds "some 60 per cent of the defense contracts" and moreover that GM supposedly has asked the Defense Department (which its ex-President may head) for an increase in its profits on government business.

The Ruminator writes all this simply for the reason that it is too easy to get carried away in our enthusiasms and we should be prepared for occasional pin-pricks in our balloons of high hopes for the much-desired "change" in Washington.

Legion Committee Will Meet Jan. 28

The Ulster County Committee of the American Legion will meet at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, Lake Katrine, at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 28, it was announced today by C. W. Barth, county commander.

Barth said that the membership chairman of the third district had requested an up-to-date report on membership by January 23. He pointed out that current reports show the county membership to be almost 1,400 but that the state organization had it listed for only 850. Chairman Clarence Brown has requested all posts to be more prompt in submitting membership cards, he said.

"We have approximately 50 per cent of our goal and with your cooperation the balance can be reached in the near future."

Chairman Joe Beichert of the boys' state committee has requested each post to appoint a boys' state chairman for the program which will commence this month. Chairman John Miller of the oratorical contest has asked that a good representation of Legionnaires and friends attend the county oratorical contest at Saugerties High School at 8 p. m. Friday, Jan. 23.

On Sunday, Jan. 25, there will be a 40 and 8 prom at Port Ewen, on Tuesday, Jan. 27 a legislative dinner at Albany and a meeting of the third district.

Mines Are Neighbors

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — The world's two biggest coal mines lie within a 5-mile radius in Southwestern Pennsylvania. Both are captive; that is, steel-company-owned. Each produces more than four million tons of bituminous coal per year. All of it is turned into coke to feed the mighty furnaces that produce iron. One of the giant pits is U. S. Steel's Robena mine at Greensboro. Ten miles north at Fredericktown lies Jones & Laughlin Steel's Vesta 4 and 5 mine.

Why We Say--

HABEAS CORPUS

. . . Produce the body

Any reader of detective stories will know that the law of "habeas corpus" means that the police must produce the body before holding a suspect for murder. The law originated in England in 1679 at a time when a great many prisoners were being arrested and held for crimes which it was not certain had actually been committed. The U. S. adopted the law early in its history. Oddly enough, Britain abolished habeas corpus during the Second World War for military expediency.

TILLSON

Tillson, Jan. 19—Regulations regarding the use of the Tillson Firehall were discussed at the monthly meeting of the board of fire commissioners last week. Due to the fact that the main floor is now being used by the school as a classroom for grades 6, 7 and 8, this section will remain locked when not in use.

Organizations desiring to use the hall must contact a member of the board of fire commissioners for permission. The hall may be used as in the past but in order to control schedules, permission must first be granted by the board.

Most meetings and recreation activities are confined to the lower floor, but in the event the use of the main floor is desired, a spokesman for the board of fire commissioners pointed out that in all probability permission for its use would be granted.

The fire company has started work in the kitchen which will be fireproofed and within a short time the building will be nearly complete.

Airman 3/c Lawrence Avery is now in the USAF Hospital, Lowry Air Force Base, Colorado, where he is confined to bed with rheumatic fever. In a recent letter to his parents, young Avery expressed a desire to receive mail from his friends.

Grange News

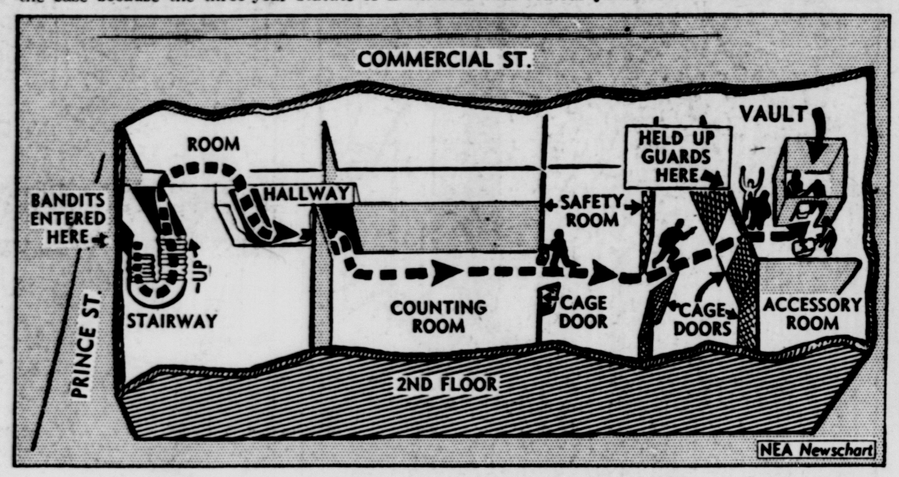

Membership in New York State Grange as reported by State Secretary Harold M. Stanley at the last annual session is 142,254. As pointed out at that time, the numbers would come up over the 150,000 mark if the gains made in just one quarter year were held and not lost by suspensions, death and other causes. It was further pointed out that there was an actual gain of nearly 9,000 new members in the state last year, people who in most cases had never been in Grange before. Here again the net figure for the year showed no actual gains because of the aforesaid deaths, suspensions and other causes. In the Subordinate Grange, when that Membership Committee swung into action (and we hope yours has) it must remember that to end up the year with more members it is necessary to plug up all the holes, lock the back door and open wide the front gate to all those neighbors who are waiting to be asked. Make up a down-the-road prospect list now, pick up a bunch of "Why Join the Grange" leaflets, and start making some friendly calls.

Regional conferences will be held all over the state beginning February 4 at Cortlandville Grange in Cortland county, and continuing through the first week of March. There will be 19 in all, and this means that there will be one near your Grange. The call is issued to all Grange workers, so there will be something of interest to everyone, whether an officer or not. Every Grange Master and deputy has received a schedule of the conferences, so make sure to plan for the one nearest you. In addition to the first named above, the next in order are: Feb. 5, at Sanitaria Springs Grange, Broome county; Feb. 6, Penn Yan, Yates county; and Clyde Grange, Wayne county, Feb. 7.

Brink's Robbery Remains Nation's Biggest Crime Mystery---

Three years after commission the spectacular Brink's robbery remains unsolved and has a left a pretty cold trail. The mystery began the night of Jan. 17, 1950, when the Boston office of Brink's, Inc., a nationwide armored car service, was robbed of $1,219,000. Guards on duty in the vault said six or seven men, dressed identically in Navy peacoats and wearing identical Halloween masks, held them up, bound them, and in 20 minutes, made off with the money. There was a passkey mising, but a Boston policeman demonstrated that the locks could easily be picked with a common nail file. The bandits opened five doors without attracting guards. Obviously well planned, and posibly an inside job, the Brink's robbery has so far frustrated thousands of police and the FBI, which must now drop the case because the three-year statute of limitations ends federal jurisdiction. Pictures below trace highlights of the case.

Apparently familiar with their surroundings, the bandits made a beeline for the money room, unlocking doors with a pass key and slipping through mysteriously vacant guard posts.

Police Captain John Ahern picked five locks with a nail file.

Nightclub operator Carlton O'Brien was slain May 17, 1952, three days after being named as a "principal" in the robbery.

Chief suspect Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe refused to answer Boston Federal Grand Jury's questions; has a long police record.

Mrs. Mary Hooley, O'Keefe's sister, was suspected of concealing some of the loot in her home near Boston. Also refuses to talk.

J. Edgar Hoover's FBI has worked for indictments, but must now quit because of the three-year statute of limitations.

More Roads Being Plowed, Sanded Today—DeGraff

Woodstock, Jan. 19—One of the surest indications of the growth, and popularity of a community, even during the winter months, is the number and distance of the roads to be plowed during the stormy season. Benjamin DeGraff, who was elected road commissioner in November, reports that since he held the same office for one term in 1946 and 1947 many more people are staying here for the winter.

"There is much more plowing and sanding to be done than there was in 1947," he said, "and it now requires an average of eight men to maintain the roads, plus the extras taken on after a heavy snowstorm."

Even so, DeGraff recalls, the winters are no longer apparently. Born "in potato diggin' time—the 9th of August—and brought up at the old family farmhouse on Yerry Hill Road on Ohayo Mountain, DeGraff remembers seven and eight-foot snowdrifts when it might be two weeks before they were able to get into the village.

His father ran the general store and post office in the section on Ohayo Mountain that was known at that time as Montoma. "All the houses around here," he said, "had a roughly built summer kitchen, and in the winter it was continuously cold enough for meat storage. We butchered all our own pigs and other meat which lasted through the winter."

When DeGraff was only seven years old he drove a team of oxen up to the Snake Rock quarry to help with pulling out the stone, the principal wintertime occupation of the farmers and other residents in this region. When snow conditions permitted, the wagons carrying the stone were fixed for sliding down the slopes. The wheels were chained fast and fitted with a shoe-like contraption turning them into veritable sleighs capable of carrying the heaviest loads of bluestone.

Although this has been to date a comparatively mild winter with few snow storms, DeGraff pointed out that "this is a winter of freezing and thawing which cuts up the roads a great deal more than a winter of solid freezing."

Although farming and quarrying have both ceased largely as activities in this area, DeGraff still participated in one of his boyhood activities. A member of sportsmen's clubs in the vicinity for 30 years, he hunts regularly during the deer season with his 30-year-old rifle.

DeGraff is the father of Mrs. Clifford Robert Rifenberg, whose husband is scheduled to return from Korea in March. His son David DeGraff, who along with Rifenberg is in the Army Ordnance Division, is expected to return from Korea in February. One other son, Vernon, is at home.

Tribune Reviews Ethel Magafan Show

Woodstock, Jan. 19—A review of the current one-man show of paintings by Ethel Magafan at the Ganso gallery in New York appeared in the art section of the New York Herald Tribune Sunday. Carlyle Burrows, art critic, wrote: "Though Ethel Magafan, winner of a Fulbright award, is dealing most usually with mountains in her paintings of Spain which the Ganso gallery is showing, there are other elements of interest, such as herdsmen and horses, the brush-like growth of forested terrain and fields. This austere country lends itself admirably to the work of a realist who makes the most of essentials and records simplicity all the way, for it enables her to embroider the subject in her own way, which is to say by means of color that both defines and gives contrast. Worked firmly on the canvas it has surface texture of an enamel-like quality. This artist is especially pleasing where she emphasizes playfully in goats an angularity of form which repeats the quality of rocky crests, and lends her personal colors of yellow, white and pale green to make a calm and suggestive patchwork of an entire upland landscape vista."

Swenson Elected

Woodstock, Jan. 19 — It has been announced that Ed Swenson was elected vice-president of the Bank of Orange County last Tuesday. Swenson is manager of the Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County.

Woodstock, Jan. 19 — Phyllis Hill, who was a featured player in many of the productions at the Woodstock Playhouse last summer, has joined the cast of The Fifth Season, Sylvia Regan's play which opens next Friday night at the Cort Theatre in New York.

Woodstock, Jan. 19—A painting by Frank C. Bensing of Wittenberg, titled Bearsville, is included in the 1953 exhibition of paintings and prints which opened January 10 at the Salmagundi Club, 47 Fifth avenue, New York. The exhibition will conclude with the annual auction sale of paintings held at the club on the evenings of January 21, 22 and 23.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gardner are the parents of a daughter, Joyce Alane, born at the Kingston Hospital January 15. Two County Marines In Desert Maneuvers

Recently, two Ulster county marines were right in the middle of an important combat desert maneuver near 29 Palms, Calif. They were Marine Pfc. Edward R. Reilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Reilley, 37 Stuyvesant street, and Pfc. Francis Van Gaasbeck, Kingston. Both men are members of the Third Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Rolling over the highways on a 150-mile motor march, the leathernecks unloaded in the middle of a desert expanse to do battle with a mythical enemy. This maneuver topped off a series of training exercises that started with elementary units and moved on to larger organizations. Last October, the division completed its first amphibious assault on a Southern California beach. They came ashore on landing boats, amphib tractors and amphibious trucks. The desert maneuver was a continuation of this amphibious landing problem.

Pfc. Reilley and Pfc Van Gaasbeck enlisted in the marines in January of 1952 through the local marine office for three years. Pfc. Reilley is a former member of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, Kingston National Guard unit.

Returns from Korea

Army Cpl. Thomas A. MacEntee, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacEntee of Route 1, Gardiner, has returned to the United States after nearly a year in Korea. He served with the 5th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company as a mechanic during his tour of duty in the combat zone. Cpl. MacEntee entered the army in February, 1951, and has been awarded the UN Service Ribbon and the Korean Service Ribbon with one campaign star.

The number of trucks in the United States increased from about 2½ million in 1925 to about 9½ million in 1952.

Any Age OK for Skiing

Sun Valley, Ida. (AP)—An Olympic skating expert says you're never too old—or too young—to ski. Fred A. Picard, technical adviser of the 1952 U. S. Women's Olympic skiing team, says he has seen 1-year-old children slipping around on skis. In Switzerland, he says, children usually begin skiing at the age of 4 or 5 and in Norway some skiers are 80. "This should come as a big surprise to men of 40 and 50 who claim they are too old to ski," he says.

Although this has been to date a comparatively mild winter with few snow storms, DeGraff pointed out that "this is a winter of freezing and thawing which cuts up the roads a great deal more than a winter of solid freezing."

Although farming and quarrying have both ceased largely as activities in this area, DeGraff still participated in one of his boyhood activities. A member of sportsmen's clubs in the vicinity for 30 years, he hunts regularly during the deer season with his 30-year-old rifle.

DeGraff is the father of Mrs. Clifford Robert Rifenberg, whose husband is scheduled to return from Korea in March. His son David DeGraff, who along with Rifenberg is in the Army Ordnance Division, is expected to return from Korea in February. One other son, Vernon, is at home.

Tribune Reviews Ethel Magafan Show

Woodstock, Jan. 19—A review of the current one-man show of paintings by Ethel Magafan at the Ganso gallery in New York appeared in the art section of the New York Herald Tribune Sunday. Carlyle Burrows, art critic, wrote: "Though Ethel Magafan, winner of a Fulbright award, is dealing most usually with mountains in her paintings of Spain which the Ganso gallery is showing, there are other elements of interest, such as herdsmen and horses, the brush-like growth of forested terrain and fields. This austere country lends itself admirably to the work of a realist who makes the most of essentials and records simplicity all the way, for it enables her to embroider the subject in her own way, which is to say by means of color that both defines and gives contrast. Worked firmly on the canvas it has surface texture of an enamel-like quality. This artist is especially pleasing where she emphasizes playfully in goats an angularity of form which repeats the quality of rocky crests, and lends her personal colors of yellow, white and pale green to make a calm and suggestive patchwork of an entire upland landscape vista."

Two County Marines In Desert Maneuvers

Recently, two Ulster county marines were right in the middle of an important combat desert maneuver near 29 Palms, Calif. They were Marine Pfc. Edward R. Reilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Reilley, 37 Stuyvesant street, and Pfc. Francis Van Gaasbeck, Kingston. Both men are members of the Third Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Rolling over the highways on a 150-mile motor march, the leathernecks unloaded in the middle of a desert expanse to do battle with a mythical enemy. This maneuver topped off a series of training exercises that started with elementary units and moved on to larger organizations. Last October, the division completed its first amphibious assault on a Southern California beach. They came ashore on landing boats, amphib tractors and amphibious trucks. The desert maneuver was a continuation of this amphibious landing problem.

Pfc. Reilley and Pfc Van Gaasbeck enlisted in the marines in January of 1952 through the local marine office for three years. Pfc. Reilley is a former member of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, Kingston National Guard unit.

Returns from Korea

Army Cpl. Thomas A. MacEntee, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacEntee of Route 1, Gardiner, has returned to the United States after nearly a year in Korea. He served with the 5th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company as a mechanic during his tour of duty in the combat zone. Cpl. MacEntee entered the army in February, 1951, and has been awarded the UN Service Ribbon and the Korean Service Ribbon with one campaign star.

The number of trucks in the United States increased from about 2½ million in 1925 to about 9½ million in 1952.

Any Age OK for Skiing

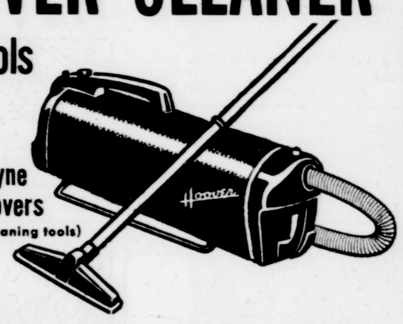

Sun Valley, Ida. (AP)—An Olympic skating expert says you're never too old—or too young—to ski. Fred A. Picard, technical adviser of the 1952 U. S. Women's Olympic skiing team, says he has seen 1-year-old children slipping around on skis. In Switzerland, he says, children usually begin skiing at the age of 4 or 5 and in Norway some skiers are 80. "This should come as a big surprise to men of 40 and 50 who claim they are too old to ski," he says.

Hitchcock—You look as if England was on the verge of a famine.

Shaw—And you look as if you were the cause of it.

She—Here I am, darling.

After a moment, a rather embarrased voice replied.

He—This is not the regular iceman, Ma'am.

Visitor told us he has been receiving threatening letters and we told him to report it to the police, but then he went on to say the notices were from the tax collector and we withdrew our advice for, from him, threats are legal.

A young lad was strolling down the avenue with his mother when he caught sight of a woman's pocketbook in the gutter. He had always been taught to be honest so he looked inside for some identification. He found the lady's name and address and asked his mother if he should return it right away.

Mother—Yes, by all means.

He looked inside again and the only money in it was a ten-dollar bill.

Lad—Don't you think I ought to change this ten-dollar bill for ten ones before I return the pocketbook?

Open Door Is Urged

Ottawa, Jan. 20 (AP)—Canada's Chamber of Commerce urged the government today to open the nation's doors wide enough to immigrants to give Canada a population of 30 million by 1975. But the chamber also urged the cabinet to continue its "selective" policy of trying to get more settlers from Britain, France and the United States. Canada's population now is estimated at 14 million persons. The chamber's statement said continuation of the 1951 immigration rate would admit only about five million new Canadians during the next 25 years. Even with natural population growth, it added, the country would fall far short of the 30-million mark.

Many of the world's gold deposits are found in the very old pre-Cabrian rocks.

Bewildered Heron

Manhasset, N. Y. (AP) — After some anxious moments two policemen managed to return a blue heron found on a busy street here to its natural marshland habitat. The tall bird seemed bewildered by the bright lights when the policeman captured it and put it in a parol car. The angry bird ripped a hole through the policeman's notebook and the floormat of the car with its long bill. The policeman locked the heron in a nearby service station for the night and the station proprietor returned the bird to its natural habitat in the morning. The proprietor, who wasn't expecting to see the bird when he opened up in the morning, said "I thought for a minute I was in Florida."

Pedestrian Crackdown

Detroit (AP) — Seventy-five patrolmen have been shifted from other duty to see that pedestrians obey the traffic laws in an attempt to cut down the rising toll of traffic deaths. Pedestrians will get tickets from policemen for any law violations. Director of Traffic James A. Hoye says there were 184 traffic deaths last year, 87 of which were caused by the pedestrian himself.

Big Gals Organize

New York (AP) — The Association of Women With Large Feet, formed in Britain in 1949, recently changed its name to The Association of Tall Women, reports the British Information Service here. The organization was successful in its original aim of convincing manufacturers to make shoes and stockings in a wider and more attractive range of large-size styles. It has now shifted its campaign to clothing firms.

MORE THAN THEY BARGAINED FOR—Sightseers at Redondo Beach, Calif., frantically flee a huge wave that engulfs their cars. As Pegler Sees It whether she did a day's work for each day's pay or could make a working "day" of it by one social phone call to someone connected with the United Nations.

We American people earn this money by our work. What they do with it is our business. Truman had a $50,000 "expense allowance" which was pay and nothing else. What Congress really did was grant him exemption on the top $50,000 of a salary of $150,000. That lowered his tax rate and gave him a bulge on all other taxpayers. Yet he had the gall to assume that Ike was no more scrupulous or honest and to recommend the same advantage for Ike.

This is something new in our government. We used to have confidence that the Treasury and the departments would keep books and render accounts. Now, literally, as in the case of the CIA, the State Department and Paul Hoffman's Economic Cooperation Administration, the bureaucrats grab our money by the bundle of $1,000 bills, use it as they please and tell us it is none of our business how much they spent for what.

The British Parliament has nothing nearly equivalent to our congressional committees of inquiry. The British use royal commissions and they are slow, secretive and, in many matters, such as communism, stupidly naive. But then their Parliament is a sloppy affair which, on such close inspection proves to be a mere collection of party dummies run by "caucus," many of them openly subsidized by "interests," mainly the unions. They think there is nothing wrong in permitting a union to pay a bribe to a MP for voting the union's way. We permit that to the extent that a professional unioneer who goes to Congress continues to collect his union salary for no work but for voting pro-union. We ought to stop it and I dare hope that one day we will.

Until Roosevelt we had a fine advantage over the British in accountability. Roughly speaking, our people had to come clean and tell all. And they weren't allowed to use it as they pleased or hand it over to Dave Dubinsky's union for "political work" in Europe.

Dubinsky was no better than any of the rest of us and more to be suspected than most if only because his union had a habit of dealing with racketeers ostensibly in self-defense against other racketeers used by the bosses. But since we began to spend money for war and submit to secrecy as in the case of the OSS, we have lost our power of the purse. Not even Congress has that power now with Dubinsky's agents receiving God-knows-how-many millions of our earnings to promote in Europe a system of mischief, riots, perhaps sabotage, all on a pretext of keeping Kremlin communism at bay.

Congress must take charge again and for this reason "investigation" will become a greater, not lesser, phase of its duties.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Being Greedy Can Ruin Your Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you're in a small slam contract in a rubber bridge game, you are satisfied to make 12 tricks. If you're playing the hand in a tournament, however, you must think about playing for an overtrick in order to make a good score.

When today's hand was played in "Bridge Week," the big annual tournament held partly in Los Angeles and partly in San Francisco, the South player had visions of an overtrick and managed to lose his slam contract.

I should point out that South did not fall down all by himself. He was tripped up by the East player, Vince Finigan, of San Francisco.

Declarer won the opening club lead in the dummy, drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his own hand, and led a low heart from his hand to finesse dummy's queen. Without the slightest hesitation, Finigan played the deuce of hearts on dummy's queen instead of taking the trick with his king.

Declarer continued by cashing dummy's ace of hearts, noting that West had followed suit first with the eight of hearts and then with the nine of hearts. It seemed to him that West must have started with three hearts to the king. Declarer therefore next led a low heart from dummy and ruffed in his own hand.

When West failed to follow suit on the third round of hearts, South was a dead duck. He could get to dummy only once more, with a night club, and could therefore not establish and also cash the rest of the hearts. He had to fall back on the diamonds, and was therefore down two.

If South had not been so greedy he would have made his contract very easily. The right play is to take the second heart trick with the ace and then lead the jack of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse. Even if West has the king of hearts and is therefore able to win this trick, the rest of dummy's hearts can be reached for discards.

Truman Will

the capitol for the inauguration of Eisenhower.

From the oath taking, Truman and Mrs. Truman planned to slip away from the scenes of Republican rejoicing to the Georgetown home of Dean Acheson, outgoing secretary of state, for a farewell luncheon with the cabinet, and thence to the apartment of Presidential Secretary Mathhew J. Connelly to rest until time to take a train home to Independence, Mo.

The train (B & O) departs at 6:30 p. m. but the Trumans planned to arrive at the presidential private car, made available by Eisenhower, 30 minutes early for last goodbyes with political associates and personal friends. The train is due at Independence at 8:20 p. m. Wednesday.

Among the men who know Truman best there was a little belief that he will loaf for long. Already he has rented an office in Kansas City from which he will operate as a private citizen.

Up at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, Truman bounced around the White House as happily as though he looked forward to leaving what he has often called "the big white jail."

He drove to his bank. He chatted with a group of reporters he came upon in the White House lobby while he was looking for the owner of a note pad he had found on his desk.

"If any of you fellows need a job, I can put you to work," he quipped. "I need a lot of help." But he explained he'll need the help in Missouri since "the boss" —Mrs. Truman—"says I've got to unpack everything myself."

Seven persons threw themselves from high buildings, the others killed themselves by drowning, hanging or using firearms.

Open Door Is Urged

Ottawa, Jan. 20 (AP)—Canada's Chamber of Commerce urged the government today to open the nation's doors wide enough to immigrants to give Canada a population of 30 million by 1975. But the chamber also urged the cabinet to continue its "selective" policy of trying to get more settlers from Britain, France and the United States. Canada's population now is estimated at 14 million persons. The chamber's statement said continuation of the 1951 immigration rate would admit only about five million new Canadians during the next 25 years. Even with natural population growth, it added, the country would fall far short of the 30-million mark.

Bewildered Heron

Manhasset, N. Y. (AP) — After some anxious moments two policemen managed to return a blue heron found on a busy street here to its natural marshland habitat. The tall bird seemed bewildered by the bright lights when the policeman captured it and put it in a parol car. The angry bird ripped a hole through the policeman's notebook and the floormat of the car with its long bill. The policeman locked the heron in a nearby service station for the night and the station proprietor returned the bird to its natural habitat in the morning. The proprietor, who wasn't expecting to see the bird when he opened up in the morning, said "I thought for a minute I was in Florida."

Pedestrian Crackdown

Detroit (AP) — Seventy-five patrolmen have been shifted from other duty to see that pedestrians obey the traffic laws in an attempt to cut down the rising toll of traffic deaths. Pedestrians will get tickets from policemen for any law violations. Director of Traffic James A. Hoye says there were 184 traffic deaths last year, 87 of which were caused by the pedestrian himself.

Big Gals Organize

New York (AP) — The Association of Women With Large Feet, formed in Britain in 1949, recently changed its name to The Association of Tall Women, reports the British Information Service here. The organization was successful in its original aim of convincing manufacturers to make shoes and stockings in a wider and more attractive range of large-size styles. It has now shifted its campaign to clothing firms.

MORE THAN THEY BARGAINED FOR—Sightseers at Redondo Beach, Calif., frantically flee a huge wave that engulfs their cars. As Pegler Sees It

whether she did a day's work for each day's pay or could make a working "day" of it by one social phone call to someone connected with the United Nations.

We American people earn this money by our work. What they do with it is our business. Truman had a $50,000 "expense allowance" which was pay and nothing else. What Congress really did was grant him exemption on the top $50,000 of a salary of $150,000. That lowered his tax rate and gave him a bulge on all other taxpayers. Yet he had the gall to assume that Ike was no more scrupulous or honest and to recommend the same advantage for Ike.

This is something new in our government. We used to have confidence that the Treasury and the departments would keep books and render accounts. Now, literally, as in the case of the CIA, the State Department and Paul Hoffman's Economic Cooperation Administration, the bureaucrats grab our money by the bundle of $1,000 bills, use it as they please and tell us it is none of our business how much they spent for what.

The British Parliament has nothing nearly equivalent to our congressional committees of inquiry. The British use royal commissions and they are slow, secretive and, in many matters, such as communism, stupidly naive. But then their Parliament is a sloppy affair which, on such close inspection proves to be a mere collection of party dummies run by "caucus," many of them openly subsidized by "interests," mainly the unions. They think there is nothing wrong in permitting a union to pay a bribe to a MP for voting the union's way. We permit that to the extent that a professional unioneer who goes to Congress continues to collect his union salary for no work but for voting pro-union. We ought to stop it and I dare hope that one day we will.

Until Roosevelt we had a fine advantage over the British in accountability. Roughly speaking, our people had to come clean and tell all. And they weren't allowed to use it as they pleased or hand it over to Dave Dubinsky's union for "political work" in Europe.

Dubinsky was no better than any of the rest of us and more to be suspected than most if only because his union had a habit of dealing with racketeers ostensibly in self-defense against other racketeers used by the bosses. But since we began to spend money for war and submit to secrecy as in the case of the OSS, we have lost our power of the purse. Not even Congress has that power now with Dubinsky's agents receiving God-knows-how-many millions of our earnings to promote in Europe a system of mischief, riots, perhaps sabotage, all on a pretext of keeping Kremlin communism at bay.

Congress must take charge again and for this reason "investigation" will become a greater, not lesser, phase of its duties.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Being Greedy Can Ruin Your Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you're in a small slam contract in a rubber bridge game, you are satisfied to make 12 tricks. If you're playing the hand in a tournament, however, you must think about playing for an overtrick in order to make a good score.

When today's hand was played in "Bridge Week," the big annual tournament held partly in Los Angeles and partly in San Francisco, the South player had visions of an overtrick and managed to lose his slam contract.

I should point out that South did not fall down all by himself. He was tripped up by the East player, Vince Finigan, of San Francisco.

Declarer won the opening club lead in the dummy, drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his own hand, and led a low heart from his hand to finesse dummy's queen. Without the slightest hesitation. Finigan played the deuce of hearts on dummy's queen instead of taking the trick with his king.

Declarer continued by cashing dummy's ace of hearts, noting that West had followed suit first with the eight of hearts and then with the nine of hearts. It seemed to him that West must have started with three hearts to the king. Declarer therefore next led a low heart from dummy and ruffed in his own hand.

When West failed to follow suit on the third round of hearts, South was a dead duck. He could get to dummy only once more, with a night club, and could therefore not establish and also cash the rest of the hearts. He had to fall back on the diamonds, and was therefore down two.

If South had not been so greedy he would have made his contract very easily. The right play is to take the second heart trick with the ace and then lead the jack of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse. Even if West has the king of hearts and is therefore able to win this trick, the rest of dummy's hearts can be reached for discards.

Truman Will

the capitol for the inauguration of Eisenhower.

From the oath taking, Truman and Mrs. Truman planned to slip away from the scenes of Republican rejoicing to the Georgetown home of Dean Acheson, outgoing secretary of state, for a farewell luncheon with the cabinet, and thence to the apartment of Presidential Secfetary Mathhew J. Connelly to rest until time to take a train home to Independence, Mo.

The train (B & O) departs at 6:30 p. m. but the Trumans planned to arrive at the presidential private car, made available by Eisenhower, 30 minutes early for last goodbyes with political associates and personal friends. The train is due at Independence at 8:20 p. m. Wednesday.

Among the men who know Truman best there was a little belief that he will loaf for long. Already he has rented an office in Kansas City from which he will operate as a private citizen.

Up at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, Truman bounced around the White House as happily as though he looked forward to leaving what he has often called "the big white jail."

He drove to his bank. He chatted with a group of reporters he came upon in the White House lobby while he was looking for the owner of a note pad he had found on his desk.

"If any of you fellows need a job, I can put you to work," he quipped. "I need a lot of help." But he explained he'll need the help in Missouri since "the boss" —Mrs. Truman—"says I've got to unpack everything myself."

NEW ANGLE FOR CARRIERS—The U. S. S. Antietam steams from New York harbor after having an angled section added to the port side of her flight deck. The canted section gives an added measure of safety to landing operations by providing a lane leading away from the ship's superstructure, and is expected to prove particularly valuable for use by carrier-based bombers, with their wide wingspans.

Agudas Achim Dinner Attracts Over 150, Officers Installed

Over 150 persons attended the annual dinner of Congregation Agudas Achim, held Sunday in the vestry hall on West Union street. Officers were installed with a special ceremony by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, spiritual leader of the Congregation. Rabbi Samuel Z. Glaser was guest speaker.

Joseph Epstein was installed as president; Benjamin Werbalowsky, vice-president; Mrs. Sylvia Black, secretary; and Louis Simon, treasurer.

Group Living Today was the topic for Rabbi Glaser's address. A clinical psychologist at Bellevue Hospital in New York city, and rabbi of the Elmont Jewish Center, Long Island, he has the distinction of being the first rabbi to be appointed to the staff which practices in the psychiatric wards.

In his talk, Rabbi Glaser emphasized the advantages to be gained by a group "working together for God." Too many people join purely social groups hoping to find greater security, he said. These people, continued Rabbi Glaser, become disillusioned because they learn that joining groups which do not have high standards and ideals, as well as a desire to motivate truth in God, accomplishes nothing.

Rabbi Glaser is the author of several important papers related to the psychological problems of adolesence. He was graduated from Yeshiva University and was ordained by its Theological Seminary.

The program also included group singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Mrs. Glaser, the speaker's wife. She also led the singing of Israel's national anthem, Hatikvoh, which translated, means The Hope.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

LOVE OF OLD NOT DISLOYAL TO NEW

One who is no doubt well-meaning writes: "The son of a friend of mine has just recently married for the second time. His first wife, to whom he was married for twenty years and of whom my friend was very fond, died several years ago. My friend is living with her son and new daughter-in-law whom she likes very much, too. While paying her a visit the other day I noticed she had a picture of her first daughter-in-law in her room. I was quite surprised at this and told her I thought it was wrong and very unfair to her present daughter-in-law. She disagreed with me and so we decided to write for your opinion."

There is no reason in the world why she should cease caring for someone she has loved for a long time and it certainly takes nothing away from the affection which she is now beginning to feel for her new daughter-in-law. Of course, if she continuously extoled the virtues of the former one to the belittlement of the present one, that would be another story.

Concerning Bread and Butter Plates

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether or not bread and butter plates are a must on a correctly set table, or could I put the butter dish in the center of the table with a butter knife on it, and pass it to anyone who would like it?

Answer: When butter is to be served at all (which it is not at a formal dinner), having butter on the bread and butter plates before guests are seated certainly is more convenient than having guests help themselves to butter passed around.

No Rule of Correctness

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person returns from a trip abroad, is it up to her to call her friends first, or do they call her to welcome her home?

Answer: Those who know she has come home would call her up and welcome her. Usually, however, it is the voyager returning who lets people know that she is back.

Is it true that bread and butter plates are tabooo at a formal dinner? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her Leaflet E-30, "Table Settings and Service," gives details for formal and informal settings. Agudas Achim Dinner Attracts Over 150, Officers Installed

Over 150 persons attended the annual dinner of Congregation Agudas Achim, held Sunday in the vestry hall on West Union street. Officers were installed with a special ceremony by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, spiritual leader of the Congregation. Rabbi Samuel Z. Glaser was guest speaker.

Joseph Epstein was installed as president; Benjamin Werbalowsky, vice-president; Mrs. Sylvia Black, secretary; and Louis Simon, treasurer.

Group Living Today was the topic for Rabbi Glaser's address. A clinical psychologist at Bellevue Hospital in New York city, and rabbi of the Elmont Jewish Center, Long Island, he has the distinction of being the first rabbi to be appointed to the staff which practices in the psychiatric wards.

In his talk, Rabbi Glaser emphasized the advantages to be gained by a group "working together for God." Too many people join purely social groups hoping to find greater security, he said. These people, continued Rabbi Glaser, become disillusioned because they learn that joining groups which do not have high standards and ideals, as well as a desire to motivate truth in God, accomplishes nothing.

Rabbi Glaser is the author of several important papers related to the psychological problems of adolesence. He was graduated from Yeshiva University and was ordained by its Theological Seminary.

The program also included group singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Mrs. Glaser, the speaker's wife. She also led the singing of Israel's national anthem, Hatikvoh, which translated, means The Hope.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

LOVE OF OLD NOT DISLOYAL TO NEW

One who is no doubt well-meaning writes: "The son of a friend of mine has just recently married for the second time. His first wife, to whom he was married for twenty years and of whom my friend was very fond, died several years ago. My friend is living with her son and new daughter-in-law whom she likes very much, too. While paying her a visit the other day I noticed she had a picture of her first daughter-in-law in her room. I was quite surprised at this and told her I thought it was wrong and very unfair to her present daughter-in-law. She disagreed with me and so we decided to write for your opinion."

There is no reason in the world why she should cease caring for someone she has loved for a long time and it certainly takes nothing away from the affection which she is now beginning to feel for her new daughter-in-law. Of course, if she continuously extoled the virtues of the former one to the belittlement of the present one, that would be another story.

Concerning Bread and Butter Plates

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether or not bread and butter plates are a must on a correctly set table, or could I put the butter dish in the center of the table with a butter knife on it, and pass it to anyone who would like it?

Answer: When butter is to be served at all (which it is not at a formal dinner), having butter on the bread and butter plates before guests are seated certainly is more convenient than having guests help themselves to butter passed around.

No Rule of Correctness

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person returns from a trip abroad, is it up to her to call her friends first, or do they call her to welcome her home?

Answer: Those who know she has come home would call her up and welcome her. Usually, however, it is the voyager returning who lets people know that she is back.

Is it true that bread and butter plates are tabooo at a formal dinner? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her Leaflet E-30, "Table Settings and Service," gives details for formal and informal settings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Capt. Irwin U. Bibro of the White Plains Filter Center told his listeners that it is a "must" that the spotters' post remain on 24-hour continuous duty, seven days a week. In a discussion period, he answered the specific questions of those present.

Capt. Bibro's talk followed the showing of a new film, One Plane —One Bomb.

He had earlier in the day made a recording at the post atop the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. George Dewey Logan, post supervisor, will be notified as to the date and time the local program will be broadcast and she will make the information available to the public.

Wants More Pickets

Hults Will Face Jury on Escape

A man who reportedly walked away from custody last November walked back into custody here on Monday.

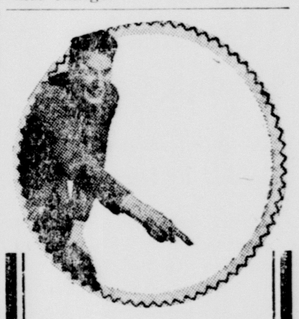

Oliver Hults, 25, who gave his address as Grand Gorge, turned up at the sheriff's office accompanied by his father about 6 p. m. Monday and surrendered himself.

The sheriff's office had been holding a warrant charging Hults with escape as a misdemeanor since shortly after Nov. 20, 1952, when the sheriff's office accused him of escaping custody while he was being returned to Kingston under a Children's Court commitment charging contempt of court for alleged failure to comply with provisions of a court order.

Taken before Police Justice Daniel Lamb of Saugerties Monday evening, Hults waived examination on the escape charge and was ordered held for grand jury action. The sheriff's office said Hults got away last November from Earl Conro, identification officer, by asking permission to stop at the Saugerties bus station to talk to someone he had previously agreed to meet there. Because the charge then pending was not a criminal charge and because Hults had previously been cooperative, his request was granted.

Lund was booked by police on a homicides charge.

Wants More Pickets

Farmingdale, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—A union spokesman said today he will seek a court order to permit more pickets outside two struck Fairchild aviation engine parts plants here and in nearby Valley Stream. About 1,200 employes, members of the CIO United Auto Workers Union, went on strike yesterday. Police said the number of pickets must be confined to two at each gate. Today Charles Kerrigan of Williston Park, regional director of the UAW, said he would seek a court order to permit unlimited picketing.

Hults Will Face Jury on Escape

A man who reportedly walked away from custody last November walked back into custody here on Monday.

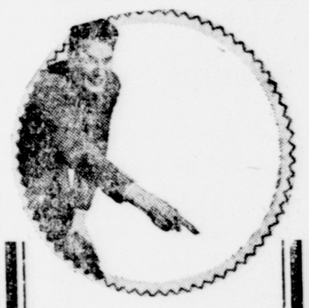

Oliver Hults, 25, who gave his address as Grand Gorge, turned up at the sheriff's office accompanied by his father about 6 p. m. Monday and surrendered himself.

The sheriff's office had been holding a warrant charging Hults with escape as a misdemeanor since shortly after Nov. 20, 1952, when the sheriff's office accused him of escaping custody while he was being returned to Kingston under a Children's Court commitment charging contempt of court for alleged failure to comply with provisions of a court order.

Taken before Police Justice Daniel Lamb of Saugerties Monday evening, Hults waived examination on the escape charge and was ordered held for grand jury action. The sheriff's office said Hults got away last November from Earl Conro, identification officer, by asking permission to stop at the Saugerties bus station to talk to someone he had previously agreed to meet there. Because the charge then pending was not a criminal charge and because Hults had previously been cooperative, his request was granted.

Held for Stabbing Mother

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—An unemployed merchant seaman, who said "I blew my top," was accused today of stabbing his 58-year-old widowed mother to death wth repeated plunges of a carving knife. The son, Thomas Lund, 29, an ex-convict, admitted slaying his mother after numerous quarrels over money and his lack of a job, Detective James Sullivan said. Mrs. Agnes Lund was found dead under her bed in the home at 89-18 Sutter avenue, Ozone Park, Queens, where she lived with her son. She had many stab wounds in the chest and abdomen. Lund was booked by police on a homicides charge.

Soil Conservation Project Urged For Ulster by Federation Expert

Say Quick Action Needed by Hunters

Ulster county, one of the most important in the state from a fish and game standpoint, faces a serious problem of soil conservation, Paul Schaefer, president of the Friends of the Forest Preserve told 120 members of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county last night at the annual banquet at Leherb's.

Schafer, who is also a director of the New York State Conservation Council, said his organization was interested in preserving the wild character of the forest preserves and he had visited 62 counties in a campaign to make hunters and farmers conscious of the acute problem of soil conservation.

The guest speaker showed a film tracing the work already done in the state in reclaiming old lakes, creating new ones and other phases of soil conservation. He urged that a program be instituted in Ulster county at once and told the Federation members they were the logical organization to start the movement.

Funds Available

It was pointed out that state funds are available upon recommendation of the Board of Supervisors to assist farmers in growing cover for lands suitable for wildlife and birds.

Executive Secretary Carleton F. King of the Federation said the Federation would institute such a program in the near future. He said a public meeting would be called of interested farmers and hunters to get the project rolling.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, the retiring president, also made an appeal for concerted action on soil conservation and noted steps that had been taken in connection with the flood control program. The mayor also told of conservation meetings at Carmel and Stamford and urged the Federation to send a Federation representative to these sessions in the future.

In a brief acceptance speech, the new president, Earl Conro, of Phoenicia, hailed Ulster county as one of the finest in the state for fishing and hunting. He said it was peculiarly set up with mountain clubs and valley clubs. He also noted that this unique setup sometimes created problems of harmony but he asked for the support of the membership and also pledged his availability to every member club for meetings and other business.

Guests Introduced

Toastmaster Newkirk introduced among the guests Bob Ohlman of the Conservation Department, Albert Lester, new vice-president of Lloyd and Charles J. Tiano of The Freeman.

Frank Hornbeck, chairman of the annual championship trapshoot, gave his report and presented the team and individual trophies.

Fred Thiel of Milton, who broke 50 straight targets to tie the all-time record, won the individual trophy. The team scratch trophy was retired by the Glasco Gun Club with three straight victories. Ralph Romano, president, accepted the trophy. Wawarsing won the handicap trophy.

Vejar Looking For Bigger Game

Brooklyn, Jan. 20 (AP) — Move over middleweights — here comes Chico Vejar!

The collegian from Stamford, Conn., made his debut as a 160-pounder last night by stopping Italo Scortichini after four rounds and he attributed his success to an expanding waistline.

"Every guy expects to beat me by belting me in the body," Chico said in his Eastern Parkway dressing room. "But with this new weight I've got now, I'm stronger and they can't hurt me as much."

The ex-welterweight scaled 152½ pounds for the bout, by far the heaviest of his career. With a 48-3 record, he wants in on the tournament to be conducted to find a successor to retired middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinon. Eleven boxers have been listed to take part in the scramble.

"We'll take any of those named by the National Boxing Association and New York State Commission," said Manager Steve Ellis.

Vejar needed only one round to solve the sweeping style employed by the Italian. Vejar also had the help of second Pete Mello, who had seen Scortichini fight twice before.

Once Vejar got inside the Italian's swings, it was no fight as Chico hammered away at Scortichini's left eye. The eye swelled steadily, and after four rounds Dr. Swetnick of the State Athletic Commission ordered the bout halted. Under New York rules, it was ruled a technical knockout in the fourth round.

Memphis State Next for Siena

Siena College faces two powerful opponents in Wednesday and Saturday games this week at the Albany Armory.

First comes Memphis State, 25-10 and a NAIB tournament team last year, followed by the traditional Manhattan College contest Saturday.

The Manhattan contest is a complete sellout, with a flock of Kingstonians scheduled to attend.

Memphis State, under Coach Gene Lambert, scored one of the prize upsets last season by defeating the University of Mississippi, 47-42, in a classic demonstration of ball-control that's still duscussed in the mid-south.

The big attractions Saturday, of course, will be Big Junius Kellogg and Eddie O'Connor, the former St. Patrick's (Newburgh) star.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Basketball

New York—Seton Hall, the nation's only major undefeated quintet replaced Kansas State as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll.

Golf

Tennis

Adelaide, Australia — Straight Clark and Vic Seixas in the men's division and Maureen Connolly and Julie Sampson in the Women's Bracket, won their first round matches in the South Australian championships.

Football

Racing

Miami — Sammy Boulmetis scored his second triple in as many racing days when he rode three winners, including Real Brother ($4.80) in the featured Key West Purse at Hialeah Park.

Oldsmar, Fla.—Tony De Spirito, who rode a record 390 winners in 1952, returned to the saddle at Tropical Park by booting home his only two mounts in the co-features, Top Spring ($3.70) in the Robert E. Lee Purse and Alabama Belle ($5.50) in the Safety Harbor Purse.

Kiasmen Seek First Win in Seven Games

Kingston High's DUSO basketball aspirations will be decided tonight in the hostile confines of jampacked Newburgh Academy gym.

Six times running, the three-time Goldback champions have rolled over Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons and only a Herculean effort will be able to check the triumphant march of NFA.

Student interest at Kingston High apparently is on the wane. Kingston was allotted 250 tickets but Coach Kias admitted this morning that "we might get rid of 100." Others, he said, would take a chance on getting in.

Interest Lags

Although this shapes up as a "natural," with the Maroon conceded an outside chance to win, the students and the general public haven't responded in a fashion commensurate with Kingston's standing in the league.

The Maroons have lost only one game—a toughie at Poughkeepsie—and cannot be counted out of the race until the Goldback victory is registered on the board, if it happens.

The statistical advantage of the Goldbacks, with their Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski and Bobby Spreer, is tremendous. Should they win tonight their DUSO lead will be boosted to two full games and give them a comfortable cushion for Friday's game at Fallsburgh and next Tuesday's visit to Poughkeepsie.

Maybe by late today enough interest had been aroused to send a 250-person Kingston delegation to Newburgh. It's hard to figure how anything else should happen, notwithstanding such distracting factors as a recent dance, midterm examinations and other minor irritants.

'Big Five' Ready

Coach Kias said his "Big Five" was ready, although Dick Bezemer is bothered by a thumb injury and Jim Colclough, the No. 1 fireman, may be a casualty with a sprained forefinger. (He got it tobogganing, no less).

NFA expects to fill the house even if Kingston doesn't take its full quota of tickets.

If both coaches go with their "Big Five" it will mean that Dick Bezemer has the big job of handling Mickey "The Marvel". Burkowski snapped out of the doldrums last Friday by bucketing 27 points against Liberty. NFA adherents expect him to hit at least 28 tonight. He will be supported by a cast that includes such tested veterans as Bobby Spreer, Mickey Burkowski, Bill Maher, Larry Kimball and Bob Earley.

Kingston goes with Skipper Brodhead and George Telepas up front: Bezemer at center and Bill Haber in the guard slots.

Seton Hall Takes Over First Place In AP Cage Poll

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Seton Hall, the nation's only unbeaten college basketball team, stands as the No. 1 team in the country today—thanks to its latest winning streak.

Basketball fans with long memories will recall that the South Orange, N. J., school leaped into national prominence back in 1941 with a 43-game streak, snapped by Long Island University in the National Invitation Tournament. The latest Seton Hall streak reached 18 with four victories last week, and brought Setonians' selection as the No. 1 team.

Forty-six of the 92 sportswriters and broadcasters who voted picked Seton Hall as the top team. This gave the Pirates 775 points, on the basis of the 10 for first, nine for second and so on.

Seton Hall, moving up gradually from fourth place in the first poll, displaced Kansas State at top after the midwesterners had held sway for three weeks. Kansas State had ousted La Salle, which ruled the roost for the first two weeks.

Explores Jinx

La Salle, incidentally, was the last team to beat Seton Hall. The Explorers edged the Hall 80-76, in the first round of last year's National Invitation Tournament, which should make the NIT a full-fledged jinx for the New Jersey school.

Kansas State fell to fourth place and La Salle also dropped, sliding to fifth place, as Indiana and Washington moved in behind Seton Hall. Indiana jumped from sixth to second on the strength of its 74-70 double overtime victory of Illinois Saturday night. As might be expected, Illinois also tumbled, going from fourth place to sixth as a result of the defeat.

Kansas, which caused Kansas State's downfall with an 80-66 trouncing, moved into the first ten at the No. 9 place. This knocked Western Kentucky out of the selected circle, since the blue grass team lost to Eastern Kentucky, 78-69.

Oklahoma A & M moved up two places to seventh, while North Carolina State held in eighth place and Fordham dropped down three to tenth.

Jays and Ramblers Win Midget Games

The scoring tempo picked up in the Boys Club Midget Basketball League Saturday, when the Blue Jays downed the Cedar Aces, 18-14; and the Ramblers edged the Globe Trotters, 9-7.

Victor Locke, the Blue Jay ace, set a seasonal record with 16 points. Lillimagi, Keizer and Miller scored 4 each for the Aces. Ellsworth of the Trotters rimmed 5 and Smith hit 4 for the Ramblers.

The scores:

Blue Jays (18)—V. Locke f 16, Bitonti f, Lang c 2, Perpetua g, LaLima g, Christiana g.

Cedar Aces (14)—Havens f, Winters f, Lillimaggi f 4, Keizer c 4, Buboltz g, Kelder g 2, Miller g 4.

Ramblers (9)—Smith f 4, Cosenza f 3, Burzee c, Brandt g, Noonan g 2.

Saugerties Routs 50 Club, 63-33

The powerful Saugerties All Stars limited the 50 Club to 11 fields to crush the locals, 63-33, last night in an exhibition game on the Saugerties court.

It was no contest from the start, with the more experienced, bigger home squad rolling up an early lead.

"Boo" Schaffer led the winners with 15 points, Bill Kaufman rimmed 11 and Bill Goff had 10. Irving Peck's 9 markers led the 50 Club.

Christenberry Doubts Walcott Will Fight

Hints Jersey Joe Is Over-Aged

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 20 (AP)—New York State Athletic Commissioner Robert Christenberry "seriously doubts" that former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott will ever fight again.

In a speech at the 4th annual dinner of the Wilmington Sports Writers and Broadcasters Association last night Christenberry said:

"Rules of the New York State Athletic Commission and almost every state say that a fighter cannot be licensed after he is 40 years of age. I seriously doubt Walcott will ever fight again."

He did not further explain his reference to Walcott who is listed in most ring books as being 38, but has been fighting for many years.

The hint as to Jersey Joe's future prospects came during a discussion of the recent order by the New York State Commission and the National Boxing Association that heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano must defend his title by April 10. Marciano won the crown from Walcott by a 10th round knockout at Philadelphia last June. A return bout had been agreed to earlier.

Christenberry said that the New York State Commission, "long a holdout from efforts to organize a nationwide boxing control group, now has agreed to work with the NBA.

Cleanup Desired

"New York is ready to lead or follow in a cleanup of boxing," the New York chairman said.

"New York is not ready to do nothing."

In a talk that ranged the whole field of present day problems of boxing, Christenberry said he is working to improve the sport for both participants and spectators, to bring contract matters between boxers and managers, between managers and promoters, and in all phases of the sport into the open, and "to let the fans know what goes on in the ring."

In this connection, he said that the licensing powers of commissioners "gives us the means to insist that television boxing shows have something more than the bout, the beer and the razor."

"We need to tear off the shrouds of mystery about what is going on in the ring," Christenberry said. "We need to make scoring simple and uniform in all the states. Perhaps we should consider posting each round decision immediately."

Hot Stove Sparks In Baseball

Strong evidence may be found in the NL official 1952 averages for those who maintain that "Pee-Wee" Reese is the best base-runner in the game. The veteran Dodger shortstop stole 30 bases and was "caught in the act" only five times.

National League pitchers find no "soft spot" in the number-nine slot when they're opposing any of the Boston Braves' big-four moundsmen. Warren Spahn, Vern Bickford, Max Surkont and Jim Wilson all are capable hitters and each seems particularly adept at hitting in the clutch.

In sharing the National League home-run title with Hank Sauer in 1952, home-run king Ralph Kiner became the first player in baseball history to lead his league in home-runs his first seven years.

Stan Musial, Cardinals; Whitey Lockman, Giants; Bobby Adams and Roy McMillan, Reds; and Connie Ryan and Richie Ashburn of the Phillies participated in all their club's games (154) in 1952.

During the 1952 season, attendance at National League games was down 11.7 per cent from 1951. In the American League it dropped 6.6 per cent.

Cousy Called Greatest Ever; Boston Ace Playmaker Feeds His Shadow Ed Macauley

By JOHN MacCALLUM
(NEA Sports Writer)

Bob Cousy

Bob Cousy is a quiet and well-built young man who'd probably measure up as a fairly sizable gent in your living room, but looks like a waif among National Basketball Association goons.

He may be, as Joe Lapchick of the New York Knickerbockers says, the greatest basketball player of this or any other generation.

After 38 games, he was the NBA's leading scorer with a 21.4 point average, also on top in assists with 270.

The Set-Up Man

As key man in the Boston Celtics' attack, Cousy, former Holy Cross All-America, is the fellow who sets up plays, taking the ball down court, hiding it, passing it, dribbling, feinting, weaving, running the show with almost unbelievable dexterity and poise.

Asked to account for his calmness, the 6 foot 1 Cousy says:

"I've always been this way. My mother used to say the house could burn down and I wouldn't budge. I don't rile easily. I suppose that's why I can sink fouls under pressure. Sometimes I don't even know what the score is. . . ."

No Showboat This Guy

Cousy harbors an unquenchable desire to win. In this professional season, he plays the game to the hilt.

Adolph Rupp considers Cousy the trickiest ball-handler of all time. "He's a veritable quarterback," the Kentucky coach declares. "Coupled with every shot in the book, he has a quick change of pace that makes him dangerous at all times.

"I didn't dribble at all in high school," recalls Cousy of St. Albans, N. Y. "But I had watched Kenny Sailors and others dribble, so I bore down in that department, along with trying to improve my passing."

"Fans think I practice hook shots and behind-the-back dribbling just to be a showboat. I don't. I use that tricky stuff only when I think it's the best weapon.

"If I can help the club by dribbling and eluding an opponent or drawing a man free for a pass, then why not take advantage of these little tricks?"

His Shadow—Macauley

He works extraordinarily well with Easy Ed Macauley, the high-scoring center. Their forte is the shadow play. Cousy feeds 6 foot 8 Macauley the ball over his shoulder with Easy Ed trailing on a fast break.

"I know when we break that Ed will be somewhere behind me," explains Cousy. "I only have to peek at him starting out after I break, say from the foul zone and flip it back over my shoulder. Sometimes I'll hear a little voice, "Left" and I know he'll be on my left side.

"You can't have set plays in pro ball, outside of a couple of routine ones."

Bob Cousy grins real big recalling the time he beefed to a referee about a close decision.

"I wheeled around to protest," he chuckles, "and, instead, burst out laughing."

"The referee had blown so hard on his whistle that his false teeth fell out."

The collegian from Stamford, Conn., made his debut as a 160-pounder last night by stopping Italo Scortichini after four rounds and he attributed his success to an expanding waistline.

"Every guy expects to beat me by belting me in the body," Chico said in his Eastern Parkway dressing room. "But with this new weight I've got now, I'm stronger and they can't hurt me as much."

The ex-welterweight scaled 152½ pounds for the bout, by far the heaviest of his career. With a 48-3 record, he wants in on the tournament to be conducted to find a successor to retired middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinon. Eleven boxers have been listed to take part in the scramble.

"We'll take any of those named by the National Boxing Association and New York State Commission," said Manager Steve Ellis.

Vejar needed only one round to solve the sweeping style employed by the Italian. Vejar also had the help of second Pete Mello, who had seen Scortichini fight twice before.

Once Vejar got inside the Italian's swings, it was no fight as Chico hammered away at Scortichini's left eye. The eye swelled steadily, and after four rounds Dr. Swetnick of the State Athletic Commission ordered the bout halted. Under New York rules, it was ruled a technical knockout in the fourth round.

Memphis State Next for Siena

Siena College faces two powerful opponents in Wednesday and Saturday games this week at the Albany Armory.

First comes Memphis State, 25-10 and a NAIB tournament team last year, followed by the traditional Manhattan College contest Saturday.

The Manhattan contest is a complete sellout, with a flock of Kingstonians scheduled to attend.

Memphis State, under Coach Gene Lambert, scored one of the prize upsets last season by defeating the University of Mississippi, 47-42, in a classic demonstration of ball-control that's still duscussed in the mid-south.

The big attractions Saturday, of course, will be Big Junius Kellogg and Eddie O'Connor, the former St. Patrick's (Newburgh) star.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Basketball

New York—Seton Hall, the nation's only major undefeated quintet replaced Kansas State as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll.

Golf

Tennis

Adelaide, Australia — Straight Clark and Vic Seixas in the men's division and Maureen Connolly and Julie Sampson in the Women's Bracket, won their first round matches in the South Australian championships.

Football

Racing

Miami — Sammy Boulmetis scored his second triple in as many racing days when he rode three winners, including Real Brother ($4.80) in the featured Key West Purse at Hialeah Park.

Oldsmar, Fla.—Tony De Spirito, who rode a record 390 winners in 1952, returned to the saddle at Tropical Park by booting home his only two mounts in the co-features, Top Spring ($3.70) in the Robert E. Lee Purse and Alabama Belle ($5.50) in the Safety Harbor Purse.

Kiasmen Seek First Win in Seven Games

Kingston High's DUSO basketball aspirations will be decided tonight in the hostile confines of jampacked Newburgh Academy gym.

Six times running, the three-time Goldback champions have rolled over Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons and only a Herculean effort will be able to check the triumphant march of NFA.

Student interest at Kingston High apparently is on the wane. Kingston was allotted 250 tickets but Coach Kias admitted this morning that "we might get rid of 100." Others, he said, would take a chance on getting in.

Interest Lags

Although this shapes up as a "natural," with the Maroon conceded an outside chance to win, the students and the general public haven't responded in a fashion commensurate with Kingston's standing in the league.

The Maroons have lost only one game—a toughie at Poughkeepsie—and cannot be counted out of the race until the Goldback victory is registered on the board, if it happens.

The statistical advantage of the Goldbacks, with their Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski and Bobby Spreer, is tremendous. Should they win tonight their DUSO lead will be boosted to two full games and give them a comfortable cushion for Friday's game at Fallsburgh and next Tuesday's visit to Poughkeepsie.

Maybe by late today enough interest had been aroused to send a 250-person Kingston delegation to Newburgh. It's hard to figure how anything else should happen, notwithstanding such distracting factors as a recent dance, midterm examinations and other minor irritants.

'Big Five' Ready

Coach Kias said his "Big Five" was ready, although Dick Bezemer is bothered by a thumb injury and Jim Colclough, the No. 1 fireman, may be a casualty with a sprained forefinger. (He got it tobogganing, no less).

NFA expects to fill the house even if Kingston doesn't take its full quota of tickets.

If both coaches go with their "Big Five" it will mean that Dick Bezemer has the big job of handling Mickey "The Marvel". Burkowski snapped out of the doldrums last Friday by bucketing 27 points against Liberty. NFA adherents expect him to hit at least 28 tonight. He will be supported by a cast that includes such tested veterans as Bobby Spreer, Mickey Burkowski, Bill Maher, Larry Kimball and Bob Earley.

Kingston goes with Skipper Brodhead and George Telepas up front; Bezemer at center and Bill Haber in the guard slots.

Seton Hall Takes Over First Place In AP Cage Poll

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Seton Hall, the nation's only unbeaten college basketball team, stands as the No. 1 team in the country today—thanks to its latest winning streak.

Basketball fans with long memories will recall that the South Orange, N. J., school leaped into national prominence back in 1941 with a 43-game streak, snapped by Long Island University in the National Invitation Tournament. The latest Seton Hall streak reached 18 with four victories last week, and brought Setonians' selection as the No. 1 team.

Forty-six of the 92 sportswriters and broadcasters who voted picked Seton Hall as the top team. This gave the Pirates 775 points, on the basis of the 10 for first, nine for second and so on.

Seton Hall, moving up gradually from fourth place in the first poll, displaced Kansas State at top after the midwesterners had held sway for three weeks. Kansas State had ousted La Salle, which ruled the roost for the first two weeks.

Explores Jinx

La Salle, incidentally, was the last team to beat Seton Hall. The Explorers edged the Hall 80-76, in the first round of last year's National Invitation Tournament, which should make the NIT a full-fledged jinx for the New Jersey school.

Kansas State fell to fourth place and La Salle also dropped, sliding to fifth place, as Indiana and Washington moved in behind Seton Hall. Indiana jumped from sixth to second on the strength of its 74-70 double overtime victory of Illinois Saturday night. As might be expected, Illinois also tumbled, going from fourth place to sixth as a result of the defeat.

Kansas, which caused Kansas State's downfall with an 80-66 trouncing, moved into the first ten at the No. 9 place. This knocked Western Kentucky out of the selected circle, since the blue grass team lost to Eastern Kentucky, 78-69.

Oklahoma A & M moved up two places to seventh, while North Carolina State held in eighth place and Fordham dropped down three to tenth.

Jays and Ramblers Win Midget Games

The scoring tempo picked up in the Boys Club Midget Basketball League Saturday, when the Blue Jays downed the Cedar Aces, 18-14; and the Ramblers edged the Globe Trotters, 9-7.

Victor Locke, the Blue Jay ace, set a seasonal record with 16 points. Lillimagi, Keizer and Miller scored 4 each for the Aces. Ellsworth of the Trotters rimmed 5 and Smith hit 4 for the Ramblers.

The scores:

Blue Jays (18)—V. Locke f 16, Bitonti f, Lang c 2, Perpetua g, LaLima g, Christiana g.

Cedar Aces (14)—Havens f, Winters f, Lillimaggi f 4, Keizer c 4, Buboltz g, Kelder g 2, Miller g 4.

Globe Trotters (7)—Sampson f, Ellsworth f 5, Reilly c 2, Wood g, Briody g, Secreto g, Cosmos g.

Ramblers (9)—Smith f 4, Cosenza f 3, Burzee c, Brandt g, Noonan g 2.

Saugerties Routs 50 Club, 63-33

The powerful Saugerties All Stars limited the 50 Club to 11 fields to crush the locals, 63-33, last night in an exhibition game on the Saugerties court.

It was no contest from the start, with the more experienced, bigger home squad rolling up an early lead.

"Boo" Schaffer led the winners with 15 points, Bill Kaufman rimmed 11 and Bill Goff had 10. Irving Peck's 9 markers led the 50 Club.

The boxscore:

Christenberry Doubts Walcott Will Fight

Hints Jersey Joe Is Over-Aged

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 20 (AP)—New York State Athletic Commissioner Robert Christenberry "seriously doubts" that former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott will ever fight again.

In a speech at the 4th annual dinner of the Wilmington Sports Writers and Broadcasters Association last night Christenberry said:

"Rules of the New York State Athletic Commission and almost every state say that a fighter cannot be licensed after he is 40 years of age. I seriously doubt Walcott will ever fight again."

He did not further explain his reference to Walcott who is listed in most ring books as being 38, but has been fighting for many years.

The hint as to Jersey Joe's future prospects came during a discussion of the recent order by the New York State Commission and the National Boxing Association that heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano must defend his title by April 10. Marciano won the crown from Walcott by a 10th round knockout at Philadelphia last June. A return bout had been agreed to earlier.

Christenberry said that the New York State Commission, "long a holdout from efforts to organize a nationwide boxing control group, now has agreed to work with the NBA.

Cleanup Desired

"New York is ready to lead or follow in a cleanup of boxing," the New York chairman said.

"New York is not ready to do nothing."

In a talk that ranged the whole field of present day problems of boxing, Christenberry said he is working to improve the sport for both participants and spectators, to bring contract matters between boxers and managers, between managers and promoters, and in all phases of the sport into the open, and "to let the fans know what goes on in the ring."

In this connection, he said that the licensing powers of commissioners "gives us the means to insist that television boxing shows have something more than the bout, the beer and the razor."

"We need to tear off the shrouds of mystery about what is going on in the ring," Christenberry said. "We need to make scoring simple and uniform in all the states. Perhaps we should consider posting each round decision immediately."

Nassau, Bahamas—Willie Pep, 127½, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Billy Lauderdale, 137, Miami, Fla. (10).

Hot Stove Sparks In Baseball

Strong evidence may be found in the NL official 1952 averages for those who maintain that "Pee-Wee" Reese is the best base-runner in the game. The veteran Dodger shortstop stole 30 bases and was "caught in the act" only five times.

National League pitchers find no "soft spot" in the number-nine slot when they're opposing any of the Boston Braves' big-four moundsmen. Warren Spahn, Vern Bickford, Max Surkont and Jim Wilson all are capable hitters and each seems particularly adept at hitting in the clutch.

In sharing the National League home-run title with Hank Sauer in 1952, home-run king Ralph Kiner became the first player in baseball history to lead his league in home-runs his first seven years.

Stan Musial, Cardinals; Whitey Lockman, Giants; Bobby Adams and Roy McMillan, Reds; and Connie Ryan and Richie Ashburn of the Phillies participated in all their club's games (154) in 1952.

During the 1952 season, attendance at National League games was down 11.7 per cent from 1951. In the American League it dropped 6.6 per cent.

Cousy Called Greatest Ever; Boston Ace Playmaker Feeds His Shadow Ed Macauley

By JOHN MacCALLUM
(NEA Sports Writer)

Bob Cousy

Bob Cousy is a quiet and well-built young man who'd probably measure up as a fairly sizable gent in your living room, but looks like a waif among National Basketball Association goons.

He may be, as Joe Lapchick of the New York Knickerbockers says, the greatest basketball player of this or any other generation.

After 38 games, he was the NBA's leading scorer with a 21.4 point average, also on top in assists with 270.

The Set-Up Man

As key man in the Boston Celtics' attack, Cousy, former Holy Cross All-America, is the fellow who sets up plays, taking the ball down court, hiding it, passing it, dribbling, feinting, weaving, running the show with almost unbelievable dexterity and poise.

Asked to account for his calmness, the 6 foot 1 Cousy says:

"I've always been this way. My mother used to say the house could burn down and I wouldn't budge. I don't rile easily. I suppose that's why I can sink fouls under pressure. Sometimes I don't even know what the score is. . . ."

No Showboat This Guy

Cousy harbors an unquenchable desire to win. In this professional season, he plays the game to the hilt.

Adolph Rupp considers Cousy the trickiest ball-handler of all time. "He's a veritable quarterback," the Kentucky coach declares, "Coupled with every shot in the book, he has a quick change of pace that makes him dangerous at all times.

"I didn't dribble at all in high school," recalls Cousy of St. Albans, N. Y. "But I had watched Kenny Sailors and others dribble, so I bore down in that department, along with trying to improve my passing."

"Fans think I practice hook shots and behind-the-back dribbling just to be a showboat. I don't. I use that tricky stuff only when I think it's the best weapon.

"If I can help the club by dribbling and eluding an opponent or drawing a man free for a pass, then why not take advantage of these little tricks?"

His Shadow—Macauley

He works extraordinarily well with Easy Ed Macauley, the high-scoring center. Their forte is the shadow play. Cousy feeds 6 foot 8 Macauley the ball over his shoulder with Easy Ed trailing on a fast break.

"I know when we break that Ed will be somewhere behind me," explains Cousy. "I only have to peek at him starting out after I break, say from the foul zone and flip it back over my shoulder. Sometimes I'll hear a little voice, "Left" and I know he'll be on my left side.

"You can't have set plays in pro ball, outside of a couple of routine ones."

Bob Cousy grins real big recalling the time he beefed to a referee about a close decision.

"I wheeled around to protest," he chuckles, "and, instead, burst out laughing."

"The referee had blown so hard on his whistle that his false teeth fell out."

Elizabeth Schoonmaker's tremendous 722 will earn reams of state and national publicity for the tall, personable KWBA president. That was a magnificent accomplishment for a young lady only four years in the land of strikes and spares. And splits and misses. The world record for three games, incidentally, is 779 rolled more than three decades ago by Joan Radtke of Cleveland.

Best bet to roll the first "800" series in Kingston would seem to be Dick Howard on alleys 7 and 8 at the Central Recs, with Larry Weishaupt a second choice at the Bowlodrome's 7 and 8. Johnny Ferraro's leg injury is far more serious than seems at the surface and it will be some time before The Ace can generate at full steam. How about a March of Dimes match between "Scooch" and Rose Schatzel against any two women in the area? Is it true that Morrie Cramer, the brilliant but voluble Cohoes sharpshooter, and Little Nickie Leoce of Newburgh exchanged hot words during the Ferraro sweeper? It seems that Cramer questioned Leoce's intestinal fortitude. The truth of the matter was that Leoce wasn't carrying the kind of money Cramer wanted to roll for. But Nick offered to take Cramer outside to settle it in another fashion. Cramer declined.

Do you have a "knotty problem" relating to averages or personnel for the forthcoming city tournament? Well, see Dr. Mannie Colao for the cure. A dazzling array of trophies and cash is at stake this time. The No-Can-Do League will show the way again with a 100 per cent entry if past performances run true. William "Chief" Mueller has announced plans for the 4th annual Dutchess Recreation 100 per cent Handicap Classic on April 25-26 and May 2-3-9-10 with a guaranteed first prize of $750 and a sponsor's trophy, plus a special $250 award to the net winners. 160 averages are scarcer than you think in the Friendship League. It Must Be Love Department—The Rapp's Express kegler who preferred a date with his girl friend to a match against Elston Sports. Young veterans like Charlotte Lapine and Marge Jansen are still among the steadiest keglerettes in the city.

Be there a man with soul so brave as to pick an all-star women's or men's array for Kingston on the basis of accomplishments to date. Elston's Sport Shop, win or lose in the HVBL League, is definitely the "Team of the Year" in local bowling. Rapp's Express appeared a cinch for the honor until love invaded its ranks. The kids still deserve a steak dinner with all the trimmings from Miron Lumber. A peculiar pattern is developing in the HVBL race. . . . Veteran Cabs, the Poughkeepsie hotshots, can't win on the road either. For a once-a-week kegler, Randy Kelder is still among the elite. Bill Kuehn, missing from action this season, was another one of those rare specimens who can carry a first grade average on a once-a-week schedule. Kaye Sportwair's all-time city women's record of 2994, set in 1946, has never been seriously challenged since that time. It was rolled on alleys 5 and 6 at the Central Recreation against a New York powerhouse that featured Ann Sabalowski Noga and the immortal Tillie Taylor. Helene Mollenhauer rates an orchid for the publicity work she's doing for the KWBA.

The WIBC's 36th annual tournament starts April 9 at the Detroit Recreation. The city of Detroit already has filed 750 team entries which is only a quarter of what they will finish with. Last year's St. Louis tournament drew a record entry of 3,045 teams, 3266 doubles and 6532 singles at St. Louis. Men's state tournament opens April 11 and runs to May 17th. Rochester is a tremendous tournament town and we recommend Ed Wildey's show for all local keglers. Eddie Heins once held the title of "Bowlingest Man in Town" but hasn't Eddie Auclair succeeded him? Pat Hegnauer, the Poughkeepsie tenpin personality, recently rolled 266 and 624 to tie Mary Bonacci's IBM record.

This is "Sign Up Week" in KBA bowling. Get your team on the dotted line early.

F. Deuire and Schatzel Roll Highest Triples

Frank Deuire of the City Minor League and Rose Schatzel, Woman's Major League, were the individual scoring leaders in last night's bowling.

Deuire's 626 (174-225-227) was the best of four "600" triples registered in the Minor, while Mrs. Schatzel led five "500" shooters in the Major with 193-189-216 for 598.

Ralph Halbert knocked off 607, with 201, 169, 237, to set the pace for the Independent League.

25 Hit "500" Scores

City Minor produced a bumper crop of 25 scores of "500" or better, with Ralph Dumenigo pounding high solo of 243 and 623 for the runnerup spot. Ben Galitzky rapped 233-603 and George Brown shot 233-601. The three top series came on alleys 7 and 8.

Len Freer solved 11 and 12 for 226-593 and Joe Maurer had 234-588. Also of note were Harry Secreto's 214-587; Tom Parker 568, Ed Smedes 562, Joe Mahar 214-561, Ed Dasher 555, Nick Savino 218-550, Otto Schaller, Jr., 205-547, Dom Clausi 222-544, Leo Bechtold 532, Bill Murray 522. Mannie's Barbers swept three games to move within two games of Johnny's Drive-Inn. These teams clash next week on position night on alleys 7 and 8.

Team results:

Trailing Rose Schatzel in the Woman's Major was Ada Markle with 216-546. Marge Jansen posted 529. Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker rebounded from her big series with a respectable 529 and Dot Rawding shot 516. Jessie Burnett rolled 491 and Eleanor Singer had 480.

Team results:

Sportsmen's Park 3, Williams Lake 0; SRS 2, Bert Bishop 1; Jake's Grill 2, Jones Dairy 1.

Milt Cole Jr., rolled 211-558 for the runnerup slot in the Independent League, while Rudy Kubicek had 543 and Tom Welch 533. Also top drawer were W. Thomas 528, Frank Bruno 209-521, R. Henry 202-515, P. Cornish 514, Charlie Grunenwald 510, Ray DuBois 509 and Harry Wilber 507.

Maylahn Hits 557

Hans Maylahn's 557 (186-160-211) was best-of-the-night in the Junior Major, with Paul Khederian toppling 536 and Fred Buchanan hitting 202-531. E. Bartroff posted 224-522, Eddie Esposito 507, Frank Mehm, Jr., 503 and Herbie Sleight 501.

Team results:

Shults Paint 2, Haber's Grill 1; Five-in-One 2, Donnaruma-Augustine 1; Esposito's 1, Al's Sea Food 2; American Legion 2, Ertel's 1.

Mary Leach rolled the high triple of 124-165-166-455 in the Women's Junior Major. Arlene Raible trailed with 428, Yolanda Benincasa had 418, D. Meyer 416, M. O'Donnell 412, Mabel Mackey 410, E. Korth 408, Carol Enright 403, Fran Hogan 402. Dot Brandt converted the 6-7-10 split.

Team results:

Mac's Market 2, Tropical Inn 1; Schilling Sales 1, Hilltoppers 2; Rosendale Florist 3, Colonial Cleaners 0; JP's 2, Elston Sport Shop 1.

Pat Pearson was top shooter in the BYA League last night with 125, 110, 186 for 421. Five pins behind trailed Gen. Whitmore with 416 and Betty Douglas fired 413.

Catskill Wins Match

Desco and Reuter fired 608 and 611 respectively as Ed Servicenter of Catskill defeated Jones Dairy, 2899 to 2454, in a March of Dimes exhibition on the Catskill drives. The winners had a high game of 1002.

Hod Spaulding and Ken Williams shot 537 and 536 for the Dairymen. The scores: Spaulding 537, Kuehn 463, Jones 511, Williams 536, Hymes 498. Catskill: Ferraro 545, Desco 608, Ostrander 572, Reuter 611, Beare 563.

Hogan Temporarily Shelves Retirement To Carve Out '65'

Palm Springs, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—Golf's famous little slugger, Ben Hogan, remained temporarily out of retirement today, doubtless to the distress of the active members of the profession.

Hogan emerged from the sides to play in the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational, and proceeded to torture the course with a seven-under-par 65 to share the lead after the first round yesterday.

The co-leader was veteran Dutch Harrison, and trailing behind were 23 other professionals out of the select 30 invited here who shot sub par golf.

Included in this array was still another grand "oldtimer," Byron Nelson, who foresook his ranch at Roanoke, Tex., long enough to play here and score a fine 68.

Thunderbird is hardly three years old. Its expensively created course—a 6,300 yard carpet of green stretching out on an otherwise barren, sunbaked desert—has par of 36-36-72.

Teeing off today, the nearest threat to the leaders was Jim Turnesa with 34-32-66.

CAMPFIRE TRICKS

IF YOU WANT A QUICK, HOT FIRE TO HEAT OR COOK WITH, SPLIT THE WOOD INTO SMALL PIECES.

HERE IS A STARTER THAT BURNS ENOUGH TO START SMALL DAMP STICKS. WRAP WOOL YARN THE LENGTH OF A KITCHEN MATCH AND TIE OFF AS SHOWN. DIP FULL LENGTH IN PARAFIN. CHIP OFF THE TIP TO STRIKE. PACK IN A TOBACCO CAN FOR FUTURE USE.

DRY PINE NEEDLES FOUND IN HOLLOW LOGS ARE GOOD FIRE STARTERS IN WET WEATHER.

Two Sox Sign

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—Pitcher Joe Dobson and outfielder Jim Rivera returned their signed 1953 contracts today to bring to 26 the number of players in the Chicago White Sox fold for the coming season.

Eddie Yost, of the Washington Senators won the "walking man" title for 1952 in the American League. Yost received 129 bases on balls.

Excess Weight Hampers Dykes

Philadelphia, Jan. 20 (AP)—Philadelphia's Gil Turner will tip the scales at 149 or 150 pounds for his ten round outsized bout with Bobby Dykes of Miami here tonight.

But the lanky Florida boxer is having trouble making even the 154-pound limit agreed to earlier. The welter limit is 147.

Dykes, who has relinquished all claims as a welter contender because of his weight, was two pounds over the limit at a practice weigh-in yesterday.

Lou Viscusi, co-manager of the six foot Dykes, was hoping an overnight "drying out" process would have the Dixie battler within the limit.

Lomontville AC Trips Whiz Kids

Martin holed 17 points for the locals. Peer hit 13, Branner 12 and Madison 11. Pierson of the Whiz Kids was high scorer with 21 points.

The score:

Lomontville A. C. (68)—Peck f 9, Madison f 11 Martin c 17, Brannen g 12, Peer g 13, Amato g 6.

Whiz Kids (51)—Lang f 4, Ball f 2, Donlon f 5, Iaonne c 8, Stafford g 11, Pierson g 21.

Bill Abbott, forward on the San Jose State basketball team, is an accomplished trumpet player.

HEADWORK — Ed Conlin seemingly emulates a soccer player using his head to butt the ball down court against Seton Hall in a game at Fordham which saw the all-conquering New Jersey quintet extend its streak to 16 toppling the Rams from the nation's unbeaten ranks, 69-62. (NEA)

Montreal—Armand Savoie, 134, Montreal, outpointed Glen Flanagan, 131½, St. Paul, Minn. (10).

Former High Goes Under by 354

Chicago, Ill. — The "Golden Jubilee" tournament of the American Bowling Congress, which opens in the Chicago Coliseum on February 21, is now assured of being the ABC's greatest tournament from a standpoint of entries and prize money.

Frank K. Baker, ABC secretary, announced three days after the close of entries, that a check of figures at the tournament office here revealed 8,089 teams; 14,207 doubles; 28,487 singles and 22,982 all-events entries on the books. Every one of the marks is a new record.

Tournament Director Charlie Treuter announced at the same time that the more than 40,000 bowlers entered will be rolling for a prize fund which will exceed $550,000. The highest previous prize fund was the $455,940 distributed at the conclusion of the 1952 ABC in Milwaukee.

"There is sure to be a variation in the above figures," Baker explained, "since it is reasonable to assume that some entries from outlying districts, postmarked prior to the deadline, have not yet been received. Joe Smolen, our entries manager, has been unable to process a number of entries because requested dates are not available. If available dates are acceptable, these entries will be processed later."

Wisconsin bowlers created a new non-host state record when they surpassed the 1,520 team record entered by Pennsylvania in the 1949 ABC at Atlantic City.

The ABC's 50th anniversary tournament will run a record number of 93 days ending on May 24.

Former entry records and host cities are:

Team — 7,735, Milwaukee in 1952.

Doubles — 14,018, Detroit in 1948.

Singles — 27,965, Detroit in 1948.

All-Events — 21,054, Detroit in 1948.

Frank M. (Bruiser) Kinard, assistant football coach at Mississippi, joined the coaching staff in Jan. 1948, just 10 years after his final game for Ole Miss.

Elizabeth Schoonmaker's tremendous 722 will earn reams of state and national publicity for the tall, personable KWBA president. That was a magnificent accomplishment for a young lady only four years in the land of strikes and spares. And splits and misses. The world record for three games, incidentally, is 779 rolled more than three decades ago by Joan Radtke of Cleveland.

Best bet to roll the first "800" series in Kingston would seem to be Dick Howard on alleys 7 and 8 at the Central Recs, with Larry Weishaupt a second choice at the Bowlodrome's 7 and 8. Johnny Ferraro's leg injury is far more serious than seems at the surface and it will be some time before The Ace can generate at full steam. How about a March of Dimes match between "Scooch" and Rose Schatzel against any two women in the area? Is it true that Morrie Cramer, the brilliant but voluble Cohoes sharpshooter, and Little Nickie Leoce of Newburgh exchanged hot words during the Ferraro sweeper? It seems that Cramer questioned Leoce's intestinal fortitude. The truth of the matter was that Leoce wasn't carrying the kind of money Cramer wanted to roll for. But Nick offered to take Cramer outside to settle it in another fashion. Cramer declined.

Do you have a "knotty problem" relating to averages or personnel for the forthcoming city tournament? Well, see Dr. Mannie Colao for the cure. A dazzling array of trophies and cash is at stake this time. The No-Can-Do League will show the way again with a 100 per cent entry if past performances run true. William "Chief" Mueller has announced plans for the 4th annual Dutchess Recreation 100 per cent Handicap Classic on April 25-26 and May 2-3-9-10 with a guaranteed first prize of $750 and a sponsor's trophy, plus a special $250 award to the net winners. 160 averages are scarcer than you think in the Friendship League. It Must Be Love Department—The Rapp's Express kegler who preferred a date with his girl friend to a match against Elston Sports. Young veterans like Charlotte Lapine and Marge Jansen are still among the steadiest keglerettes in the city.

Be there a man with soul so brave as to pick an all-star women's or men's array for Kingston on the basis of accomplishments to date. Elston's Sport Shop, win or lose in the HVBL League, is definitely the "Team of the Year" in local bowling. Rapp's Express appeared a cinch for the honor until love invaded its ranks. The kids still deserve a steak dinner with all the trimmings from Miron Lumber. A peculiar pattern is developing in the HVBL race. . . . Veteran Cabs, the Poughkeepsie hotshots, can't win on the road either. For a once-a-week kegler, Randy Kelder is still among the elite. Bill Kuehn, missing from action this season, was another one of those rare specimens who can carry a first grade average on a once-a-week schedule. Kaye Sportwair's all-time city women's record of 2994, set in 1946, has never been seriously challenged since that time. It was rolled on alleys 5 and 6 at the Central Recreation against a New York powerhouse that featured Ann Sabalowski Noga and the immortal Tillie Taylor. Helene Mollenhauer rates an orchid for the publicity work she's doing for the KWBA.

The WIBC's 36th annual tournament starts April 9 at the Detroit Recreation. The city of Detroit already has filed 750 team entries which is only a quarter of what they will finish with. Last year's St. Louis tournament drew a record entry of 3,045 teams, 3266 doubles and 6532 singles at St. Louis. Men's state tournament opens April 11 and runs to May 17th. Rochester is a tremendous tournament town and we recommend Ed Wildey's show for all local keglers. Eddie Heins once held the title of "Bowlingest Man in Town" but hasn't Eddie Auclair succeeded him? Pat Hegnauer, the Poughkeepsie tenpin personality, recently rolled 266 and 624 to tie Mary Bonacci's IBM record.

This is "Sign Up Week" in KBA bowling. Get your team on the dotted line early.

F. Deuire and Schatzel Roll Highest Triples

Frank Deuire of the City Minor League and Rose Schatzel, Woman's Major League, were the individual scoring leaders in last night's bowling.

Deuire's 626 (174-225-227) was the best of four "600" triples registered in the Minor, while Mrs. Schatzel led five "500" shooters in the Major with 193-189-216 for 598.

Ralph Halbert knocked off 607, with 201, 169, 237, to set the pace for the Independent League.

25 Hit "500" Scores

City Minor produced a bumper crop of 25 scores of "500" or better, with Ralph Dumenigo pounding high solo of 243 and 623 for the runnerup spot. Ben Galitzky rapped 233-603 and George Brown shot 233-601. The three top series came on alleys 7 and 8.

Len Freer solved 11 and 12 for 226-593 and Joe Maurer had 234-588. Also of note were Harry Secreto's 214-587; Tom Parker 568, Ed Smedes 562, Joe Mahar 214-561, Ed Dasher 555. Nick Savino 218-550, Otto Schaller, Jr., 205-547, Dom Clausi 222-544, Leo Bechtold 532, Bill Murray 522. Mannie's Barbers swept three games to move within two games of Johnny's Drive-Inn. These teams clash next week on position night on alleys 7 and 8.

Team results:

Johnny's Drive-In 2, Stone Ridge Firemen 1; Mannie's Barber Shop 3, Crystal Gardens 0; Cities Service 3, Tommy's Tavern 0; Joe Epstein's 2, Mauro's Grill 1; Kingston Knitting Mills 3, Veterans Barber Shop 0; Hutton Brick 2, D.D. Drive-In 1; Donato Bros. 2, Chop House 1.

Markle Pounds 216

Trailing Rose Schatzel in the Woman's Major was Ada Markle with 216-546. Marge Jansen posted 529. Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker rebounded from her big series with a respectable 529 and Dot Rawding shot 516. Jessie Burnett rolled 491 and Eleanor Singer had 480.

Team results:

Sportsmen's Park 3, Williams Lake 0; SRS 2, Bert Bishop 1; Jake's Grill 2, Jones Dairy 1.

Milt Cole Jr., rolled 211-558 for the runnerup slot in the Independent League, while Rudy Kubicek had 543 and Tom Welch 533. Also top drawer were W. Thomas 528, Frank Bruno 209-521, R. Henry 202-515, P. Cornish 514, Charlie Grunenwald 510, Ray DuBois 509 and Harry Wilber 507.

Maylahn Hits 557

Hans Maylahn's 557 (186-160-211) was best-of-the-night in the Junior Major, with Paul Khederian toppling 536 and Fred Buchanan hitting 202-531. E. Bartroff posted 224-522, Eddie Esposito 507, Frank Mehm, Jr., 503 and Herbie Sleight 501.

Team results:

Shults Paint 2, Haber's Grill 1; Five-in-One 2, Donnaruma-Augustine 1; Esposito's 1, Al's Sea Food 2; American Legion 2, Ertel's 1.

Mary Leach rolled the high triple of 124-165-166-455 in the Women's Junior Major. Arlene Raible trailed with 428, Yolanda Benincasa had 418, D. Meyer 416, M. O'Donnell 412, Mabel Mackey 410, E. Korth 408, Carol Enright 403, Fran Hogan 402. Dot Brandt converted the 6-7-10 split.

Team results:

Mac's Market 2, Tropical Inn 1; Schilling Sales 1, Hilltoppers 2; Rosendale Florist 3, Colonial Cleaners 0; JP's 2, Elston Sport Shop 1.

Pat Pearson was top shooter in the BYA League last night with 125, 110, 186 for 421. Five pins behind trailed Gen. Whitmore with 416 and Betty Douglas fired 413.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST
By Hal Sharp

CAMPFIRE TRICKS

DRY PINE NEEDLES FOUND IN HOLLOW LOGS ARE GOOD FIRE STARTERS IN WET WEATHER.

Two Sox Sign

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—Pitcher Joe Dobson and outfielder Jim Rivera returned their signed 1953 contracts today to bring to 26 the number of players in the Chicago White Sox fold for the coming season.

Eddie Yost, of the Washington Senators won the "walking man" title for 1952 in the American League. Yost received 129 bases on balls.

Hogan Temporarily Shelves Retirement To Carve Out '65'

Palm Springs, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—Golf's famous little slugger, Ben Hogan, remained temporarily out of retirement today, doubtless to the distress of the active members of the profession.

Hogan emerged from the sides to play in the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational, and proceeded to torture the course with a seven-under-par 65 to share the lead after the first round yesterday.

The co-leader was veteran Dutch Harrison, and trailing behind were 23 other professionals out of the select 30 invited here who shot sub par golf.

Included in this array was still another grand "oldtimer," Byron Nelson, who foresook his ranch at Roanoke, Tex., long enough to play here and score a fine 68.

Thunderbird is hardly three years old. Its expensively created course—a 6,300 yard carpet of green stretching out on an otherwise barren, sunbaked desert—has par of 36-36-72.

Teeing off today, the nearest threat to the leaders was Jim Turnesa with 34-32-66.

Excess Weight Hampers Dykes

Philadelphia, Jan. 20 (AP)—Philadelphia's Gil Turner will tip the scales at 149 or 150 pounds for his ten round outsized bout with Bobby Dykes of Miami here tonight.

But the lanky Florida boxer is having trouble making even the 154-pound limit agreed to earlier. The welter limit is 147.

Dykes, who has relinquished all claims as a welter contender because of his weight, was two pounds over the limit at a practice weigh-in yesterday.

Lou Viscusi, co-manager of the six foot Dykes, was hoping an overnight "drying out" process would have the Dixie battler within the limit.

Lomontville AC Trips Whiz Kids

A group of Kingston basketeers playing under the Lomontville A. C. banner downed the Saugerties Whiz Kids, 68-51, in a preliminary last night at the upriver village.

Martin holed 17 points for the locals. Peer hit 13, Branner 12 and Madison 11. Pierson of the Whiz Kids was high scorer with 21 points.

The score:

Lomontville A. C. (68)—Peck f 9, Madison f 11 Martin c 17, Brannen g 12, Peer g 13, Amato g 6.

Whiz Kids (51)—Lang f 4, Ball f 2, Donlon f 5, Iaonne c 8, Stafford g 11, Pierson g 21.

One of Michigan State's most promising young wrestlers, sophomore Ted Lennox, is totally blind.

Bill Abbott, forward on the San Jose State basketball team, is an accomplished trumpet player.

HEADWORK — Ed Conlin seemingly emulates a soccer player using his head to butt the ball down court against Seton Hall in a game at Fordham which saw the all-conquering New Jersey quintet extend its streak to 16 toppling the Rams from the nation's unbeaten ranks, 69-62. (NEA)

Montreal—Armand Savoie, 134, Montreal, outpointed Glen Flanagan, 131½, St. Paul, Minn. (10).

Former High Goes Under by 354

Chicago, Ill. — The "Golden Jubilee" tournament of the American Bowling Congress, which opens in the Chicago Coliseum on February 21, is now assured of being the ABC's greatest tournament from a standpoint of entries and prize money.

Frank K. Baker, ABC secretary, announced three days after the close of entries, that a check of figures at the tournament office here revealed 8,089 teams; 14,207 doubles; 28,487 singles and 22,982 all-events entries on the books. Every one of the marks is a new record.

Tournament Director Charlie Treuter announced at the same time that the more than 40,000 bowlers entered will be rolling for a prize fund which will exceed $550,000. The highest previous prize fund was the $455,940 distributed at the conclusion of the 1952 ABC in Milwaukee.

"There is sure to be a variation in the above figures," Baker explained, "since it is reasonable to assume that some entries from outlying districts, postmarked prior to the deadline, have not yet been received. Joe Smolen, our entries manager, has been unable to process a number of entries because requested dates are not available. If available dates are acceptable, these entries will be processed later."

Wisconsin bowlers created a new non-host state record when they surpassed the 1,520 team record entered by Pennsylvania in the 1949 ABC at Atlantic City.

The ABC's 50th anniversary tournament will run a record number of 93 days ending on May 24.

Former entry records and host cities are:

Team — 7,735, Milwaukee in 1952.

Doubles — 14,018, Detroit in 1948.

Singles — 27,965, Detroit in 1948.

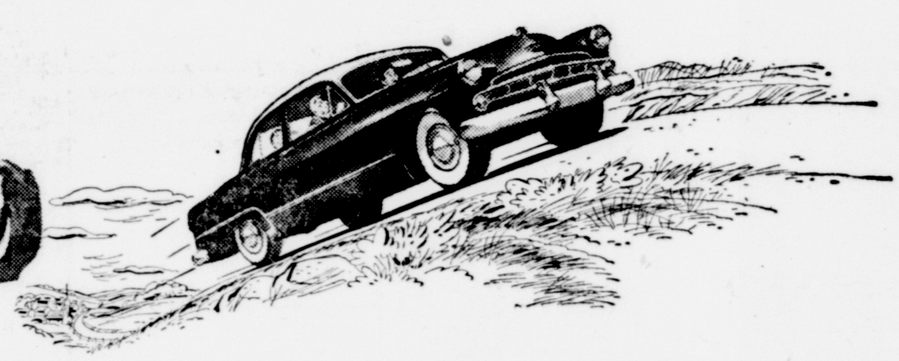

All-Events — 21,054, Detroit in 1948.

Frank M. (Bruiser) Kinard, assistant football coach at Mississippi, joined the coaching staff in Jan. 1948, just 10 years after his final game for Ole Miss.

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Shore leaves have been denied to 186 of the 746 crewmen on the French liner Ile De France, here for the first time since the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act became effective. U. S. immigration officials, who flew to France and screened the crewmen on the liner's voyage west, barred the 185 under terms of the law which requires incoming alien seamen to sign questionnaires concerning possible Communist or criminal connections and other subjects. The Ile De France arrived yesterday.

Hurd Says State

In other major actions atop Capitol Hill:

1. Republican Sen. Henry A. Wise of Watertown said he would propose a state-wide probe of local welfare costs and would move again to have present secrecy provisions lifted from home-relief rolls.

Would Extend Deadline

2. GOP Sen. George T. Manning of Rochester, at the request of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau, introduced a bill that would extend to March 2 the deadline for obtaining 1953 truck and trailer registrations. The 1952 plates now are scheduled to expire Feb. 2. The move is intended to give the state time to iron out a controversy over a new system of computing fees.

3. Sen. Earl Brydges of Niagara Falls, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, proposed that the number of $350 a year state scholarships be doubled from the present 1,500 to 3,000. Brydges also proposed that 150 new $350 a year scholarships be created for students who plan to become teachers.

Declines Comment

On the state salary issue, McFarland declined comment, pending a study of Hurd's letter.

Hurd said in the letter that "since October 1942, the first year for which information on average state salaries is available, the consumers price index has increased 60 per cent, the New York Federal Reserve Bank index of clerical and professional wages has increased 80 per cent and the composite of all wages and salaries has increased 94 per cent.

"The average state salary during this same period has increased 116 per cent, based upon figures compiled by the Division of Personnel Research in the Department of Civil Service."

State workers received a 6 per cent emergency increase last April 1. The boost, which cost about 10½ million dollars, was added to a cost-of-living increase of about 24 million authorized in 1950.

France Agrees

Paris, Jan. 20 (AP)—France announced today she has agreed to take part in four power deputy foreign minister talks in London Jan. 30 on a treaty of independence for Austria. The U. S. issued the invitations. Britain has already announced her acceptance. There has been no reply thus far from the Soviet Union.

Back From Germany

Pfc. John J. Sestiti of Saugerties was listed among military personnel on the USNS General Patch, which arrived in New York from Germany today, The Associated Press said.

$150 Donations for Polio Fund

Donations from two organizations enriched the March of Dimes fund yesterday by $150. Attorney William A. Kelly, county chairman, seated, accepts checks from President William B. Volunteers Are Praised During Rescue Banquet

At the annual banquet of Rescue Hook & Ladder Company, Sunday evening, in the San-Bar, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy praised the volunteer firemen for their cooperation and spirit as civic minded residents of the community.

"It is a privilege and honor to dine with you and your wives," he told the group of approximately 100, who turned out for the social event.

"Keeping up with the advances made in fire fighting is costly," the chief said, but with each innovation comes greater protection he stressed as he suggested that fire apparatus be equipped with the two-way radios.

The chief said a detail of three men in a radio car could give data as to the severity of a fire and call out the type of equipment needed to fight the flames.

The car would be equipped with a booster tank for immediate use, and the trio of firemen have masks and other paraphernalia to permit immediate action.

Mayor Praises Vols

Mayor Newkirk praised the volunteers for their service to the city and said he appreciated their efforts.

Others at the speakers' table, introduced by Alderman Thomas Coughlin, toastmaster, were Aldeman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Louis Bucholtz, foreman and Fire Commissioners Harold Van Bramer, chairman of the fire board, and Frank Burr. Commissioner Charles Derrenbacher was absent because of illness in his family.

Officers of the company introduced by Alderman Coughlin were Edward Bruck, assistant foreman; Charles Diers, second assistant foreman, and Joseph Radel, secretary for 48 years.

Coughlin called for action on a plan to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the company in 1955, and gave a brief but interesting history of Rescue Hook, which was organized on January 29, 1855.

"Rescue has set a good example for all volunteer fire-fighting organizations in the city," he said, "and it is our intention to carry on the tradition by answering any and all calls for help."

lic hearings into dockland rackets yesterday with Di Brizzi and one of his aides taking the spotlight from several other witnesses. It was the first time the commission—whose previous hearings covered piers in New Jersey, Brooklyn and Manhattan—concentrated on Staten Island.

Object of the commission's inquiry is to expose waterfront rackets that are taking an estimated 350 million dollars a year from the seven billion dollar shipping industry here. The commission cannot prosecute, but may make recommendations for new legislation. Its testimony also has led indirectly to later criminal prosecutions.

Di Brizzi, a former boxer in his sixties, said he "didn't do nothing" for a total of $2,040 in cash "gifts" the commission said he received from 11 employing stevedore firms between 1947 and 1951.

Says Local in Red

On the subject of dues, Di Brizzi said the Staten Island ILA local, which he has headed for more than 20 years, now is $3,000 or $4,000 in the red. He put present dues collections at $32,000 a year.

The ILA official said dues were collected each wek and he used the money for union expenses. He said he gave a list of disbursements and what money was left over to Joseph B. Franklin, the financial secretary of the Staten Island local.

Franklin had testified earlier yesterday that he entered Di Brizzi's list of expenses in his books and then "threw the lists away, of course." Both Franklin and Di Brizzi said they didn't know where the books with pre-1951 records were. Franklin said the union local did not have a bank account until last spring, after the commission started its probe. Before that, Franklin said, he kept the cash balance in a drawer or jar at his home.

Denies Spy Charge

Heidelberg, Germany, Jan 20 (AP)—The U. S. Army's European headquarters today denied a Polish Foreign Ministry charge that it trained and parachuted two spies into Poland. It said it has "no knowledge" of the alleged two spies and "does not operate a school for the training of spies in Frankfurt or vicinity," as the foreign ministry had claimed in a note delivered to the U. S. Embassy in Warsaw Jan. 16.

Would Shift Primaries

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—A proposal to switch New Jersey primary elections from April to June loomed today as a big issue in the State Legislature. Reports during a brief meeting of the state's two legislative houses yesterday pointed to approval of the bill by the Senate and its rejection by the Assembly.

Fog Blots Out England

London, Jan. 20 (AP)—Fog blotted out more than two-thirds of England today, disrupting land, sea and air travel. It was the most widespread of this winter's four big grayouts. More than 30 of England's 43 counties were affected.

Shiny Police Caps

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—Chicago traffic policemen are wearing a new type of cap—to make them more visible to motorists. They were issued white poplin cap covers, with a band of luminous material around the base of uniform caps. The innovation was ordered as an added safety measure and was the first major change in police headgear since derbies gave way to the dark blue caps still in use.

Health for All

THE SAFE WAY

Before the discovery of the X-ray in 1895, diagnosis of tuberculosis was largely a matter of chance. Too often the diagnosis was made after the disease was in an advanced stage and hope for recovery slim.

But today the X-ray has made possible the early discovery of tuberculosis. If there are signs of tuberculosis in the lungs, the chest X-ray will reveal them. If the lungs are clear and healthy, the chest X-ray will show that, too.

A chest X-ray is quick and painless. It takes but a few seconds. All you do is stand in front of the machine, take a deep breath, and it's all over. There is no discomfort or annoyance. You don't even have to undress. It can't do you any harm. The only possible harm lies in not having a chest X-ray.

It is those of us who do not have a chest X-ray once a year who are taking chances. By not having chest X-rays, many of us leave to chance the state of our own health, the health of our families, of our neighbors, of our community.

Tuberculosis is an insidious disease which strikes without obvious outward symptoms. It is spread from person to person, by those who have the disease. As many as 265,000 persons with active tuberculosis can easily be spreading TB in the United States today, according to the 1951-52 Annual Report of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Many of these persons do not know that they have TB or that they are spreading it to others. Chest X-rays will held find them. To help protect all of us, every adult 15 years and older should have a chest X-ray once a year. You can have TB without knowing it, but a chest X-ray can detect it early, when it is easiest to cure.

A diagnosis of tuberculosis is never made on the basis of X-ray films alone. If the film shows an unusual condition in the chest, other tests are made to determine whether TB is present.

A chest X-ray once a year is the safe way of making sure that, if you do have TB, the disease will be discovered early, when recovery is the rule. If you don't have tuberculosis, the X-ray will show that too. It's the safe way of making sure.

213 Are Rounded Up As Naguib Enemies

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 20 (AP)—A roundup of suspected plotters against the government of Premier Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib has netted 213 persons, including 48 Communists, an Egyptian cabinet minister announced last night.

Fuad Galal, minister of national guidance, said that 39 others of those seized were suspected of having relations with foreign powers "which have the interest of creating agitation in Egypt." The foreign countries were not specified.

The government launched the round-up last week and accused the Communists of plotting with members of the once-powerful Wafdist Party to oust Naguib. The announcement was made after Naguib ordered dissolution of all political parties and confiscation of their assets on grounds that they were endangering national unity.

Police reinforcements were rushed to the scene and the area was blocked off by 50 officers armed with shotguns and machine guns. Searchlights were brought into play. The police had been summoned by tenants, who heard the shots.

Has Broken Ankle

Moments later, police found a man identified as Eugene McGuire, 37, a chauffeur, on 85th street with a broken ankle. Police said he apparently had jumped from the hotel's second-floor beauty shop.

Search of the shop uncovered two other alleged gang members, identified as Charles Lloyd, 40, a dock worker, and Cornelius Cooley, 44.

Three other men were found on the roof hiding in an alcove. Police identified this trio as Robert McManus, 46, Adam Pollak, 35, and Robert Turney, 33, a longshoreman. All gave Manhattan address except Pollak who said he was from Jackson Heights, Queens.

Must Stay on Ship

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Shore leaves have been denied to 186 of the 746 crewmen on the French liner Ile De France, here for the first time since the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act became effective. U. S. immigration officials, who flew to France and screened the crewmen on the liner's voyage west, barred the 185 under terms of the law which requires incoming alien seamen to sign questionnaires concerning possible Communist or criminal connections and other subjects. The Ile De France arrived yesterday.

Hurd Says State

pay highlighted routine legislative developments in the absence of many top Republicans, who were in Washington for the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In other major actions atop Capitol Hill:

1. Republican Sen. Henry A. Wise of Watertown said he would propose a state-wide probe of local welfare costs and would move again to have present secrecy provisions lifted from home-relief rolls.

Would Extend Deadline

2. GOP Sen. George T. Manning of Rochester, at the request of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau, introduced a bill that would extend to March 2 the deadline for obtaining 1953 truck and trailer registrations. The 1952 plates now are scheduled to expire Feb. 2. The move is intended to give the state time to iron out a controversy over a new system of computing fees.

3. Sen. Earl Brydges of Niagara Falls, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, proposed that the number of $350 a year state scholarships be doubled from the present 1,500 to 3,000. Brydges also proposed that 150 new $350 a year scholarships be created for students who plan to become teachers.

Declines Comment

On the state salary issue, McFarland declined comment, pending a study of Hurd's letter.

Hurd said in the letter that "since October 1942, the first year for which information on average state salaries is available, the consumers price index has increased 60 per cent, the New York Federal Reserve Bank index of clerical and professional wages has increased 80 per cent and the composite of all wages and salaries has increased 94 per cent.

"The average state salary during this same period has increased 116 per cent, based upon figures compiled by the Division of Personnel Research in the Department of Civil Service."

State workers received a 6 per cent emergency increase last April 1. The boost, which cost about 10½ million dollars, was added to a cost-of-living increase of about 24 million authorized in 1950.

France Agrees

Paris, Jan. 20 (AP)—France announced today she has agreed to take part in four power deputy foreign minister talks in London Jan. 30 on a treaty of independence for Austria. The U. Volunteers Are Praised During Rescue Banquet

At the annual banquet of Rescue Hook & Ladder Company, Sunday evening, in the San-Bar, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy praised the volunteer firemen for their cooperation and spirit as civic minded residents of the community.

"It is a privilege and honor to dine with you and your wives," he told the group of approximately 100, who turned out for the social event.

"Keeping up with the advances made in fire fighting is costly," the chief said, but with each innovation comes greater protection he stressed as he suggested that fire apparatus be equipped with the two-way radios.

The chief said a detail of three men in a radio car could give data as to the severity of a fire and call out the type of equipment needed to fight the flames.

The car would be equipped with a booster tank for immediate use, and the trio of firemen have masks and other paraphernalia to permit immediate action.

Mayor Praises Vols

Mayor Newkirk praised the volunteers for their service to the city and said he appreciated their efforts.

Others at the speakers' table, introduced by Alderman Thomas Coughlin, toastmaster, were Aldeman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Louis Bucholtz, foreman and Fire Commissioners Harold Van Bramer, chairman of the fire board, and Frank Burr. Commissioner Charles Derrenbacher was absent because of illness in his family.

Officers of the company introduced by Alderman Coughlin were Edward Bruck, assistant foreman; Charles Diers, second assistant foreman, and Joseph Radel, secretary for 48 years.

Coughlin called for action on a plan to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the company in 1955, and gave a brief but interesting history of Rescue Hook, which was organized on January 29, 1855.

"Rescue has set a good example for all volunteer fire-fighting organizations in the city," he said, "and it is our intention to carry on the tradition by answering any and all calls for help."

lic hearings into dockland rackets yesterday with Di Brizzi and one of his aides taking the spotlight from several other witnesses. It was the first time the commission—whose previous hearings covered piers in New Jersey, Brookiyn and Manhattan—concentrated on Staten Island.

Object of the commission's inquiry is to expose waterfront rackets that are taking an estimated 350 million dollars a year from the seven billion dollar shipping industry here. The commission cannot prosecute, but may make recommendations for new legislation. Its testimony also has led indirectly to later criminal prosecutions.

Di Brizzi, a former boxer in his sixties, said he "didn't do nothing" for a total of $2,040 in cash "gifts" the commission said he received from 11 employing stevedore firms between 1947 and 1951.

Says Local in Red

On the subject of dues, Di Brizzi said the Staten Island ILA local, which he has headed for more than 20 years, now is $3,000 or $4,000 in the red. He put present dues collections at $32,000 a year.

The ILA official said dues were collected each wek and he used the money for union expenses. He said he gave a list of disbursements and what money was left over to Joseph B. Franklin, the financial secretary of the Staten Island local.

Franklin had testified earlier yesterday that he entered Di Brizzi's list of expenses in his books and then "threw the lists away, of course." Both Franklin and Di Brizzi said they didn't know where the books with pre-1951 records were. Franklin said the union local did not have a bank account until last spring, after the commission started its probe. Before that, Franklin said, he kept the cash balance in a drawer or jar at his home.

Heidelberg, Germany, Jan 20 (AP)—The U. S. Army's European headquarters today denied a Polish Foreign Ministry charge that it trained and parachuted two spies into Poland. S. Embassy in Warsaw Jan. 16.

Health for All

THE SAFE WAY

Before the discovery of the X-ray in 1895, diagnosis of tuberculosis was largely a matter of chance. Too often the diagnosis was made after the disease was in an advanced stage and hope for recovery slim.

But today the X-ray has made possible the early discovery of tuberculosis. If there are signs of tuberculosis in the lungs, the chest X-ray will reveal them. If the lungs are clear and healthy, the chest X-ray will show that, too.

A chest X-ray is quick and painless. It takes but a few seconds. All you do is stand in front of the machine, take a deep breath, and it's all over. There is no discomfort or annoyance. You don't even have to undress. It can't do you any harm. The only possible harm lies in not having a chest X-ray.

It is those of us who do not have a chest X-ray once a year who are taking chances. By not having chest X-rays, many of us leave to chance the state of our own health, the health of our families, of our neighbors, of our community.

Tuberculosis is an insidious disease which strikes without obvious outward symptoms. It is spread from person to person, by those who have the disease. As many as 265,000 persons with active tuberculosis can easily be spreading TB in the United States today, according to the 1951-52 Annual Report of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Many of these persons do not know that they have TB or that they are spreading it to others. Chest X-rays will held find them. To help protect all of us, every adult 15 years and older should have a chest X-ray once a year. You can have TB without knowing it, but a chest X-ray can detect it early, when it is easiest to cure.

A diagnosis of tuberculosis is never made on the basis of X-ray films alone. If the film shows an unusual condition in the chest, other tests are made to determine whether TB is present.

A chest X-ray once a year is the safe way of making sure that, if you do have TB, the disease will be discovered early, when recovery is the rule. If you don't have tuberculosis, the X-ray will show that too. It's the safe way of making sure.

213 Are Rounded Up As Naguib Enemies

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 20 (AP)—A roundup of suspected plotters against the government of Premier Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib has netted 213 persons, including 48 Communists, an Egyptian cabinet minister announced last night.

Fuad Galal, minister of national guidance, said that 39 others of those seized were suspected of having relations with foreign powers "which have the interest of creating agitation in Egypt." The foreign countries were not specified.

The government launched the round-up last week and accused the Communists of plotting with members of the once-powerful Wafdist Party to oust Naguib. The announcement was made after Naguib ordered dissolution of all political parties and confiscation of their assets on grounds that they were endangering national unity.

'We Who Are Free' to remove the causes of mutual fear and distrust among nations, and so make possible drastic reduction of armaments. The sole requisites for undertaking such effort are that—in their purpose—they be aimed logically and honestly toward secure peace for all; and that—in their result—

(2) Realizing that common sense and common decency alike dictate the futility of appeasement, we shall never try to placate an aggressor by the false and wicked bargain of trading honor for security. For in the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains.

Viewed As Trust

(3) Knowing that only a United States that is strong and immensely productive can help defend freedom in our world, we view our nation's strength and security as a trust upon which rests the hope of free men everywhere. It is the firm duty of each of our free citizens and of every free citizen everywhere to place the cause of his country before the comfort of himself.

(4) Honoring the identity and heritage of each nation of the world, we shall never use our strength to try to impress upon another people our own cherished political and economic institutions.

(5) Assessing realistically the needs and capacities of proven friends of freedom, we shall strive to help them to achieve their own security and well-being. Likewise, we shall count upon them to assume, within the limits of their resources, their full and just burdens in the common defense of freedom.

Poverty Endangers All

(6) Recognizing economic health as an indispensable basis of military strength and the free world's peace, we shall strive to foster everywhere, and to practice ourselves, policies that encourage productivity and profitable trade. For the impoverishment of any single peoples in the world means danger to the well-being of all other peoples.

(7) Appreciating that economic need, military security and political wisdom combine to suggest regional groupings of free peoples, we hope, within the framework of the United Nations, to help strengthen such special bonds the world over. The nature of these ties must vary with the different problems of different areas.

In the Western Hemisphere, we join with all our neighbors in the work of perfecting a community of fraternal trust and common purpose.

In Europe, we ask that enlightened and inspired leaders of western nations strive with renewed vigor to make the unity of their peoples a reality. Only as free Europe unitedly marshals its strength can it effectively safeguard, even with our help, its spiritual and cultural treasures.

For Equal Regard

(8) Conceiving the defense of freedom, like freedom itself, to be one and indivisible, we hold all continents and peoples in equal regard and honor. We reject any insinuation that one race or another, one people or another, is in any sense inferior or expendable.

(9) Respecting the United Nations as the living sign of all people's hope for peace, we shall strive to make it not merely an eloquent symbol but an effective force. And in our quest of honorable peace, we shall neither compromise, nor tire, nor ever cease. * * *

These rules of conduct, we hope to be known to all peoples.

By their observance, an earth of peace may become not a vision but a face.

This hope—this supreme aspiration—must rule the way we live.

We must be ready to dare all for our country. For history does not long entrust the care of freedom to the weak or the timid. We must acquire proficiency in defense and display stamina in purpose.

Must Accept Sacrifices

We must be willing, individually and as a nation, to accept whatever sacrifices may be required of us. A people that values its privileges above its principles soon loses both.

These basic precepts are not lofty abstractions, far removed from matters of daily living. They are laws of spiritual strength that generate and define our material strength. Patriotism means equipped forces and a prepared citizenry. Normal stamina means more energy and more productivity, on the farm and in the factory. Love of liberty means the guarding of every resource that makes freedom possible—from the sanctity of our families and the wealth of our soil to the genius of our scientists.

So each citizen plays an indispensable role. The productivity of our heads, our hands and our hearts is the source of all the strength we can command, for both the enrichment of our lives and the winning of peace.

For Wisdom and Conscience

No person, no home, no community can be beyond the reach of this call. We are summoned to act in wisdom and in conscience; to work with industry, to teach with persuasion, to preach with conviction, to weigh our every deed with care and compassion. For this truth must be clear before us: Whatever America hopes to bring to pass in the world must first come to pass in the heart of America.

The peace we seek, then, is nothing less than the practice and the fulfillment of our whole faith, among ourselves and in our dealings with others. It signifies more than stilling the guns, easing the sorrow, of war.

More than a haven for the weary, it is a hope for the brave.

This is the hope that beckons us onward in this century of trial. This is the work that awaits us all, to be done with bravery, with charity—and with prayer to Almighty God.

Will Get Less Than Truman

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—As President, Dwight D. Eisenhower will receive about $39,000 less in take-home pay than his predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

The latter wanted Congress to remove this difference by retaining the same tax exemption on a $50,000 expense allowance that Truman enjoyed. Eisenhower himself made no comment and Congress, which had to act by Jan. 20 for the new President to benefit, did nothing about it after a House Committee rejected the bill.

Here's the way Truman figured out his own and Eisenhower's pay:

Truman		Eisenhower
Annual salary	$100,000	Annual Salary	$100,000
Tax-free expense allowance	50,000	Taxable allowance	50,000
Total	150,000	Total	150,000
Tax on salary alone	56,000	Tax on full amount	95,000
Take-home pay	94,000	Take-home pay	55,000

Seven Men Killed,

turned, caught fire and sank, killing five more.

The British officer said 10 of the 14 were rescued by the Powell. He expressed belief that if the four missing had remained afloat, they would have been found in the intensive search during which his vessel remained 36 hours within sight of Communist shore batteries.

Hamer said tide and winds in the strait would keep survivors, if any, from drifting to the Communist mainland.

Seven of the survivors were from the Neptune and three from the mariner crew.

Search Is Abandoned

U. S. naval headquarters at Sangley Point, Philippines, said the search was abandoned Monday night "after a thorough sweep of the entire area indicated there was no possibility of survivors."

Sangley officials said the three rescued coast guard plane crewmen are Lt. John Vukic, Pittsburgh; Chief Aviation Machinist Mate Joseph M. Miller, Jr., Long Beach, Calif., and Aviation Structural Mechanic 3/c Robert F. Jewitt, San Diego.

Names of the seven navy survivors were withheld.

U. S. naval officers at Hong Kong speculated that some of the missing fliers might be prisoners of the Communists. These officers, of the patrol frigate Everett, said any survivors with life rafts had a fair chance of reaching the China coast. This could mean trial and imprisonment by the Reds.

Neptune Shot Down

A spokesman at Pacific fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor said Chinese Communist shore guns shot down the Neptune and later fired on a destroyer attempting to rescue the survivors.

The spokesman said the destroyer, which he did not identify, was not damaged. He said he did not know whether the destroyer returned the Red fire.

Sketchy reports indicated still another U. S. plane, circling over the crash scene, was fired upon and chased by an unidentified aircraft—presumably Communist.

A reliable source at Taipeh said the plane suffered only slight damage and returned to its base without casualties.

Orchids for Mamie

Eisenhower Becomes 34th President

hower has chosen for his cabinet attended the service with him.

Long before the set hour, thousands began gathering at the capitol for the wearing-in ceremony—the seal of the voters endorsement of Eisenhower's "great crusade."

The seats were reserved, however, and the real scramble was along the Pennsylvania avenue parade route from the capitol to the White House.

By daylight, people were setting up folding chairs at spots not preempted by wooden football field type stands erected by the parade committee.

It was cloudy and foggy in the morning hours but the sun broke through briefly at 9:55 a. m. The temperature then was 41.

The Weather Bureau forecast probable showers by nightfall but looked for rain to hold off until after the parade.

First TV Inauguration

For the first time, television watchers from coast to coast were able to see an inauguration at the moment it was taking place.

And many millions at home planned to look on, along with the on-the-spot thousands massed in Capitol Plaza, as the Texas-born, Kansas-reared Eisenhower accepted the honor and the burdens conferred on him by overwhelming vote of the American people last Nov 4.

Nixon Takes Oath

"I-Day," with its administering of the presidential oath by Chief Justice Fred Vinson, brought elevation to Richard M. Nixon, too. A fellow Californian, Sen. William F. Knowland, arranged to administer his oath as vice president, just before the swearing-in of Eisenhower.

Today's ceremony came eight years, seven months and 14 days after another peak in the career of the incoming President. It was on June 6, 1944, as supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, that Eisenhower set in motion the D-Day onslaught which was to crush Nazi Germany.

Now, as commander in chief and as chief executive, the former five-star general must cope with the military-political problems of a world again divided—and first of all with a savage, seemingly stalemated conflict in faraway Korea.

He knows the score. He has been in Korea. He has worked as head of the North Atlantic Treaty forces to weld the defenses of the west into a European wall against Communist expansion.

Schedule Tonight

Tonight he'll don white tie and tails, the new first lady will slip into a pink peau-de-soie gown sprinkled with thousands of glittering rhinestones, and off they'll go to the ball. Or, rather, to the two inaugural balls. This windup social event of the first real GOP whingding of its kind since Herbert Hoover's day got so big that no one hall in Washington could contain it.

Tomorrow? It's nose to the grindstone for President Eisenhower.

Some of his work he inherited from Harry Truman, who vacated the big oval executive office at 4 p. m. yesterday Other problems were sure to arise daily—as they have for every President beginning with that earlier general who won elevation to a higher post, George Washington.

Congestion Is Problem

Nobody but top officials, with their motorcycle escorts, could get any place in a hurry yesterday or today. Even before the big inaugural parade up Pennsylvania avenue split Washington into north and south sectors, traffic congestion was fierce.

Seldom if ever in its long history of spectacles has the capital seen anything like this.

About the only break, in the general jollification was the solemn interval today when Nixon, then Eisenhower, were to rest their hands on treasured Bibles and swear before God to perform their duties faithfully.

The presidential oath is set forth in the Constitution:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

By custom, two additions are made: The incoming President speaks his own name after the "I." And, at the end, he adds the words: "So help me God."

On the eve of accepting this obligation, Dwight Eisenhower and his wife Marie dined together, quietly, in the Hotel Statler's presidential suite, taking no part in the pre-inaugural hilarity that echoed around them.

The soon-to-be first lady took time out for one chore yesterday. She had her hair waved. And—yes, she had those famous bangs shaped and trimmed.

Schools Plan TV Views of Inaugural

Area school children joined millions in the nation today in observing the inauguration ceremony at Washington which made Dwight D. Eisenhower the 34th president of the United States.

Principals of some schools in the city and many in the county arranged for the children either to see the inauguration on their home televison or to attend in groups homes with television sets near schools.

The superintendent in one county district estimated that about half of the 1,200 pupils in the district were able to see history before them on television. Pupils in some of the city schools had the same privilege, but there were not proportionately as many able to avail themselves of the opportunity.

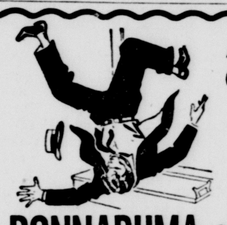

A typical arrangement in the county was that made by Ernest Myer, principal of the Hurley Union Free School No. 4, who said all children were dismissed at 11 a. m. to see the inauguration. Parents picked up the children to take them in groups to homes with television, and they were returned at 1 p. m.

To Expand Airfield

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The army district engineers office here has been authorized to acquire additional land required for expansion of Republic Airfield at Farmingdale. The announcement said expansion is required to permit extension of the runway to accommodate jet aircraft being produced by the Republican Aviation Corporation for the air force.

Viewed As Trust

(3) Knowing that only a United States that is strong and immensely productive can help defend freedom in our world, we view our nation's strength and security as a trust upon which rests the hope of free men everywhere. It is the firm duty of each of our free citizens and of every free citizen everywhere to place the cause of his country before the comfort of himself.

(4) Honoring the identity and heritage of each nation of the world, we shall never use our strength to try to impress upon another people our own cherished political and economic institutions.

(5) Assessing realistically the needs and capacities of proven friends of freedom, we shall strive to help them to achieve their own security and well-being. Likewise, we shall count upon them to assume, within the limits of their resources, their full and just burdens in the common defense of freedom.

Poverty Endangers All

(6) Recognizing economic health as an indispensable basis of military strength and the free world's peace, we shall strive to foster everywhere, and to practice ourselves, policies that encourage productivity and profitable trade. For the impoverishment of any single peoples in the world means danger to the well-being of all other peoples.

(7) Appreciating that economic need, military security and political wisdom combine to suggest regional groupings of free peoples, we hope, within the framework of the United Nations, to help strengthen such special bonds the world over. The nature of these ties must vary with the different problems of different areas.

In the Western Hemisphere, we join with all our neighbors in the work of perfecting a community of fraternal trust and common purpose.

In Europe, we ask that enlightened and inspired leaders of western nations strive with renewed vigor to make the unity of their peoples a reality. Only as free Europe unitedly marshals its strength can it effectively safeguard, even with our help, its spiritual and cultural treasures.

For Equal Regard

(8) Conceiving the defense of freedom, like freedom itself, to be one and indivisible, we hold all continents and peoples in equal regard and honor. We reject any insinuation that one race or another, one people or another, is in any sense inferior or expendable.

(9) Respecting the United Nations as the living sign of all people's hope for peace, we shall strive to make it not merely an eloquent symbol but an effective force. And in our quest of honorable peace, we shall neither compromise, nor tire, nor ever cease. * * *

These rules of conduct, we hope to be known to all peoples.

By their observance, an earth of peace may become not a vision but a face.

This hope—this supreme aspiration—must rule the way we live.

We must be ready to dare all for our country. For history does not long entrust the care of freedom to the weak or the timid. We must acquire proficiency in defense and display stamina in purpose.

Must Accept Sacrifices

We must be willing, individually and as a nation, to accept whatever sacrifices may be required of us. A people that values its privileges above its principles soon loses both.

These basic precepts are not lofty abstractions, far removed from matters of daily living. They are laws of spiritual strength that generate and define our material strength. Patriotism means equipped forces and a prepared citizenry. Normal stamina means more energy and more productivity, on the farm and in the factory. Love of liberty means the guarding of every resource that makes freedom possible—from the sanctity of our families and the wealth of our soil to the genius of our scientists.

So each citizen plays an indispensable role. The productivity of our heads, our hands and our hearts is the source of all the strength we can command, for both the enrichment of our lives and the winning of peace.

For Wisdom and Conscience

No person, no home, no community can be beyond the reach of this call. We are summoned to act in wisdom and in conscience; to work with industry, to teach with persuasion, to preach with conviction, to weigh our every deed with care and compassion. For this truth must be clear before us: Whatever America hopes to bring to pass in the world must first come to pass in the heart of America.

The peace we seek, then, is nothing less than the practice and the fulfillment of our whole faith, among ourselves and in our dealings with others. It signifies more than stilling the guns, easing the sorrow, of war.

More than an escape from death, it is a way of life.

More than a haven for the weary, it is a hope for the brave.

This is the hope that beckons us onward in this century of trial. This is the work that awaits us all, to be done with bravery, with charity—and with prayer to Almighty God.

Will Get Less Than Truman

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—As President, Dwight D. Eisenhower will receive about $39,000 less in take-home pay than his predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

The latter wanted Congress to remove this difference by retaining the same tax exemption on a $50,000 expense allowance that Truman enjoyed. Eisenhower himself made no comment and Congress, which had to act by Jan. 20 for the new President to benefit, did nothing about it after a House Committee rejected the bill.

Here's the way Truman figured out his own and Eisenhower's pay:

Truman		Eisenhower
Annual salary	$100,000	Annual Salary	$100,000
Tax-free expense allowance	50,000	Taxable allowance	50,000
Total	150,000	Total	150,000
Tax on salary alone	56,000	Tax on full amount	95,000
Take-home pay	94,000	Take-home pay	55,000

Seven Men Killed,

turned, caught fire and sank, killing five more.

The British officer said 10 of the 14 were rescued by the Powell. He expressed belief that if the four missing had remained afloat, they would have been found in the intensive search during which his vessel remained 36 hours within sight of Communist shore batteries.

Hamer said tide and winds in the strait would keep survivors, if any, from drifting to the Communist mainland.

Seven of the survivors were from the Neptune and three from the mariner crew.

Search Is Abandoned

U. S. naval headquarters at Sangley Point, Philippines, said the search was abandoned Monday night "after a thorough sweep of the entire area indicated there was no possibility of survivors."

Sangley officials said the three rescued coast guard plane crewmen are Lt. John Vukic, Pittsburgh; Chief Aviation Machinist Mate Joseph M. Miller, Jr., Long Beach, Calif., and Aviation Structural Mechanic 3/c Robert F. Jewitt, San Diego.

Names of the seven navy survivors were withheld.

U. S. naval officers at Hong Kong speculated that some of the missing fliers might be prisoners of the Communists. These officers, of the patrol frigate Everett, said any survivors with life rafts had a fair chance of reaching the China coast. This could mean trial and imprisonment by the Reds.

Neptune Shot Down

A spokesman at Pacific fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor said Chinese Communist shore guns shot down the Neptune and later fired on a destroyer attempting to rescue the survivors.

The spokesman said the destroyer, which he did not identify, was not damaged. He said he did not know whether the destroyer returned the Red fire.

Sketchy reports indicated still another U. S. plane, circling over the crash scene, was fired upon and chased by an unidentified aircraft—presumably Communist.

A reliable source at Taipeh said the plane suffered only slight damage and returned to its base without casualties.

Orchids for Mamie

Eisenhower Becomes 34th President

hower has chosen for his cabinet attended the service with him.

Long before the set hour, thousands began gathering at the capitol for the wearing-in ceremony—the seal of the voters endorsement of Eisenhower's "great crusade."

The seats were reserved, however, and the real scramble was along the Pennsylvania avenue parade route from the capitol to the White House.

By daylight, people were setting up folding chairs at spots not preempted by wooden football field type stands erected by the parade committee.

It was cloudy and foggy in the morning hours but the sun broke through briefly at 9:55 a. m. The temperature then was 41.

The Weather Bureau forecast probable showers by nightfall but looked for rain to hold off until after the parade.

First TV Inauguration

For the first time, television watchers from coast to coast were able to see an inauguration at the moment it was taking place.

And many millions at home planned to look on, along with the on-the-spot thousands massed in Capitol Plaza, as the Texas-born, Kansas-reared Eisenhower accepted the honor and the burdens conferred on him by overwhelming vote of the American people last Nov 4.

Nixon Takes Oath

"I-Day," with its administering of the presidential oath by Chief Justice Fred Vinson, brought elevation to Richard M. Nixon, too. A fellow Californian, Sen. William F. Knowland, arranged to administer his oath as vice president, just before the swearing-in of Eisenhower.

Today's ceremony came eight years, seven months and 14 days after another peak in the career of the incoming President. It was on June 6, 1944, as supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, that Eisenhower set in motion the D-Day onslaught which was to crush Nazi Germany.

Now, as commander in chief and as chief executive, the former five-star general must cope with the military-political problems of a world again divided—and first of all with a savage, seemingly stalemated conflict in faraway Korea.

He knows the score. He has been in Korea. He has worked as head of the North Atlantic Treaty forces to weld the defenses of the west into a European wall against Communist expansion.

Schedule Tonight

Tonight he'll don white tie and tails, the new first lady will slip into a pink peau-de-soie gown sprinkled with thousands of glittering rhinestones, and off they'll go to the ball. Or, rather, to the two inaugural balls. This windup social event of the first real GOP whingding of its kind since Herbert Hoover's day got so big that no one hall in Washington could contain it.

Tomorrow? It's nose to the grindstone for President Eisenhower.

Some of his work he inherited from Harry Truman, who vacated the big oval executive office at 4 p. m. yesterday Other problems were sure to arise daily—as they have for every President beginning with that earlier general who won elevation to a higher post, George Washington.

Congestion Is Problem

Nobody but top officials, with their motorcycle escorts, could get any place in a hurry yesterday or today. Even before the big inaugural parade up Pennsylvania avenue split Washington into north and south sectors, traffic congestion was fierce.

Seldom if ever in its long history of spectacles has the capital seen anything like this.

About the only break, in the general jollification was the solemn interval today when Nixon, then Eisenhower, were to rest their hands on treasured Bibles and swear before God to perform their duties faithfully.

The presidential oath is set forth in the Constitution:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

By custom, two additions are made: The incoming President speaks his own name after the "I." And, at the end, he adds the words: "So help me God."

On the eve of accepting this obligation, Dwight Eisenhower and his wife Marie dined together, quietly, in the Hotel Statler's presidential suite, taking no part in the pre-inaugural hilarity that echoed around them.

The soon-to-be first lady took time out for one chore yesterday. She had her hair waved. And—yes, she had those famous bangs shaped and trimmed.

Schools Plan TV Views of Inaugural

Area school children joined millions in the nation today in observing the inauguration ceremony at Washington which made Dwight D. Eisenhower the 34th president of the United States.

Principals of some schools in the city and many in the county arranged for the children either to see the inauguration on their home televison or to attend in groups homes with television sets near schools.

The superintendent in one county district estimated that about half of the 1,200 pupils in the district were able to see history before them on television. Pupils in some of the city schools had the same privilege, but there were not proportionately as many able to avail themselves of the opportunity.

A typical arrangement in the county was that made by Ernest Myer, principal of the Hurley Union Free School No. 4, who said all children were dismissed at 11 a. m. to see the inauguration. Parents picked up the children to take them in groups to homes with television, and they were returned at 1 p. m.

To Expand Airfield

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The army district engineers office here has been authorized to acquire additional land required for expansion of Republic Airfield at Farmingdale. The announcement said expansion is required to permit extension of the runway to accommodate jet aircraft being produced by the Republican Aviation Corporation for the air force.
